Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the Bureau of Consumer Protection, if it were a law, would have had the authority to appear before the Insurance Commissioner.

who grants or is empowered to grant any increases in this field.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, would the bureau merely oppose the increase blindly, or would it gather and analyze the facts first?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I think the answer would be that if you headed the bureau yourself, you would not oppose anything blindly. You would gather the facts and present the facts that exist. Whether you favored or opposed, it would be based on facts, not blindly, in either opposing or favoring.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Well, Mr. Speaker, to the extent that I have gathered and analyzed the facts, would it not be duplicating the work of the Insurance Commissioner and his staff; and if I did not gather and analyze the facts, how much attention should be paid to it by the Insurance Commissioner?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the bureau would certainly gather facts. I believe that in the field the gentleman is speaking of there certainly should have been some facts gathered, and certainly there will be a lot more facts gathered, for here certainly is a field that needs to be corrected, and corrected carefully. It is not exactly the fault of the insurance companies; it is not the fault, as some of us see it, of the Insurance Commissioner. Perhaps the fault lies within the scope of the medical profession that cause these increases by the system they use in charging and that they are permitted to charge against the cost of the insurance. This bureau would certainly be permitted and would do an outstanding job in gathering such facts that you and I know exist but do not have at our fingertips or cannot secure at the present time.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Is not the Insurance Commissioner charged with that same responsibility?

Mr. McCANN. He is charged with that responsibility and all those facts, as near as anyone can gather at the present time, are now presented. But I ask you this one question in reply to your question: If you were conducting a hearing today, who besides the Blue Cross and its various officials and the other respective insurance groups appear with the statistics and information? Is there anyone who appears there and presents the scope of the statistics and information dealing with what needs be corrected? The Insurance Commissioner gathers all the information he can gather with his very mediocre staff. Would not this assist in giving the information that is needed, for example, in insurance increases that may be proposed?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Well, Mr. Speaker, the Insurance Commissioner being charged with that responsibility, it seems to me this would be a duplication of effort.

Now, would this same situation apply in a proceedings before the Milk Control Commissioner concerning an increase in the price received by farmers for dairy products?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the Milk Control Commission is a regulatory commission and a Bureau of Consumer Protection would have an opportunity to appear before the Milk Commission, a regulatory commission, to present its facts and findings whether they are pro or con to the subject presented at that time.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, the same publicity issued by advocates of this bill mentioned utility rates. Would the bureau have a staff of accountants, engineers and other experts similar to the staff of the Public Utility Commission for which this House recently voted a biennial appropriation of $3,951,957 in House Bill No. 2386? If not, how could the bureau do as good a job as that staff? If so, how will the bureau pay its staff? Would not such staff be just another duplication of effort with costs to be borne by consumers as taxpayers?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman, of course, has outlined, I believed, if I have kept track, a series of about six questions there. The Bureau of Consumer Protection would have the right to appear before the Public Utility Commission. That is a regulatory commission. The Bureau of Consumer Protection would have the right to have statistics and clerical assistants which would help them to gather the statistics that are needed in presenting the case. Would that be a duplication of work already done? Yes, only to this point. For example, our major cities do have, and have had continually, people representing the public end of it, such as the solicitors, in regard to many hearings of the regulatory commission, such as the Public Utility Commission. What about the numerous smaller communities? Smaller boroughs and townships regarding some of these items, would they not be able to assist in the public case of the items presented to the bureau for example, the Bureau of Public Consumer Protection and would they not be able to assist in presenting the case to the Public Utility Commission so that all the facts and statistics are there? Did we not grant the amount of money that you state? Certainly we did. We have tentatively agreed that is the amount of the appropriation for the Public Utility Commission for the operation for the biennium, 1959-1961. This money is used also in helping to pay those people who are on the payroll of the Public Utility Commission dealing with statisticians and clerical assistants in carrying out the full details of the Public Utility Commission.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Is that not specifically what the Public Utility Commission was created for and what it is specifically charged with? To see that rates are held down to a reasonably amount, to have their staff paid for out of the funds which we have appropriated to them for that purpose?

Mr. McCANN. The Public Utility Commission is specifically charged, if you read the Public Utility Act, with the full responsibility of the rates of public utilities. It lies within the scope of the law under which they operate. The gentleman quite well knows that they do take into consideration these items. When a hearing is held before the Public Utility Commission, and I assume the gentleman has been there on some occasions regarding a client that he may have represented or representing the public within the scope of his community or city, would not the Bureau of Consumer Protection assist in presenting the case of the people, the public, of that community regarding that utility case, whatever it may be, which falls within the scope of the Public Utilities' rights and law, that they must handle?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Well, again I say that is a duplication of effort and expense.

The publicity of this bill appearing in the papers on September 1 talks about millions of dollars being saved to consumers by municipalities which fought rate increases. Is it not a fact that the city of Pittsburgh, which is not regulated by the Public Utility Commission, increased the water bills to the people of Pittsburgh by more than 120 percent in the last eight years?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, would that not be irrelevant to the subject involved? Is there any difference between the water company of the city of Pittsburgh and probably three, four or five hundred authorities in Pennsylvania, none of which fall within the scope of the Public Utility Commission and which fall within the scope of the courts of the County in which they are located or operate their principal office. That decision lies within the courts and this would not in any way affect them. It is irrelevant to the subject being debated.

For example, you could not do anything about taking my water authority in my own community before the Public Utility Commission had they increased the rates to whatever they may have desired.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Then, Mr. Speaker, do I understand that this Consumer Council has not authority to protect the public in these cases which are being served by utility authorities?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, they would have no right to appear before the Public Utility Commission for that is not where the case would be heard, but if a taxpayer's case of any type were to be taken to the courts, for example, of Cameron County, if you have an authority there and they have increased their rates, your only appeal lies in the courts of that county. The Bureau of Consumer Protection could assist you at your hearings in that court in that county regarding presentation of the facts and the statistics that you need as to what the facts actually are in the operation of that authority and whether the rates to which they have increased their rates are proper or should be reduced by the court.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Then I understand this Consumer Council can intervene in any rate case any place in the state of Pennsylvania whether to uphold the Utility Commission or the courts?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the word "intervene" is not proper but to assist, represent, the public. They would have that power.

Mr. TOMPKINS. When does this assistance come in, by request or do they come there and just take up the cudgel?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I did not hear that. Will you repeat, please, sir?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Under what circumstances do they assist them by request only or do they step in and say, now we are going to take care of this case because it involves a rate case on behalf of the consumers?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I am sure that you would have no problem in answering the question that when you try to establish something like this you can only do so much with the budget that is given. I am sure that 99 percent of the time the only thing they could do would be to assist you where they had been requested, in that example, because they could not on their own and take for example, on their own case after case of rate increases under authorities, we will say, and take it on their own into the county courts, unless you intend at sometime in the future to grant them a very large staff of both legal counsel, statistical help and the necessary clerical help with rather a large budget.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Well now, Mr. Speaker, this General

Assembly in this Session has passed a mass transit bill for Pittsburgh and Allegheny County. Would this Consumer Council have any authority in the rate fixing under that bill? My understanding was that the county commissioners have full control over that whole situation.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, if I remember the bill correctly, under House Bill 1297, I believe the county commissioners of Allegheny County, under the law now signed, have within their power the fixing of the rates in that particular mass transit authority. Now then, once they have fixed the rates, what can be done about it? The county commissioners, for example, could be taken to court if the rates were exorbitant. To what courts? The courts of Allegheny County. Now if the case so warranted and it was requested. I am sure the Bureau of Consumer Protection would assist in such a case, but I am very thankful and I know that you are too that in trying to solve this transit problem all over Pennsylvania and to keep public transportation, I do not know of any commissioners that are going to put exorbitant rates on because they certainly want to keep it as low as possible and I do not blame them.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I don't quite agree. The Majority Leader is running around the lot quite a bit and it seems as though he has not been answering very directly most of the questions I have been asking.

I question the right of the Consumer Council in that mass transit bill. But on the other hand, is it not a fact that the Public Utility Commission has regularly suspended all general rate increases that come before it and has investigated them thoroughly whether or not the municipalities file complaints?

Mr. McCANN. I believe the gentleman has stated that and that is the procedure they are following now. I believe that is what they are doing.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Is it not a fact it went to work on the Public Utility Commission and its staff and it saves millions of dollars to consumers while the municipalities rode the coattails and claimed the credit? Is that not just about what the bureau would do too?

Mr. McCANN. They would assist in those fields and they would cover other fields, assist where needed in protecting the public. I believe, Mr. Speaker, that this would assist, for example, many communities that would desire such assistance in cases dealing with public utilities in the scope of the law where they have the right. I think the gentleman is quite well aware that in other states where such laws are now in existence they have been of help and assistance in that very field.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, apropos of my earlier questions, is the bureau going to have experts in labor relations, sales taxes, agriculture, mining, hospital costs, public utilities, dairying and all the other fields in which this bill authorizes it to intervene? Just how big will the staff be? What will be the biennial appropriation required when it becomes full-sized?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I think I answered that question, or parts of that question in a prior statement. I do not think that you can speak for a moment as to whether they would have experts in all those fields, the answer would be no, and the answer would be that they would only be able to do what you permit them to do and how much you want them to do. For example, I am sure that if I were taking the other side, as you are, in this question, if I were to answer, yes, in each of those fields, if they had the right, which they do not, it certainly would take a pretty good-sized budget and a good many experts to assist in those fields and the right is not in the bill.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, under the Administrative Code of 1929, the attorney general has the "control of all the legal business of every administrative department of the state government." Why does the attorney general also need a Consumer Council to appear before those departments? Who is better able to advise the departments on consumer questions, the Consumer Council or the deputy attorney general regularly assigned to that department?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is correct that under the Administrative Code of 1929 this power is vested; there is no question about that. And the deputy attorney general is assigned to the respective bureaus or departments, whatever the case may be.

I think the gentleman will agree though that the Bureau of Consumer Protection, which would also fall under the scope of the Administrative Code of 1929, would grant to the attorney general or, rather, to the Department of Justice this field of protecting of the public as we have debated it here today. I cannot see where one would conflict with the other, for I am confident that they would be attempting to do and present the best statistics, the facts that exist in the cases where they were requested to assist and to assist in helping the public and to serve the public in the sense of protecting the public in every case where they possibly could assist.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, under the Act of 1937, the attorney general appoints all the lawyers on the staff of the Public Utility Commission. Why should the attorney general also appoint a consumer counsel to do legal work before the same Commission?

Mr. McCANN. That is a very small part of it and they would under the Department of Justice, under the attorney general, under the Bureau of Consumer Protection appoint and have the right to appoint that legal counsel which would assist the public, your community, or any community in appearing or assisting in that case.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I merely want to stress one point in closing.

This bill provides for this consumer commission to work in all fields of the executive, judicial and legislative branches of the government.

Earlier this year the present Governor issued an order to the various departments that they were not to pressure the Members of the General Assembly in connection with legislation before it. It seems to me that this bill is a reversal of that policy and I do not favor any board or commission of this government coming into this General Assembly as an independent coordinate branch of the government and trying to pressure or high pressure us one way or the other on legislation. It is to advise us at times we request advice, request administration. We have passed the bill to try to do away with lobbyists and here we are indirectly sitting down and creating a lobby to come in here and pressure this General Assembly in connection with legislation.

I think it is bad legislation. I think it is bad government and I think the bill is bad. I ask that everybody vote against it.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I listened with great interest to the interrogation by the Acting Minority Leader, and certainly some of the questions he asked were well put to clarify the wording in this bill, but at the same time I cannot help realizing that all of his questions were of a technical nature and circumvented the real purposes of this bill.

Just a very short while ago I was tremendously impressed by the letter the Speaker, Hiram Andrews, presented to us in "Dispelling the Fog," in which he discussed this present bill. I was impressed by the questions that were asked in that letter, and it seems to me those questions were ones that cannot be answered in the negative unless we are not being exactly truthful with ourselves in the purposes this bill was designed to further.

I think this is one of the most important bills, as the acting Speaker has said, that is presented to us this year. The taxpayers of this Commonwealth have been imposed upon to the extent of the increase in the sales tax, and they are constantly asking what the General Assembly is doing to protect them. I submit that this bill is the answer we can submit to the taxpayers, because it represents an honest, sincere and bona fide attempt to protect the consuming public.

I am impressed, too, by the fact that all the lobbyists, and all of the people who are opposed to this bill, are people who represent special interests; they do not represent the consuming public. They represent, in large part, people who have been extracting rates from the consuming public, rates that this bill is designed to possibly regulate and reduce.

The gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins, has said something about the Governor's policy with respect to pressure on the General Assembly by Members of the Cabinet and different agencies of the Commonwealth. The gentleman knows full well that there are certain people in the Governor's Cabinet and elsewhere who would like to see this bill killed. Would they like it to be killed because they are interested in protecting the consumers' pocketbooks, or would they like it killed because they feel this is an encroachment upon the powers they have enjoyed in the past? It seems to me the latter answer might very well be the truthful one.

Mr. Speaker, I think this is a novel concept in the laws of Pennsylvania. I think it is a splendid idea. How well it will work I do not know, but for the amount of money we have been requested to appropriate for a concept that is so democratic, I think it is well worth the try, even if it accomplishes nothing.

The Speaker in his missive asks certain questions, and I would like to hear answers that I cannot give him. The questions in that letter are along a line similar to this. Under Section 918 the Bureau of Consumer Protection would have the power to study and represent the viewpoint of the consuming public in matters before any executive legislative or judicial body; what is wrong with that? he asks. I admit there is nothing wrong with it.

Paragraph 2, "to conduct studies, investigations and research in all matters affecting consumer interests and advise the executive and legislative branches on matters affecting consumer interests, assist in developing executive policies and legislative programs to protect the consumer, secure all available information on utility rates, interest rates, insurance rates and costs of commodities and service. What is wrong with that. And so forth throughout the entire language of the bill there is nothing wrong with this that would in any way hurt the consuming public.

I do not know whether I am flaying a dead horse or not, but I suspect, Mr. Speaker, that I might be. Perhaps the views and the die have already been cast but, nevertheless, I think before we cast our votes we ought to know who this bill is designed to protect.

I admit again that there has been a great amount of lobbying against this bill, and I ask the Members to analyze the purposes and the source of those interests who are against the bill. If you can show me where anybody representing the consumers in this Commonwealth are lobbying against this bill, I may very well have a change of heart, but until that time I am going to vote for the bill. I think it is a darn good one, regardless of what you call it or how you characterize it. It is a good bill and it is something that the consumer public is entitled to.

Mr. BELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate one of the two Democrat Members on the Conference Committee on the General Appropriations Bill. Is either of them in the Hall?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen, permit himself to the interrogated?

Mr. POLEN. I will, but the other Member, on the Republican side, Mr. Tompkins, is also in the Hall.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Delaware advise the Chair which of the two gentlemen he wishes to interrogate?

Mr. BELL. My good friend, Mr. Polen, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BELL. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman tell us how much money was appropriated for this Consumers Board under the general appropriations bill?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, there was no money appropriated under the general appropriations bill. The appropriation is contained in the bill before us, 2347.

Mr. BELL. Mr. Speaker, I heard the Majority Leader say there is a tentative agreement of three or so millions of dollars to the Public Utility Commission, and I gathered that was in this Conference Committee.

Is the gentleman at liberty to tell us how much money the Conference Committee will approve for this board?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman yield? The Chair would advise the gentleman that is not a proper question. He is limited to the bill which is before us.

Mr. BELL. Thank you, That is all, Mr. Polen.

I was very interested to hear the Minority and Majority Leaders speak about the Constitution. I have a copy of the Constitution in my hand.

Under Section 1 of Article II the Constitution reads: "The legislative power of this Commonwealth shall be vested in a General Assembly which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives."

I also have in my hand House Bill 2327, Printer's No. 1813, and on page 3 I find that this board is given the power to advise the legislative branches on matters respecting consumers' interests, affecting and developing—I am leaving out a couple of words—legislative programs. Now I am just as jealous of my rights as a Member of this House of Representatives as some of those Cabinet Members are of their rights and duties. I have a consumers' board that advises me. I get letters from them in the postoffice here and at home; I get telephone calls from them. The board that advises me on consumers' matters is made up of my constituents, and I am not going to vote for anything that will interpose an appointed board between me and my constituents when it comes to what is good for the people of Pennsylvania.

Mr. SILVERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the Members on my side of the House to vote against this bill. This bill primarily places a watchdog on the watchdog that safeguards the public utilities and safeguards the people and the rates in Pennsylvania. This is essentially the same bill that Governor Roosevelt vetoed in New York. I would just like to read a paragraph from that veto message.

The entire purpose of this bill is based upon a fundamentally false conception of the proper functions of a Public Service Commission. These duties, in essence, are to see that public utility companies furnish to the consuming public adequate service at fair and reasonable rates, and protect legitimate investors in utility securities. The Public Service Commission has taken over these legislative functions. It is not and never has been merely a court. It is, rather, intended to represent the public interest in connection with various industries of a semi-public character subjected to its jurisdiction.

I do not want to belabor this, but I would like to make a final point. I believe they do have such a consumers' council in Pittsburgh, and I would like to point out that in Pittsburgh the transportation fare is twenty-five cents, while in Philadelphia, where we do not have such a public council, the fare is only twenty cents.

Mr. O'DELL. Mr. Speaker, I rise to make a statement and then I should like to question the Majority Leader.

I am vitally interested in some type of a consumer protecting bill. I am a retailer and as such I realize we need some sort of protection.

Mr. Speaker, I should like to question the Majority Leader.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the Majority Leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. O'DELL. Mr. Speaker, could the gentleman inform us how many states have at this time this type of law?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, to answer his question as to the total number of states that have this type of legislation on their books, I do not know if I could give you the total number of states. I do believe that some of the states that were listed were Massachusetts, California, Rhode Island, Maryland. For example, I know of those four. I am sure there must be others, but I could not name the total.

Mr. O'DELL. I have been very active in the Better Business Bureau for many years. The Better Business Bureaus in the different cities are of course very much interested in a lot of abuses in the retail business. New York does have a Division of Consumer Frauds and Protection maintained by the state of New York through the Attorney General's office. This bureau is quoted by practically all of the states. I have a quotation here from Louisville, Kentucky, telling how much good this office is accomplishing in protecting the small consumer in New York State. There are a few other questions I would like to ask.

Would this bill protect the small home owner? Say, last year, if you will remember, when we had a hearing on the garnishee bill, one of the union men bemoaned the fact that there was nothing in our Pennsylvania law to protect the small home owner. He quoted one of their union men being approached by a man to sell him storm windows which he did not buy, but in leaving the man asked him to sign a slip that he had called on him and given him his sales pitch because if he did he would get $5 commission for making the call. He signed the slip, like a good fellow, and then to his dismay found that he had signed up for a complete set of storm windows. Now, would this bill protect a man of that type?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I could not answer emphatically that it would protect the items that he outlined carefully, but on page 4, to prosecute such violation of laws or regulations affecting consumers in the sale and servicing of consumer goods and products as its investigations or studies may reveal and to recommend action by other law enforcement agencies."

The cases that you have outlined, the question involved, I assume that the parties involved signed a contract agreement of some type. Many times the only question involved in the contract agreement is that you have signed the contract, but when the good old high pressure salesman was talking to you he forgot to mention the 33 other paragraphs in the contract. That is a question of is it fraud or is it misrepresentation? At some of the hearings that have been held the people involved will suggest better protection bureaus in cities, go after some of these people as fast as they can. One of the things they do is they move out of that area into another area very quickly. They disappear out of Erie and all of a sudden they pop up in Pittsburgh, then a few weeks later, when things get a little hot they operate in some other city and let us say that in my opinion they are not legitimate business men to begin with.

Mr. O'DELL. That is my sentiment also. They are not. The thing I am interested in in Pennsylvania is a bill that would protect as much as possible this type of people.

If this bill should be passed, would it not be necessary to establish offices all over the entire Commonwealth to administer this bill? Would not this thing mushroom into thousands and thousands and thousands of dollars in expense to the taxpayers?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the answer to the gentleman's question would be "no" you could not have offices all over Pennsylvania in any way, there would be the central office here as you would call it in Harrisburg, even though from this office would go, for example, such action to your own county, or city, or court, as it may be needed.

Mr. O'DELL. I thank the gentleman.

As I said in my opening remark, I am vitally interested in any type of bill that will protect the small consumer who buys storm windows, washers, even jewelry, but I do not believe that this bill as it is presently written is that type of bill. I think we should eventually in Pennsylvania pass a bill patterned after New York's bill. Therefore I am going to vote against it, and ask everyone on this side of the House to vote against it.

Mr. SELTZER. Mr. Speaker, would the Majority Leader consent to be interrogated for one or two questions?

Mr. McCANN. I will, Mr. Speaker, but I do not know why they are prolonging this.

Mr. SELTZER. Mr. Speaker, does this bill cover any other field of free enterprise other than utility rates, insurance rates or interest rates?

Mr. McCANN. Yes, on page 4, retail sales, if you will check it.

Mr. SELTZER. That is the point I am raising, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCANN. I think the gentleman will find on page 4, if the gentleman will read carefully—I believe I just read it to the gentleman a moment ago—dealing with consumers and the sale of services of consumer goods and products. For example, I believe the previous speaker was in that field, and not in the field of insurance or public utility or regulatory agencies.

Mr. SELTZER. I am calling your attention to page 4, Mr. Speaker, line 2, where it says, "and make such information available to the various agencies of government and to the public." Am I going too far afield in assuming that the agency boards could come in in private industry, check their records and costs and make that information available to the public, which would include the competitors of that particular industry?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I am quite well aware of the field that the gentleman is leading into and the answer would be, no.

You and I know quite well that in certain competitive industries the cost of a finished product is a carefully guarded secret, and rightfully so. The selling price of the item is established by the concern, but the cost is a carefully guarded item, and I do not see any place in the bill where they could come into this field, and this field is patterned under the New York State setup as it was on the books. I believe it has been transferred to their Department of Commerce under the present Governor of the state of New York, Governor Rockefeller, but the basic legislation here is patterned after that State. Your answer would be, no.

Mr. SELTZER. There might be a difference of opinion, Mr. Speaker.

The gentleman is assuming that the cost of the commodity is the cost that the man paid for it to resell it. My understanding is that the cost of the commodity is what it cost the manufacturer to produce it. We are talking of the same word, cost, but we are arriving at the word from two different points of view I can certainly read in this bill when I attempt to get to this figure.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman may be able to read it into the bill, but the paragraph known as Subsection 2, begins on line 13 of page 2, and the information he read was the last line and a half, so to speak, of that subparagraph which ends on page 4.

Mr. SELTZER. That is right, Mr. Speaker. That is the only line that refers to commodities and services. That is the reason it was the only line I read.

Mr. Speaker, one further question in the gentleman's opinion, could this board recommend to the Commonwealth, to this Legislature, to set up a board of price control such as was used in the Federal Government during World War II and the Korean War?

Mr. McCANN. In answer, Mr. Speaker, in my opinion, they possibly could recommend, if that is what you want to read into the bill, but I do not believe that in the present situation you have any such thought or contemplated action of price control regulations, and that is what you are speaking of.

Mr. SELTZER. If we are here to protect the interests of the public and that is the only method they have left on this board, do you feel as though they might do that?

Mr. McCANN. I would not feel that they would do that, and I do not believe you could find it in the bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1703, entitled:

An Act relating to and defining food in the interest of and providing for the protection of the public health the prevention of fraud and deception by prohibiting the manufacture, offering for sale, exposing for sale or having in possession with intent to sell, adulterated, misbranded or deleterious foods conferring powers and imposing duties upon State and county officials and providing penalties.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation for the purpose of further study and possible amendment.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. AGNEW. House Bill 1703, as originally submitted and sponsored by four Members of this House including myself, was a sincere attempt on the part of many people to improve for the benefit of the consumer the already good food laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. However, we got involved with what is now a nation-wide controversy between Health and Agriculture, and the good motives behind this sincere attempt to improve our food laws has gone by the wayside.

I would like to comment that the attempt to move this bill resulted in amendments which have destroyed the efficacy of the legislation to the point where it is not now practical to attempt to push this bill any further.

My only further comment, Mr. Speaker, that this has been referred to in the public Press by at least one metropolitan newspaper in Pittsburgh as "A Dirty Food Bill." I cannot let this opportunity go by to say that the only filth involved is in the mind perhaps of the editorial writer for that newspaper.

The present status of this bill is such that, although I was a strong sponsor of this legislation when it was introduced, I concur in the gentleman's motion and ask that the bill be recommitted so that this matter might be resolved between the conflicting and warring factions represented by Public Health and Agriculture.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 2044, entitled:

An Act amending "The Realty Transfer Tax Act" approved December 27, 1951 (P. L. 1742) redefining documents and transactions providing for determination of deficiencies, redetermination, reviews and appeals therefrom imposing duties upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth and conferring additional powers and duties upon the Department of Revenue.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

Amend Title, page 2, first line of Title, by striking out "and."

Amend Title, page 2, second line of Title, by inserting after "viding": "for exemptions from the tax."

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2), page 4, lines 18 and 19, by inserting a bracket before "Pro-" in line 18 and after "where" in line 19, and inserting immediately thereafter: "The term 'value' shall not be construed to include machinery or other contents of buildings conveyed. Where."

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 3.1), page 6, line 12, by inserting after "debt": "or transfers from a subsidiary corporation to a parent corporation by means of a merger of the subsidiary corporation into the parent corporation or transfers from one subsidiary corporation to another subsidiary corporation of a common parent corporation by means of a merger, or to transfers to stockholders upon the dissolution of a corporation."

Amend Sec. 3 (Sec. 8), page 7, line 18, by inserting after "thereto": "The Secretary of the Commonwealth shall not refuse to accept any document for filing on the grounds that the affirmation of value is not in the correct amount."

Amend Bill, page 10, by inserting between lines 17 and 18:

"Section 5. It is hereby declared to be the intent of the legislature that the amendments herein contained which provide (1) that the term 'value' shall not be construed to include machinery or other contents of buildings conveyed, and (2) that transfers from a subsidiary corporation to a parent corporation by means of a merger of the subsidiary corporation into the parent corporation, or transfers from one subsidiary corporation to another subsidiary corporation of a common parent corporation by means of a merger, or transfers to stockholders upon the dissolution of a corporation are exempted from the tax, are intended as a clarification of existing law, and all taxes imposed thereon under the authority of the act to which this is an amendment and which remain unpaid on the effective date hereof shall be uncollectible. The provisions of this section shall not affect any taxes heretofore paid, nor shall they affect any matter heretofore finally adjudicated by any court of this Commonwealth."

Amend Sec. 5, page 10, line 18, by striking out "5" and inserting: "6."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, not having had the amendments read at length, I would like to offer—I wish it were more brief—an explanation of the amendments. This is rather a complicated bill. It has to do with the Pennsylvania Realty Transfer Tax of one percent.

In substance the proposed amendments provide three things. First that the term "value" as used in the Realty Transfer Tax Act, shall not be construed to include machinery or other contents of buildings conveyed. The second thing is that transfers of real estate from a subsidiary corporation to a parent corporation by means of merger and transfers to stockholders upon the dissolution of a corporation are exempt, and third that the Secretary of the Commonwealth may not refuse to accept a document for filing on the ground that the amount of tax declared is not sufficient. Of course, it is not intended that if the Secretary of the Commonwealth does not accept the document without payment of the full amount of tax due, the Department of Revenue will certainly have the power and duty to proceed against the persons who filed the document to collect the proper amount of tax. The purpose of this last provision is to permit a reasonable business transaction to proceed notwithstanding a dispute as to the amount of tax due and to prevent the Department of Revenue from forcing its view upon the taxpayers.

What this means is that reasonable mergers in Pennsylvania have been held up by the Secretary of the Commonwealth because he would not permit papers to be filed. All we are saying in this amendment is those papers should be filed forthwith and if there is any dispute about the Realty Transfer Tax due, those matters can be settled by the courts as they should be.

The first amendment as to the machinery and other contents of building is just a reiteration of what I believe to be the present law. I think all of you know, and any accountant or assessor will tell you, that under the normal concepts of real property we do not include machinery or the contents of buildings. The reason for this, quite frankly, is there is a dispute between the Department of Revenue and many of the industrial corporations of Pennsylvania in which the Department of Revenue is trying to extend what is known as the Pennsylvania assembled plant doctrine. I will try to explain that briefly, because I think it is important.

Industrial plants and businessmen in Pennsylvania, in order to secure capital for their businesses, have been in the habit of borrowing on their plant and equipment. For the purposes of mortgages they have been permitted by the courts to include not only the value of the walls of the building but quite often the machinery and contents of the building, the sole purpose being for the obtaining of a mortgage on that plant. However, the Department of Revenue is now trying to extend this principle and to say that when that plant is transferred or sold, even though it be by merger and no deed is recorded in the recorder's office, that this should be subject to the Pennsylvania Realty Transfer Tax. It is and has been the policy of the state to exempt industrial machinery from real estate taxes. We are trying to encourage through the P.I.D.C., and through many statements made by the leaders of Pennsylvania to encourage industry to come into this state and provide additional jobs. Yet this is just the type of bill which would keep industry out of Pennsylvania.

Furthermore, in your retail establishments, you certainly do not consider the furniture, the stock, or the shelves to be part of the real estate, yet in effect that is exactly what this bill would do to an industrial plant. If we are going to give more than lip service to our desire for more industry in Pennsylvania we should not pass this bill without this amendment.

Furthermore, there are simple ways to avoid this Realty Transfer Tax and I think it would be forcing corporations to resort to subterfuge if we should pass this legislation. They need only sever the personalty, the machinery in the building, convey it by a bill of sale and it would not fall within the Realty Transfer Tax.

The important thing in regard to these transfers between subsidiary corporations and from subsidiary to principal corporations is that this is not a real transfer.

The person or the entity that owns the machinery beforehand, or the real estate beforehand still owns it and it is no new setup in small corporations to own your house and then you decide for reasons of your own that you would convey it back to yourself. The Realty Transfer Tax Act exempts transactions like that and transactions between straws, and between husband and wife. These are just formalistic. There is no deed recorded and it is the intention of the Realty Transfer Tax Act to impose this tax when these deeds go on record.

But now, the Department of Revenue by an administrative edict is trying to change the legislative policy of Pennsylvania and I think it is important that the Legislature know that that is what is happening. There is no real transfer of interest when a corporation merges with one of its subsidiaries. They previously owned that subsidiary. There is no transfer between two different people or two different entities.

These amendments as far as I am concerned, are simply re-statements of the present law of Pennsylvania. It is what lawyers all over Pennsylvania have advised their clients, only to find that the Department of Revenue is now saying because of this assembled plant doctrine "we think we have a peg on which to hang our hat, we are going to try to collect the Realty Transfer Tax where it should not be collected."

I ask for the support of Members on both sides of the House for this amendment.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams, one question?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman inform the House, if his amendments were to be accepted and this were to become law, what would be the estimated revenue loss in the present estimated revenue yield as is now agreed to by the House and Senate?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, the answer is none.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman inform the House that this information he has is from the Department of Revenue?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, to clarify my answer, I think I have accurately answered the question which was asked. I would now like to ask the question which was meant to be put to me, I believe.

What has been estimated by the Department of Revenue as the potential loss, and they have said without basis of any statistics, because this tax has never been collected on mergers in Pennsylvania before, but however, some place out of the blue they have come up with a figure of $3 million. They have it on good authority that that figure cannot result from any previous history, because there has been no history of collection of this tax on mergers. And, too, it has been estimated on the basis of all mergers in Pennsylvania, and my amendments only go to a parent and a subsidiary, or between two subsidiaries of one parent. A merger by a separate corporation, the XYZ corporation and the ABC corporation would be taxed under this act. My amendments would not change that, and yet the Revenue Department uses those mergers to come up with a figure of $3 million which is not factual and is not accurate.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman kindly.

Mr. Speaker, and Members of the House, I believe you all agree that the Secretary of Revenue must certify by law to the Governor all tax yields that we agree to or enact in any Session of the legislature.

We have pretty well agreed on tax revenue yield of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the present biennium. I believe the gentleman from Bucks was informed, and I believe he verified that he was informed that there would be a revenue yield loss if these amendments were accepted.

I rise to oppose the amendments offered by the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams, and ask that they be voted down. I will grant you that some portions of them have some merit, and I am sure we are working to resolve those items for we certainly have not many items that are helpful to business and industry in this Commonwealth in the last five years.

I ask that the Members on this side of the House oppose the amendments offered by the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams, and if satisfactory to Mr. Williams, by a voice vote, or a division, if agreed to.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would first like to interrogate the Majority Leader.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the Majority Leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, on this point I will not permit myself to be interrogated. I am trying to conserve time which has been spent on a long, debatable bill, and it is now fifteen minutes to seven. The next bill on the special order of business which your floor leader has, he knows that debate is listed for four in a row to start with, and I would appreciate very kindly the opportunity to refrain from going into debate on these amendments, permit the gentleman to speak on whatever else he may desire to say regarding the amendments.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair asks the indulgence of the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams, and asks him whether or not he would be willing to accept a division on this amendment.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. No, Mr. Speaker, I will not.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman insist on a roll call?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Yes, Mr. Speaker I do. Also, Mr. Speaker, since the Majority Leader will not. I want to say that I have been here every day of the Session, and this is the first time that he refused.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman is in order.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. I would like to point out that the Department of Revenue has not in previous bienniums attempted to collect the realty transfer tax on these mergers.

Mr. McCANN, the Majority Leader has stated that we have arrived at certain estimates as to revenue. I would like to point out that in the 1955-57 biennium the actual revenue from the realty transfer tax was $39.4 million. This did not include one cent from these mergers. In the 1957-59 biennium it was $37 million, the average annual yield for both those bienniums was $38.2, and for this present Session, 1959-61 Session, there have been three estimates. First there was the Governor's estimate in his budget, given to us in March of this year, of $41 million. This was revised by the Department of Revenue in June of this year down to $38 million, and it has been revised by the Conference Committee as of October of this year to $39 million. This does not include, as I understand it, one penny of Realty Transfer Tax to be collected from mergers. If Mr. McCann is correct that there is $3 million affected by this legislation, I suggest to the Members of the Conference Committee that we have found $3 million.

Mr. SCHWARTZ. Mr. Speaker, I want to merely comment on one of these amendments.

I believe one of the amendments would require the Secretary of the Commonwealth or the Recorder of Deeds in the particular county to accept the instrument first, and then there would be a determination after the acceptance of the instrument as to whether or not taxes are due.

In my opinion, this is a very bad amendment that could lead to all sorts of confusion. All taxes, whether to the state, the municipality or to the federal government are paid first even though you do not agree with the determination. Therefore, I think that one amendment should certainly be opposed.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, did I understand the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams, to say that he would accept only a roll call, is that right?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair was about to inquire whether he would consent to a division on this amendment?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I will accept a division.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair thanks the gentleman.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, there is nothing in this amendment which affects the recording of a deed in any of the 67 counties. That is as it always was and always has been; every time a deed goes on record, the Pennsylvania Realty Transfer tax of one percent must be paid and these amendments have nothing to do with that. This is only when a corporation files merger papers with the Secretary of the Commonwealth. We do not think it fair that the Secretary hold these ordinary business transactions up because of this one dispute.

We are not saying that the tax may not ever be paid but first let us complete the transaction and then fight about the tax.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, I am interested in one item which has been brought out in this debate on this bill, and that is there was $3 million anticipated revenue from House Bill 2044 which we are now discussing. This is October 20th. The bill is not law and what chance it has of becoming law I have no knowledge. In its present form I do not think it has much, but if that is the way we are estimating revenue this biennium, we can readily understand how it is disappearing.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

A division was called for, eighty-four Members having voted in the affirmative and ninety-one in the negative, the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. FINEMAN asked unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendment will be read by the Clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 3 (Sec. 8), page 7, line 18, by inserting after "thereto": The Secretary of the Commonwealth shall not refuse to accept any document for filing on the grounds that the affirmation of value is not in the correct amount.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of an amendment at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I merely want to state that my amendments are the third part of the amendments of the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams.

My amendments do not entail any loss of revenue, either actual or estimated, and I assume, therefore, that it has the 100 percent support of the entire House.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 2354, entitled:

An Act amending the "Public School Code of 1949," approved March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30), changing the basic account standard reimbursement fraction to include non-public school pupils in computing a district's unit valuation.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I realize full well that the membership of the House has just been subjected to lengthy debate and perhaps they might be somewhat tired, but I am going to have to ask them to indulge those who take the floor in further lengthy debate, particularly in view of the fact that the bill that we are now considering is possibly one of the most important single bill, that has been considered in this session of the General Assembly.

The bill deals with the educational opportunities of our children; it deals with the future of our children and nothing takes precedence or priority over the importance of this subject.

It is said that the future of tomorrow walks forward on the feet of our children of today and with this I agree. I make mention of the fact only because I want to bring to the attention of the Members of this House the grave importance of this bill and earnestly solicit their complete attention while it is being debated.

In any consideration of a school subsidy program such as we have before us in House Bill 2354, I think it is initially in order to set forth certain basic principles on which we should all be in agreement and accord and which should remain in the forefront of our thinking as the problem of school subsidies is debated.

First, there is the proposition that every child in this Commonwealth, regardless of his or her race, color, creed or place of residence is entitled to an opportunity to procure an acceptable basic school education. As a matter of fact, our Constitution mandates that the General Assembly provide for the maintenance and support of a thorough, efficient system of public schools for all children of the Commonwealth.

Secondly, there is this proposition that every local school district should pay a fair and equitable share of the costs of this education, based, of course, upon its ability to pay; the balance of the costs being assumed by the Commonwealth.

I do not believe that anyone takes issue with these general principles. However, an area of concern, confusion and conflict does arise when we seek to define what constitutes the local school district's fair and equitable share of the cost of education.

In the question of a district's ability to pay for its share of the cost of education, this share should of course be geared to the taxpayers' ability to pay. We who advocate the passage of House Bill No. 2354, which is before us, do not believe that the present formula that is employed, that is the basic standard reimbursement fraction, fairly, equitably and realistically distributes state subsidies on the basis of a school district's ability to pay. On the contrary we believe that it shortchanges most of the state's counties and results in what we term "fiscal discrimination".

I realize, at best, figures are difficult to deal with and they do not make for the most interesting subject by way of discourse, but I think that we should, as Members of the General Assembly, try to have some basic understanding of the formula that is employed presently. It is, when stripped of all of the surrounding verbiage in essence a relatively simple thing to understand. In each school district area there is taxable real estate. The market value of this real estate is determined. This market value is then divided by the total number of public school teaching units, which as we know consists of 22 high school students per unit and 30 elementary school students per unit. That quotient, the result that we get by this division, is the valuation per teaching unit. To this valuation is then applied the 4-3/8 mills which the Commonwealth has mandated should be applied by each local district. This result then gives us, in dollars and cents, after we go through this mathematical calculation, this computation, this result gives us each school district's share of the total cost of education per teaching unit, and when that total cost per unit is deducted from the maximum school subsidy per unit of $5,800, we then know what the state has to contribute, per unit.

Although on first face this formula might appear to be a proper index for measuring a school district's ability to pay in that a ratio is set up between taxable real estate and the educational demands of the district, the formula in truth as it is employed, is most unfair and works to the serious financial disadvantage of those districts where there is a large percentage of pupils who attend other than public schools.

I might add, Mr. Speaker, that the non-public school student population has increased tremendously and it is quite substantial and is rather evenly distributed throughout the entire Commonwealth. As a matter of fact, 23 percent of the total student population of the entire state is non-public in its attendance. For instance, in Philadelphia County it is 37 percent of the total student population; in Delaware County it is 43 percent; in Montgomery County it is 29 percent, and in Adams County it is 32 percent.

The districts that have non-public school students are penalized because the formula employed does not include the non-public school children in arriving at a per unit valuation. I do not think anyone can disagree with these conclusions. A district is certainly not in any better financial situation per se, simply because it has non-public school students. Yet that is the very assumption that is inherent in the present formula, since in those districts the taxpayers, where there are non-public school students, must pay additional taxes.

The proponents of House Bill 2354 do not contend that a school district should be compensated for any non-public school students who reside in the district, and this bill does not make such provisions. But, in making a determination of the amount of dollars to be paid for each public school teaching unit, the total number of school age children who attend both public and non-public schools should, of necessity, be considered in order to have a realistic approach to the problem of a district's ability to pay a fair share of the total cost of education.

Let me point out this inequity. The present formula, although it fails to add in the non-public school children, in determining per unit valuation, does however, in figuring the wealth of the community, add in the market value of the real estate of the parents of the non-public school children. This is entirely unfair and unrealistic.

Let me briefly illustrate by example, an example that we can readily comprehend and see through, just how inequitable the formula is. Let us take two towns that have equal market value in real estate and an equal number of school children attending schools in that area. Let us assume that they have 100 teaching units each. Under the present formula they both get the same amount of state subsidy. That is because their market wealth is the same, and the number of students to be educated is the same. But, let us assume that in town "B", the second of these two towns that 30 teaching units transfer to a non-public school. Just what happens? We would expect that the school district of town "B" should naturally expect to lose in state subsidies 30 times the per unit subsidy it has been receiving, because it has 30 less teaching units to educate. But this is not what happens. Actually the school district that has 30 teaching units transferred to a non-public school will not only lose 30 times the per unit subsidy, but in addition thereto will lose an additional sum of money for each of the remaining 70 public school units because of the discrimination that is built right into the formula. In other words, you will recall that I explained in the calculation of the formula that the number of teaching units are divided into market value to get market valuation per unit. If you reduce the number of teaching units and have a lesser figure to divide into the market value, of necessity the quotient, or the result, becomes higher, meaning that the school district's costs that it picks up the tab for becomes higher.

The cost of educating these 70 remaining public school units certainly has not lessened because 30 units have transferred to non-public schools. Neither have the taxpayers of that district become any wealthier because 30 units have transferred to a non-public school. This district in town "B" is now being penalized because of the opening of a non-public school, because of the fact that the state has been relieved of the obligation of supporting 30 units. This unquestionably is fiscal discrimination. The school district of school B should be paid at the same rate per pupil for the remaining students that still go to the schools that it was paid prior to the transfer of the 30 teaching units. This is exactly what House Bill 2354 seeks to accomplish. This is why House Bill 2354 has been labeled a fair-play bill.

In our example town "B" under present law will get less money than the difference in student load indicates that it should get and we feel that House Bill 2354 is consistent with the principles that I enunciated at the beginning of my remarks.

I might point out that House Bill 2354, and this is most important because rumors concerning this fact have drifted back to me, and if this information is being circulated it is false and fraudulent, it is deceptive and it is entirely untrue and without foundation in fact. These rumors are to the effect that House Bill 2354 will result in the subsidization of non-public school children. This is false and do not believe a word of it. House Bill 2354 merely and fairly counts the students of non-public schools for the purpose of establishing the per teaching unit valuation, but once having established the per teaching unit valuation, we multiply that by only the teaching units in the public schools. As a matter of fact, everyone knows that our Constitution provides that it is a violation of the Constitution to make provisions for appropriations to any school or other institution that is parochial or religious in nature.

One other fact that I want to bring to the attention of the Members, and this too has drifted back to me and I feel that some of the Members are badly misinformed on this point. They have told me that under the provisions of House Bill 2354, they will get less money than they are presently getting under the existing law. This too is false. It is entirely incorrect. As a matter of fact it is a mathematical impossibility that that result be reached. All that this formula does is to give to those school districts that have non-public school students in them additional moneys, but it does not disturb on any level the moneys that go to the districts that do not have non-public school students in them. They, under the provisions of House Bill 2354, get the same amount of money that they are getting under the existing law.

It is for these reasons that I urge the Members of this House to correct an inequity that has existed all too long. This is an area that cries out for some relief because there has indeed been discrimination. I ask the Members of this House in their good judgement to vote for this bill.

Mr. STECKEL. Mr. Speaker, will Mr. Fineman consent to be interrogated?

Mr. FINEMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. STECKEL. Mr. Speaker, under a hypothetical case of two school districts each having an identical market value, School District A has five units of public school children, School District B has five units of public school children plus five units of private school children. Do I make myself clear?

Mr. FINEMAN. Yes.

Mr. STECKEL. School District A has five units of public school children and School District B has five units of public school children and five units of private school children.

Mr. FINEMAN. You are speaking of population in B District?

Mr. STECKEL. The total, yes. However, each district has five units of public school pupils. The market value is identical. Under House Bill 2354, which district would receive more subsidy from the state?

Mr. FINEMAN. District B unquestionably would get more than District A.

Mr. STECKEL. Why? They both have five units of public school children to support with identical market value.

Mr. FINEMAN. May I say by way of further answer, that the proponents of House Bill 2354 do not say that this bill is a panacea or a cure-all for all the inequities that exist. I do not know of any proposed formula that has come down the pike that truly represent a fair basis for reimbursement. There may be certain inequities in 2354, we are frank to say, but we feel by and large that it will correct one serious, on glaring inequity that has manifested itself for a long time. Although it may be under the particular example you advance, Mr. Steckel, that this District B will get more money, the ills that this bill will cure will more than offset the inequity that might arise under your particular example.

Mr. STECKEL. Well, Mr. Speaker, under the example, is it not a fact that the taxpayers in District B, while they have the same number of pupils in public schools, would, because they get a higher state reimbursement, be able to pay lower local school taxes?

Mr. FINEMAN. Would you repeat your question, sir?

Mr. STECKEL. Is it not a fact that because the school district B, though it has the same market valuation, receives a higher reimbursement from the state, would consequently be able to levy lower public school taxes on its taxpayers?

Mr. FINEMAN. That may be, but it does not necessarily follow.

Mr. STECKEL. Well, if it receives additional reimbursement from the state and educates the same number of public school pupils, why would it not follow that it would take less local effort?

Mr. FINEMAN. For the reason that the amount of taxes levied by each school district vary in nature and vary in amounts. In other words, there are many municipalities in this Commonwealth that, are self-supporting, and assess taxes on their taxpayers that other communities do not assess.

I might point out to you, for instance, in the city of Philadelphia, that taxpayers for these many, many years have alone supported by their taxes the Philadelphia General Hospital. Only this year for the first time was PGH included in the budget.

Mr. STECKEL. I thank the gentleman. I was not prepared to debate the Philadelphia General Hospital.

In this speech Mr. Fineman inferred that there were some property owners who had children going to private schools who were required unjustly to pay school taxes to support the public school system, where there were a number of private school pupils.

We all know that in this country whether a person has children who go to either public or private or no schools at all, or has no children, it is expected that all real estate will bear its fair share of the school tax burden.

Reimbursement fractions have long been based on specifically the ability of a district to pay. It is a simple matter by taking the figures arrived at by the State Tax Equalization Board for the district and dividing by the units that attend public school to arrive at the local effort required for the local effort put forth.

In answer to my question as to why similar districts with the same market value, the same number of public school pupils, should be treated differently, I do not think there was a satisfactory answer.

I see no reason for changing the present system and upsetting the very basic manner of distribution of public moneys for public schools at this time and I request everybody to oppose the passage of this bill.

Mr. SCHAWARTZ. Mr. Speaker, we are not interested in the man who sends his children to private schools. We are basically interested in the man, and the point that I think Mr. Steckel overlooks is, the effect that has on the man who lives next door to him. The point of this bill is that the man who lives next door who sends his children to the public schools, pays more in local taxes because of the fact that the state does not consider the other pupils. That is the point involved.

We have to consider, in order that the locality, the principality, the political subdivision gets a fair share, all pupils of school age in this hodge-podge formula, which I believe perhaps maybe two or three of us here on the floor—and I do not pretend to be one of those—who understand it, quite frankly. That is the point we are trying to get across. We are interested in that man who sends his children to the public schools. We do not feel that he should be penalized because somebody wishes to send his children to private schools.

Mr. BLAIR. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Fineman went to great lengths to explain to us the problems that the people of Philadelphia are experiencing as far as state subsidies and the help which they receive for their system of education.

I think his troubles are completely imaginary and I would just like to take the liberty of offering a solution which I feel will correct the troubles that he thinks he now has.

All the people of Philadelphia have to do is to raise their millage on their market value equal to what the majority of the rest of the people in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are paying and then his problems will be non-existent.

Mr. FINEMAN. I would like to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Blair, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BLAIR. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman professes to know a great deal about what Philadelphia's millage as compared with the rest of the state. For the enlightenment of the Members of this House, will he tell us what Philadelphia's millage is?

Mr. BLAIR. Roughly 10.3 on market value.

Mr. FINEMAN. 10.6. That is close enough. Can he tell us what the state average is?

Mr. BLAIR. I cannot. All I can do is tell him what Erie County's average is.

Mr. FINEMAN. The state average, for his information, is 11.52.

Mr. BLAIR. Erie County runs between 16 and 21.

Mr. FINEMAN. If you will refer to the report of the Committee of Fifteen, you will find that Erie County's millage is 13.00 even. I want to point out one other thing to you, sir. Incidentally, do you have a copy of the report of the Committee of Fifteen before you?

Mr. BLAIR. I do not.

Mr. FINEMAN. Do you know what Philadelphia's 10.6 is based upon, what the market value is based upon?

Mr. BLAIR. I would not know, and would not have any control over it if I did.

Mr. FINEMAN. You would not know? Would you care to state whether it was the market value of the year 1957 or the market value of the year 1958?

Mr. BLAIR. It was the latest year that I was able to obtain figures for.

Mr. FINEMAN. That would be 1957?

Mr. BLAIR. Right.

Mr. FINEMAN. And is it not a fact that the State Tax Equalization Board has, by the sum of some $450 million, decreased the total market valuation in the city of Philadelphia?

Mr. BLAIR. That has not been effective as yet.

Mr. FINEMAN. That is the certification for the year 1958; What do you mean it is not effective as yet? The State Tax Equalization Board has certified the market valuation for the year 1958 in the city of Philadelphia.

Mr. BLAIR. Is that not being considered by the Conference Committee at the present time?

Mr. FINEMAN. No, only the mechanics of how it is to be worked out is being considered, but as of the moment that is the law.

But be that as it may, it nevertheless represents the finding of a State Equalization Board. Now, with that thought in mind, I ask you would the millage of the city of Philadelphia increase if $450 million was added to the market value?

Mr. BLAIR. May I ask you a question there in answer to that? What would one mill on market value increase it in Philadelphia?

Mr. FINEMAN. I do not know. But is it not a fact . . .

Mr. BLAIR. It would be more than sufficient to take care of any loss you might suffer, I would say. It would be below the state average.

Mr. FINEMAN. Let me ask specifically, is it not a fact that if the total taxes that the city of Philadelphia pays were considered in light of the reduced valuation of the market value of the city of Philadelphia, the result reached would be a higher millage figure?

Mr. BLAIR. That is what I am proposing, a higher millage value for the city of Philadelphia.

Mr. FINEMAN. Why, of course it would be. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, that is exactly the point I want to make. When these people talk about the wealth of the city of Philadelphia and the fact that the city of Philadelphia is not assuming its fair share, that is not quite true and it is unfair, because the figures they present dealing with state average millage and the millage base in the city of Philadelphia is based on the valuation in the year 1957, and we all know that for years the valuations in the city of Philadelphia has been overstated and the State Tax Equalization Board has informed us that the overstatement is in the sum of $450 million.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, we have for discussion and deliberation this afternoon and evening, House Bill 2354, changing the basic account standard reimbursement fraction to include non-public school pupils in computing a district's unit valuation.

No matter what bill is presented for your consideration of this nature, there will also be some against it mainly because it may not, according to you or some of them either for selfish or other reasons, substantially contribute more to their county. Others may excuse their vote because it cannot contribute only to what they term impoverished districts.

There is no bill of that nature which says, contribute to distressed areas only. Some day in the near future, perhaps, our legislature, Republicans and Democrats alike, will give a special part of their Session to the problems of education alone.

The Fair Play Bill, 2354, should be strongly supported by both sides of the House. The injustice of the present formula of distributing school funds is potent. It hurts counties whose school problems are most critical and helps no one.

The present effect of the formula is not only to penalize all citizens who for religious or other reasons wish to send their children to private schools but their neighbors as well. It reduces the amount contributed for each of the remaining school students. There is not the slightest reason why any student in our state of Pennsylvania should receive lower quality public schooling simply because his neighbor attends a private school. This system is at odds with the American ideas and fosters resentment among us Americans.

This system is at odds with the American ideas and fosters resentment among us Americans. This present bill corrects a fundamental wrong in the school setup. Philadelphia and other counties should never receive any aid for homebound education, the closed schools, the mergers or jointures, and Philadelphia only received a per capita contribution of 12.75 compared to 30.06 for Northampton; 77 in Forest County, and 67.63 in Juniata. Philadelphia and other counties have contributed bonuses for schools closed fifty years ago, and for school districts now under 80 feet of water.

We have not complained and we are pleased to cooperate. No county should be classified either as rich or poor in this argument because no bill to be presented for your consideration in this Session provides relief only for our distressed areas or yet denies compensation to those districts in great need but cannot be classified as distressed. Must we become distressed before we can ask for your help? Must we close our schools, our kindergartens? Must we chase our capable teachers out of this state of Pennsylvania? Must we deny education and help to our teachers who teach our precious ones? Must we prevent our children from receiving the education to which they are entitled before you help us?

It is easy for some of you to say raise taxes, choke our citizens by taking away their earnings, but I say to you that is not the solution.

For God's sake, for the sake of our children, your parents and families, for the sake of all those who cannot appear before you and plead for themselves, for the prevention of our teachers from becoming demoralized, we plead for your help and support of House Bill 2354.

Mr. GOODRICH. Mr. Speaker, being from one of the forgotten fourteen counties in Pennsylvania under House Bill 2354, I would like to remind the last speaker that we plead for our children too and would like to have the bill defeated.

However, now I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman. In his arguments concerning the valuation of Philadelphia he was in error, if I am correct, and I want to check that.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FINEMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GOODRICH. Mr. Speaker, you were talking about the fair market value of Philadelphia on the matter of the 1958 certification, is that correct, as being less than the 1957 certification or being less intrinsically?

Mr. FINEMAN. Or being less what at the end you say?

Mr. GOODRICH. Intrinsically.

Mr. GOODRICH. Intrinsically less than 1957.

Mr. FINEMAN. Yes, that is so.

Mr. GOODRICH. For your information, which, of course, makes your argument fallacious, the Tax Equalization Board said that Philadelphia gained and I am sure that your local assessed valuations substantiate that, the figures in Pennsylvania for 1958 certification show that there was a gain in all the counties, but the Tax Equalization Board cut all the counties by 15%.

Mr. FINEMAN. May I interrogate the gentleman?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GOODRICH. I will be interrogated, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FINEMAN. I assume that the gentleman is an avid reader of our daily newspapers and, if so, he must have read, with perhaps some distaste, about the fact that the city of Philadelphia was going to receive $2 million plus as a result of the reevaluation of the State Tax Equalization Board for the year 1958. Now, will he tell me if we are getting more money because our capital wealth increased or because it decreased?

Mr. GOODRICH. Your statement is ridiculous.

Mr. FINEMAN. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. GOODRICH. I would be glad to answer you. I think you know the answer. If it was a serious question, I would give you a serious answer. I doubt that it is.

Mr. FINEMAN. I am most serious. You advise me, sir.

Mr. GOODRICH. If the Tax Equalization Board, and you may check this with the Tax Equalization Board, says that Philadelphia gained in value along with the rest of the counties when the total was cut 15% across the board, then Philadelphia's gain of tax under the 1958 certification is obvious to you, even though the actual value, the market value, of Philadelphia did decrease. Are you aware of that, sir, of the 15% cut across the board?

Mr. FINEMAN. I know nothing about a 15% cut across the board.

Mr. GOODRICH. Well, I would suggest then, rather than using this place as argument, that you check with the Tax Equalization Board. Does that answer your question, sir?

Mr. FINEMAN. No, I will accept the answer for what it is worth, but it certainly does not answer the question.

Mr. NELSON. Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentleman of the House, I rise to oppose this bill but also to find myself in opposition to one of the previous speakers who is also opposition, who stated that the problems of the Philadelphia school district are imaginary. This is not true in Philadelphia or in any other place in this Commonwealth. I rise to oppose this bill not just because it gives a certain amount of money to a few districts of the Commonwealth, but because it seems to be contrary to all concepts of free public education and would provide for the payment of appropriations in a manner that has no direct relation to the actual number of peoples being educated in the public schools.

There has been a great deal said for and against this bill on the floor, in the newspapers and in the corridors of this House. First of all we find that there has been criticism to the present subsidy formula in that it is unfair and very complex, difficult to understand. This formula was developed by a bi-partisan group, a commission and was written into law in 1945. It has been in operation since that time; it has been a great service towards the equalization of educational opportunity in our schools. As to the complexity of the formula, in simple explanation it will suffice to clear up any doubt as to the equity of the principle behind its formula. Let us assume for instance that the cost of an acceptable school program is $6,000 per teaching unit and the 5 mills on the market value of real estate is a reasonable tax effort by the local district. The formula would operate as follows: local district with the real estate market value of $200,000 per teaching unit would contribute as its share of the cost 200,000 times 5 mills or $1,000. The state would then contribute as its part the $1,000 minus from the $6,000 or a total of $5,000. If on the other hand the market value of real estate were $500,000 per teaching unit the local tax effort would be 500,000 times the 5 mills, or $2,500. And of course the local district would then contribute that amount and the state $3,500. As the wealth and ability of the district per teaching unit increases the local contribution increases and the state's share decreases.

In the like manner as the wealth and ability of the district decreases the local communities will contribute less and the state will supplement by a greater appropriation. Now, the sponsors of House Bill 2354, do nothing to this formula, except introducing a new element in determining market value for teaching units. When you hear debate on this you are inclined at first to agree that this sounds reasonable and that they do have a point, but let us look further into the situation. There is no public school system of this Commonwealth that furnishes teachers, buildings, textbooks or any other material or services to the students who are enrolled in the non-public schools. Why then should any district in effect receive and additional sum of money on the basis of the number of these students who reside within the confines of the school district? The local district is not paid by the education of these students. Under this so called 'fair play' bill, $70 million would be distributed in a biennium to 539 of the state's total of 2420 school districts. According to the figures released by the proponents of this bill, 13 counties would receive nothing at all. Where is the fair play in such proposal?

I believe that each of us in this House is aware of the terrific problems which face all of the school districts of this great state, I am not unaware of the problems that face the people of Philadelphia, nor am I unaware of the problems that face the people in the districts in the third and fourth class who are approaching a state of bankruptcy. As to the amount of local effort contributed we have already established the amount of mills of local effort by the Philadelphia school district. I picked at random five districts from my home county. The local effort based on market value of the real estate is as follows in these five representative districts: Franklinton Borough, 14.46 mills, Newbury Township, 15.7, Railroad Borough, 15.24, West Manheim Township, 23.09 and Winterstown Borough 14.18. I wish that I had the complete figures for my county but I was unable to get them in such short notice. Ladies and gentlemen of the House, I pledge my support to any bill which will aid all of the districts of this Commonwealth. I will however continue to oppose any bill which tends to destroy the principles of free public education, the kind of thing for which Thaddeus Stevens so long ago fought to establish. Each of you is here to represent all of the people of the Commonwealth, in matters as important as education. We must not be concerned as to what is best for our own district, but we must be concerned with what is best for all of the school children of the Commonwealth. I urge you to oppose this bill that is on the calendar today and hope that although I cannot discuss another bill which we hope will be on the calendar later, to ask your support for that one.

Mr. EILBERG. Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentleman of the House, many of the things I would have said have already been said, but I would like to repeat one or two of them and add a few other thoughts.

During this Session, although this is my third term in the House, because of the particular attention given to this educational problem, for the first time I became greatly interested. I was amazed recently when I read the pertinent section in Article 10 of the Constitution, in which it says that the obligation of the state is to support "all" school children. I say to you that if the framers of the Constitution had intended "public" school children they would have said so in 1874. We had private schools at that time, and it would have been a very simple thing to provide that public school students should be taken care of by the state. But they did not, and we can only assume, therefore, that the framers of the Constitution meant "all" school children.

Further, there has been reference to the taxation in Philadelphia, local taxation. I would venture to say, and I think my opinion on this is fairly good, that we are assessing at about 65 percent of market value. Most of our people, and you all know that Philadelphia is a city of homes, are paying at the rate of 65 percent on market value. I ask you fellow legislators what the percentage of taxation is in your own county. I venture to say you will find, and the figures certainly bear it out, that the average is considerably less. In fact, the average throughout the state is 39 percent. So people tell us now that we should increase our local real estate taxes.

One interesting thing about the formula as it presently operates is this, and I think this point has not been made before—if it has, please forgive me—Every time a private school opens, let us say, in Philadelphia, the reimbursement to public school units decreases automatically. Simply by the opening of a private school, existing public school units get less. This seems patently unfair to me, and certainly if a private school opens there should be no reduction. The figure should remain the same; there should be no reduction.

Another point: Many of us are thinking—this has not been raised before on the floor during this discussion—about where is the money coming from. You and I know that both caucuses are discussing this very, very seriously. We know we are not going to leave here until the additional money is raised. It would provide a tremendous stimulus if we were to pass this bill. We would thereby tell the teachers, the parents and the children throughout the state we are assuming the obligation and that we are going to raise the money. We know we are going to raise the money, so why do we not pass this bill and then go ahead and meet the second step?

I understand, also that as far as the Federal Government is concerned, reimbursement is based either upon total population or total child population; no discrimination between public schools and private schools—total child population. This is the Federal setup or system, and it seems to me that it is good enough for Pennsylvania as well.

Finally, I would like to say this, Mr. Speaker: We have been bombarded with literature from the Pennsylvania State Education Association. This title is a very high-sounding phrase, and I do not doubt that the Association has done a lot of good work, but I say to you, Mr. Speaker, that, peculiarly and especially, the teachers of Philadelphia do not belong to this Association. This Association does not speak for the teachers of Philadelphia. We have been hearing from them. The Association adopts its policies without the consideration and advice of the largest school district in the state of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Speaker, I say to you that House Bill 2354 is in the public interest. Let's vote for it.

Mr. GALLAGHER. Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House, you have to agree with some of the previous speakers, even with Mr. Nelson from York County, in some respects. Back in 1945 when the formula was first introduced as a method of distributing the state funds to the various districts throughout the Commonwealth, the school situation in our Commonwealth was in a very dire position. There were very inadequate facilities; the curriculum was poor. The state together—the large cities and the small townships and boroughs—all decided to pool together, and work this formula to bring to this state equal educational facilities for everyone. Now here we are in 1959, 14 years later, and we find we have been able to establish throughout our Commonwealth a fairly decent educational system, with facilities for all of our children, no matter in what county they live. Whether they had 10,000 population or 3 million population, they were able to build schools that were necessary, were able to increase teachers' salaries, able to provide better books and materials and to increase the qualities of our educational system. I say that was all good, fair and just, and I say that the people back in 1945 who came from the large cities, and had to contribute the most to make this possible, should be commended. But I say today, ladies and gentlemen, the pendulum has swung. We now have in the rural counties excellent school systems; we now have school houses; we have jointures; we have merged districts; we have the proper facilities for all our students. But now the pendulum has swung and the large cities and well-populated urban counties are beginning to be affected because of many things. I would like to give you a very good example. You might say it is an extreme example, but it is actually something we have to pay attention to if we are all sincerely interested in the problems of education. We have to consider each and every problem and try to work as a whole, as a group, correct them. Take Bucks County, a county I know very well because I live there. In 1952 the public school system in my township had 1,915 students. In 1959 they have over 11,000 public school students. This necessitated a number of things. First it necessitated building 15 brand new schools. It necessitated bringing teachers into the area. It necessitated gearing a fourth class district to a third class district. But with these people moving into this area there also came large numbers of students who were going to attend private schools, 37 percent. Now the present formula, as has been well discussed today, provides that the market value of all of the homes in the school district is used in the formula. And then it says we can only count the number of students who attend public schools. So, in affect, because 37 percent of our school students attend parochial or private schools, the taxpayers who send their children to public schools must increase their effort to provide money for the school system. Now the tax in that township on schools alone is 85 mills, plus a $15 head tax. Certainly I would assume from those figures that the local effort there is over and beyond the call of duty to provide for the children of the people who live in that district the necessary educational facilities. I think they have done a marvelous job. We had many meetings back there, bringing different groups together in order to educate our citizenry to the fact that they must pay for education. But where do we go from here? Do we go to 100 mills next year? Do we go higher yet? What do we do with the 37 per cent who are not counted in the formula while their market value is counted? That is one item we must consider. We must find some way of taking care of districts such as that. As I say, that is probably an extreme situation, but it exists, and what are we going to do with the people in that area when we pass the subsidy bill?

Another thing I would like to point out, Mr. Speaker, is that I, too, have heard many rumors that this is the foot in the door, this is the break everybody is looking for, this is the method and manner in which we are going to try to take the dollars and cents of our tax monies and turn them over to the private schools. I would like to read a letter for the record from a minister of the Episcopal Church. It says:

House Bill 2354 is now before you for passage. This bill, known as the 'Fair Play Amendment' to the school code, would remove a substantial inequity which now mars the distribution of state aid to the school districts of Pennsylvania.

Some opposition has been voiced to House Bill 2354. A few opponents state that the 'Fair Play' bill would aid parochial schools. This is untrue! Not one penny would go the support of any non-public school.

"Other opponents say it is an opening wedge to the support of parochial education. This is untrue! It is not a wedge at all—it is the correction of a grave Christian injustice. Because of the perverted school subsidy formula, in communities where some children attend non-public schools, all citizens of the community must pay additional local taxes because some parent exercise this God-given right to educate their children as they desire.

It is time we stopped fiscally gerrymandering the educational dollar. Our taxpayers' money is being used to pay bonuses for schools closed a half century ago, to support a school district without children, to aid school districts now under 90 feet of water since power dams have been built on our rivers.

It is blasphemy against Almighty God when religion is used as a subterfuge to prevent children from receiving the education they need to become citizens in a democracy.

I urge you to support House Bill 2354.

Sincerely yours,
The Rev. Wm. Vaughn Ischie, Jr.
Rector

This, I hope, will point out that there is no desire on anybody's part to violate the Constitution of our Commonwealth and to spend the money for parochial schools.

I would like to point out also that the present formula, as I said in the beginning, has done its job and done it well, and I think it is time for a change. Take my own county, for instance, the County of Bucks. We receive a per capita appropriation of all subsidies for education of $32.06, while Fulton County receives a per capita subsidy of $81.59. In Fulton County I think there are probably less people than there are in Bucks County, and I am sure the problems we have in Bucks are 10, 15 or 20 times more serious than they are in Fulton County. A few weeks ago we passed a bill here in the House to pay additional monies because of forest lands purchased by the state. This we returned to the local school districts in the area—another form of subsidy to rural school districts; not counting children, but counting land. Maybe the next time we are going to count the trees out there, I do not know.

We go on further and we see that in Bedford County they received $71.46 per capita; we see that Clarion County received $70.87 per capita; that Clearfield County received $62.89 per capita; that Bradford County received $69.87 per capita, and so on down the line. Even Juniata received $67.63 per capita. Many of the other areas, Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen, receive much less. I think it is time that we recognize this problem. I think it is time that it be decided again; to reverse the thinking we had back in 1945, and say to all the counties in the rural areas that is is now your turn to be big, fair and just about this. It is now your turn to say that now that the pendulum has swung, now that the big brothers in the urban and city areas have helped you reach this peak of educational progress, that now it is your turn to assist us in maintaining our educational system in these areas.

I ask all the ladies and gentlemen of the House to seriously consider this and vote in favor of the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would inform the Members of the House, though he is sure they do not need to be so informed, that every Member should have an opportunity to speak on any of the bills that come before the House, and I do not desire to call the roll before the debate is closed.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Gallagher.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Gallagher, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GALLAGHER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman inform me whether or not his district in Bucks County will receive slightly over half a million dollars under this bill?

Mr. GALLAGHER. My legislative district or my school district?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. The legislative district, sir.

Mr. GALLAGHER. My legislative district will receive, I think it is $536,000.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. I understand, Mr. Speaker, that we are not allowed to refer to any other pending legislation, but I would ask the gentleman how many million dollars it will take to put into effect House Bill 2354?

Mr. GALLAGHER. The estimates that I have are $70 million.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Does the gentleman have any idea how much his legislative district in Bucks County would receive if that $70 million were given to his county or his district under the present or existing formula rather than this new proposed formula under 2354?

Mr. GALLAGHER. The entire $70 million or—

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. No, your standard percentage of that $70 million?

Mr. GALLAGHER. Under what formula?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Under the old or existing formula.

Mr. GALLAGHER. We would receive less, I believe, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, does he mean that he believes and he does not know; or he believes and he does know?

Mr. GALLAGHER. I believe that we will receive less. I do not have the figures here right before me to tell you exactly how much less.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. If I told the gentleman that his district, under the present formula, would receive over $1 million and he is asking us to vote for legislation which would take from his county and my county a half million dollars, would he agree with me?

Mr. GALLAGHER. I would have to disagree with the gentleman and he would have to show me the figures to prove it.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. May I ask the gentleman whether or not he has sponsored other legislation on this same subject?

Mr. GALLAGHER. I have sponsored many pieces of legislation.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would advise the gentlemen that is not proper questioning at this time.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BARTON. Mr. Speaker, I am going to be very brief.

First, I would like to correct one impression as to the mill rates that have been thrown around. Most of them have been mill rates as applied to the local market valuation, not assessed valuation. The fact is this, under this bill approximately 30 percent of the school districts in the state would receive all the benefits of this bill and 70 percent would receive nothing. Seventy-five percent of these funds go into several large school districts. In those school districts which receive the most of the funds the average mill rate that they are required to supply for public education as applied to their market valuation averages around 10 mills, and for the balance of the state the average is around 11.5 mills, that is against our market valuation. I think that is fairly equal.

Mr. ZIMMERMAN. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that some of the previous speakers from Philadelphia and that particular area must have recognized some unfairness in this measure when they took the time out for their rather lengthy speeches to pinpoint several counties in this Commonwealth.

As you know I do not often take the advantage of the floor of this House, but because of the inequities that are proposed by this bill I must point them out for the information of this House as I see them. I want to present some facts in dollars and cents.

In Juniata County this bill would only provide $5,036 for a two-year period, and right now many school districts in my county are operating under a deficit. While we would receive this meager reimbursement Philadelphia, which is not operating under a deficit would receive $21.5 million—Along with this we must keep in mind that during the 1957-58 school term the average secondary teaching unit cost in my county was $6,714, while in Philadelphia County the average teaching unit cost was $9,004, or $2,290 more per teaching unit. I do not believe there is a Member in this House that would want to deprive the children of Juniata County or any other county under similar circumstances of the same educational facilities as are provided in many other areas of this Commonwealth.

Consequently, I ask all the Members, and I would beg of them, to defeat this measure for the benefit of the school children in many of the rural areas of this Commonwealth.

Mr. GARLOCK. I would ask permission to interrogate the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Gallagher.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GALLAGHER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GARLOCK. Mr. Speaker, the figure of 85 mills was used as the tax that was assessed in Bucks County. Will you tell me what the percentage of actual market value they used for levying their tax in Bucks County?

Mr. GALLAGHER. Approximately 30 percent, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GARLOCK. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, our county uses a fifty percent figure and we have millage of the different school districts up to 47 mills, so I do not think that Bucks county has a higher millage, even though it might tend to lead you to believe that, than all the other counties.

Mr. P. E. PERRY. Mr. Speaker, I have listened to a lot of this debate about discrimination to a lot of school districts and counties. For the benefit of the House Members, I am going to give you some figures in dollars and cents. One of the opponents mentioned some.

House Bill 2354 is rightfully called the fair play bill—fair play to all the people of Pennsylvania, including the people of the city of Philadelphia. Let me put before you some dollars and cents figures. Total state subsidy amounts to $380,427,165 and some cents. Philadelphia's share is $26,322,027.48, slightly less than seven percent. Philadelphia's population is approximately 20 percent of the state total. If we figure it on the population basis Philadelphia should receive and should have in the past received $50 million more for a total of $76 million on a population basis.

Now we have some districts that moan and complain about the ability to pay. How long do they expect Philadelphia to carry the load for other parts of the state with the movement of population and industry into suburban and rural areas, certainly it is time for these other areas to help carry a fair share of the school subsidy cost to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Why should the Philadelphia teachers' salaries be lower than the four counties surrounding Philadelphia?

I will give you some more figures that you can add two and two on. The per capita state contribution average is $45.22. The Philadelphia per capita contribution from the state is $12.75. The contribution to Philadelphia is 28.2 percent of the state per capita average. If Philadelphia receives the state average that it should be entitled to it would get $93,333,430. Therefore, the state is now short changing Philadelphia to the amount of $67 million.

All we ask in this 2354 bill is an additional $10.7 million. Previous speakers have admitted discrimination against Philadelphia, therefore why don't you, the opponents of House Bill 2354 have the courage to eliminate this discrimination? You should vote on this bill on the basis of what is right and fair, and not for sectionalism.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. Mr. Speaker, the distribution of school subsidy funds to the school districts of Pennsylvania is discriminatory. We have tried, in presenting House Bill 2354, to offer an equitable legislative solution to a grievous wrong now being inflicted on the people of many school districts throughout Pennsylvania. If we fail in our legislative effort be assured that we have only begun to fight. We intend to seek a judicial solution to this inequitable situation.

We will seek judicial relief from this intolerable situation. We will carry our fight to the United States Supreme Court if necessary. Our taxpayers will seek to enjoin this distribution of public funds on the present discriminatory basis. The fight has just begun. We do not know where it will go, but we will be there fighting, not only for people of Philadelphia, but all of the other shortchanged taxpayers.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I have listened to this very long debate. I am sure this long debate could have been eliminated if this House had seen fit to pass House Bill No. 3 in its original form, which stated that all monies derived therefrom would go to public education. I think there would have been almost enough to go around.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, I ask permission to interrogate the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. POLEN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, House Bill 2354, which we are considering, would cost $70 million for the biennium, is that correct?

Mr. POLEN. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman have the money?

Mr. POLEN. There are no tax revenues on the books at this time to support $70 million. I think the gentleman knows that.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, did the gentleman state on the floor of this House that he would not report a bill from the Appropriations Committee unless he had the money to pay for it?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. McCANN. I rise to a point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. McCANN. The point of order is House Bill 2354. I request the Chair to confine the remarks dealing with the bill pro or con on the bill, and not what was said or not said about tax measures.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman is correct. The gentleman from Delaware will confine his remarks to the bill that is presently before the House.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, I believe the $70 million is certainly part of this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair repeats his ruling that the gentleman will confine his remarks to the bill before the House.

Mr. ISAACS. All right, Mr. Speaker. I ask the Speaker's permission to debate the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman is in order and will proceed.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, being an original sponsor of this measure in the House of Representatives I ask your indulgence for about two minutes.

I will not say the bill is equitable. It certainly has a lot of merit. We have heard a lot here today about the standard reimbursement formula. What is standard one year may not be standard two years hence. That can be changed. The reimbursement fraction has been changed in this House on a number of occasions. I stand ready to support House Bill 2354, if it is called up for a vote and the money is available to pay for it. I am not going to engage in the hypocrisy of voting for a measure which, in this speaker's opinion, never should have been reported to the floor of the House without the money, and until the money is available I do not intend to vote for this bill, or any other state subsidy bill.

Mr. GRAMLICH. Mr. Speaker, Members of the House, there have been many words thrown around here this afternoon, and I do not intend to debate the bill. I am just a country boy, too, from a small county, and I have some figures here that I would like to have before this House and also placed on the record.

I cannot give you the names, but I have in my own district school districts which are taxing our citizens as follows, and these are authentic figures: One, 14.66 mills, another 13.52, another 15.24 and another 15.88. This is on market valuations of property, not assessed valuations. These districts are spending up to $2,000 less per high school teaching unit than Philadelphia, whose total tax load on Philadelphia citizens for schools, as you have heard, is only a little over 10 mills, to be exact, 10.5. I had 10.3 but it was corrected—we will give you the three-tenths of a cent extra—also on market valuation. These districts in my county would receive no help from House Bill 2354. Are we going to give Philadelphia even more state subsidy, and force my citizens to pay even higher tax rates?

Mr. Speaker, I know that many of the Members of this House have received, literally, hundreds of cards and letters, the same as I have, and these cards and letters were protesting the passage of House Bill No. 2354. I know there are many other Members of this House who feel the same way I do. There are many other Members of this House who represent a County who have received many requests by wire also. Therefore, Mr. Speaker and Members of this House, I urge everyone on both sides to vote against this bill.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I listened to this long debate and for just a couple of minutes I want to summarize some of our legislative policies and program for this Session as it relates to this bill.

We have heard the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee say that this bill will cost $70 million; we have heard the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee say that there are not sufficient taxes on the books at the present time with which to meet that payment.

When we started this now marathon Session, we had given to us the policy that no bills would pass this House unless there were sufficient taxes on the books to meet the payment thereof. I see no reason at this time to change that policy. We would only throw into confusion everything else that has gone before and unless some tax measures to meet the payment of this are produced and passed along with this bill, I urge every Member on this side of the House to vote against the bill.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. FINEMAN. To raise a point of order.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. FINEMAN. I find it most distasteful at any time to have to interrupt any speaker, but I want to pursue a point of order that was raised prior to this. We are limited to confine debate on the merits of this bill and not the fiscal policy as to how we are going to manage the financing of this bill. I find it distasteful to interrupt any speaker, but I think he should confine his remarks to the bill.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, how you are going to pay for it is—

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman yield? The gentleman from Philadelphia has raised a point of order with regard to the Acting Minority Leader's debate on this bill.

The Chair would like to state there has been considerable latitude in the debate. This is a very close question and in the Chair's opinion the gentleman has not yet exceeded his prerogative. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. FINEMAN. May I make one observation, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman rise?

Mr. FINEMAN. Along the line of a point of order or to request that the gentleman yield for a moment so that I may make an observation.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins, yield?

Mr. TOMPKINS. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. FINEMAN. I raise this point, Mr. Speaker, simply because we have presented to us in the alternative two bills, 1108 and the bill that is presently before us.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman yield? The Chair thinks the gentleman is out of order. He has permitted the gentleman from Cameron to yield the floor to him momentarily, but the gentleman from Philadelphia must confine his remarks to the bill which is presently before us.

The Chair does not wish to harass any Member in the debate on this bill, but he feels that the gentleman from Philadelphia is out of order in the last remark that he made.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, as I previously stated, there is no information regarding how this bill will be financed. They have given us none. There is no appropriation in this bill. Even though they say it will cost $70 million? Out of the present appropriations for schools which will further reduce the subsidies under the present formula?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman yield?

The Chair has been very lenient with the gentleman because of his position in extending to him the privilege of debate on this bill. However, the Chair feels that he is clearly beyond the bounds of proper debate. The gentleman will confine his remarks to the bill that is before us.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I dislike to disagree with the Chair. He has made a ruling which I will abide by.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would suggest to the gentleman that he is not in a position to disagree with the Chair.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Well, I have a right—

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would apologize to the gentleman. Calmer and wiser heads having prevailed, and the Chair will advise the gentleman that he is in a position to disagree with the Chair if he so desires. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I certainly think it is part of this bill to know exactly where they are going to get the money to pay for it.

When I asked the question as to whether or not they are going to get additional taxes to pay for this bill, or whether they are going to take it out of the appropriations that have already been made to the schools, as a new distribution system, I think it is perfectly germane to this bill. If they are going to take $70 million out of the present appropriations and give it to Philadelphia as against the $22 or $23 million which the gentleman, Mr. Perry, said was going to come from the present reimbursement formula, I certainly think that it ties into this bill. I do not think we should penalize all other school districts in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by ditching this formula and taking the money out of the present money provided for the old formula.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, what I am about to say the Chair might conceivably rule as objectionable.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would suggest to the gentleman that he make the statement first, and then the Chair will decide on it.

Mr. FINEMAN. I want to bring to the Chair's attention that he has opened the door by allowing a consideration of collateral matters.

Now, in direct reply to what the gentleman said about there not being funds available for the payment of this bill, I want to remind the gentleman that this House has passed a personal property tax to provide nearly $55 million. Let him go to the other Chamber and tell them to put that statute on our books and we will have money for the payment of this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair is very willing to allow limited debate on this matter as is the right of the House. The Chair would suggest, however, that the Members get back on the track on this debate, and with that in mind, we will recognize the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack.

Mr. McCORMACK. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Some time ago we passed the necessary legislation to permit city-county consolidation in the city of Philadelphia. As more than a casual observer—

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman yield?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order. The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. AUKER. Did the gentleman from Cameron County yield the Floor to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair understood that the gentleman from Cameron had completed his debate. The Chair would like to inquire of the gentleman . . .

Mr. AUKER. He is still on his feet.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. AUKER. No. I want a point cleared up.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will yield. The Chair would like to inquire of the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins, whether he had completed his debate?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I wanted to answer the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, in order that a misimpression could not be left in the minds of the Members of this House.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair apologizes to the gentleman for failing to realize that he had not completed his debate in this matter and recognizes the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Fineman is speaking about a bill that is over in the Senate but that is estimated to produce only $55 million. This bill provides for $70 million. There is still not enough money to provide for this bill.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order. The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. McCANN. I would request the Speaker very kindly that the Members of the House confine their debate to the bill, as we stated earlier, all those who want to speak will be given an opportunity, but I do request sincerely that we stay within the confines of the bill. I believe there are three or four others who want to speak, but I ask very patiently, that we stay on 2354.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman is quite correct. For the information, the Chair is doing his very best to achieve order in the House and confine the debate to the confines of the bill.

The Chair would like to compliment the House on its conduct for the last hour and fifteen minutes while this bill has been debated. I think it is a tribute to the House the way the Membership has conducted itself.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, as I said before, some time ago this Legislature gave the city of Philadelphia the right to consolidate. As more than a casual observer on Capitol Hill, it is apparent to me that Philadelphia is being used, and I say "used" advisedly, by other counties in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Rank injustice has been perpetrated on Philadelphia when you consider the amount of money that we pay into the Commonwealth and what we get back, not only in the field of education, but also in the field of highways, and it is apparent to me that nothing is going to be done to change that scene. The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is entirely dominated by the rural areas, and I think we ought to take the necessary steps in Philadelphia to secede from the Commonwealth.

Mr. SILVERMAN. Mr. Speaker, we are not quite ready for secession, but I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Venango, Mr. Gramlich.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would like to inquire of the gentleman whether this is germane to the bill before us?

Mr. SILVERMAN. It is very germane.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair advises the gentleman from Philadelphia that the gentleman from Venango is not in the Hall of the House.

Mr. SILVERMAN. That is very unfortunate, for just a few moments ago he gave us some very stirring statistics that almost tore my heart apart until I looked and saw the per capita state contribution for Venango was $39.04 per pupil while for Philadelphia it is $12.75. He is getting exactly three times what we get in Philadelphia so my heart has stopped bleeding.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, the Chair ruled me out of order once when I was interrogating the gentleman from Washington. I accepted the ruling with reservations and then the Chair opened the door. It later came out just what I was trying to find out. The administration was depending on the personal property tax, and I just want to make one basic commentary. Under that the city of Pittsburgh would be using the city of Philadelphia—

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman yield? The gentleman is certainly out of order and will confine his debate to the bill before us.

Mr. ISAACS. But, Mr. Speaker, you opened the door. I ask to be recognized for one moment.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would advise the gentleman that the Chair has now closed the door.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I suggest you not only close it but lock it.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, I must ask you for the same treatment that you are according other Members of this House, that is all.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman has the floor and may continue his remarks.

Mr. ISAACS. My remarks are just these. Mr. Speaker: if the other Members of this House, including this speaker, vote for that proposition or accept it, then I believe we all had better consult a psychiatrist.

Mrs. REIBMAN. Mr. Speaker, just a few brief remarks. I do not want to repeat any of the arguments which have been used in opposition to 2354, but I have these observations to make with respect to arguments from the Commonwealth or its benefits which are returned to a particular locality on a per capita basis.

It has always been the function of the state to provide on the basis of needs to individuals as exemplified in our public assistance laws, on the basis of districts as exemplified in our equalization of school subsidies. That too has been the underlying basis of our federal government. For example, if we should take the arguments advanced by the proponents of 2354 that returns should come back to a locality based on what they pay into the pot, then I would have to buy the argument advanced by New York State, which, because of its large population and because of its great wealth, pays more money in the form of income taxes and excise taxes and every other kind of tax to the Federal government and gets less back in return than many of our states that do not have the great wealth or wherewithall.

Based on that ability, the ability to pay and the ability of need has made our nation strong, and that same kind of philosophy will make our state strong. In the equalization formula with regard to subsidies to schools, it seems to me that we must examine what is the function of the state. The function of the state here is to provide for every school child in Pennsylvania a minimum acceptable program. In arriving at this kind of a formula which has already been explained on the floor of the House there are three basic factors which enter into equalization.

The equalization system operates with these three factors—a measure of local financial capacity, a measure of need, and a measure of local effort. Taking this formula with respect to House Bill 2354, all the rest of the state's subsidy formula is still used in 2354 except that one of these three factors of equalization is kicked out the window, so to speak, and the formula is loaded and in favor of those districts which have less children to educate in a public system by virtue of the fact that citizens in certain areas take their privilege as American citizens to educate their children by some other means, but that still does not lessen their obligation as citizens to the Commonwealth and this great democracy of ours to support wholeheartedly a public school system by which every person benefits.

Taking House Bill 2354, let me say that in my legislative district, for example, and we are not particularly a rural county, we have a second class city, and we have some rural sections. I might say that in my district is the slate belt, which is a chronically depressed area and we are not particularly crying the blues because up in that slate area the market value millage is well above that of many areas. As a matter of fact, in some areas up in the slate belt in Bangor, the millage on market value as certified by the state tax equalization board is 13.08. Under 2354 Bangor receives $21,818; under another formula it would receive $56,810. Under 2354, if there are $70 million to be distributed to school districts, other districts in that particular area do not get one penny out of state subsidies out of the $70 million that would be appropriated under 2354. Out of 36 school districts in my legislative district, 21 districts in Northampton County would receive nothing under 2354. Of course, they will get what they are getting now, but they would not share in this $70 million. These 21 districts are those districts in greatest need. For example, let us take the city of Easton which is a second class school district. Under House Bill 2354, and Easton is in a jointure, they would receive $138,854. If we take the same $70 million, assuming that it is available under equilization with the three basic factors involved in the formula for returning subsidies, the school district of Easton would receive $258,744.

I would like to go back to some of my fourth class school districts. For example, I am going to speak to you of a district called Freemansburg Boro, which is right outside the city of Bethlehem and lies between Bethlehem and Easton. Most of the people who live in Freemansburg area work at the Bethlehem Steel Company. As you know, the Bethlehem Steel Company is on strike. These workers have not worked for over 90 days. The millage in Freemansburg is low because there is no industry other than Bethlehem Steel Company across the bridge in the city of Bethlehem where these people work. Freemansburg Boro still has the obligation to educate the children of these steel workers who are not working and are getting surplus food. Under House Bill 2354, Freemansburg Boro school district will not get one penny. Under a formula utilizing the three basic factors. Freemansburg Boro gets $27,560.

I could go on and name all of these districts, but there is no point to that. I think that people who have given this bill a great deal of thought, who believe in the philosophy that every child should be given an opportunity to make the best of himself and that have used the function of the state to provide a minimum acceptable education program which can only be accomplished on the basis of need and ability to pay, would agree that 2354 is not the answer to almost every school district in the Commonwealth.

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, I would agree with the lady, Mrs. Reibman, that need and the ability to pay are very, very serious factors to be considered in determining school subsidies. It was because we believe there is a tremendous need in Philadelphia and we also believe that there is need to pay elsewhere than in Philadelphia that we feel the House should support this bill. I would say this, that the present formula is not so sanctimonious that it cannot be changed.

As a matter of fact, in the history of Pennsylvania there have been many methods of distribution of subsidies to local school districts. As a matter of fact, at one time it was based on the total pupil population, and I dare say that may still be the proper method. At another time, it was determined on the number of school teachers and the subsidy was based on just the number of school teachers at a specific figure. Gradually this method has changed until 1945 when the present formula was devised, but there is no one here, nor is there anyone in this Commonwealth who can say that it is a magical formula nor the only formula. As a matter of fact, I would gain-say that the fact it is not a magical formula is proved by the very existence of another bill which will be acted upon by this Legislature in the future, supported by the P.S.E.A. by many other Members of this body. That is why I say this bill which we consider today must be given full and adequate consideration because it does prove to be a fair play bill.

In the United State Congress, for every type of legislation on subsidy to the state, Congress always deals on the basis of the number of pupil population. There is no differential between public school pupils and non-public school pupils. The subsidy is based on total school pupil population.

When we look on the records as to the subsidy paid to local school districts, and I have them right here, I note that they vary from a very large to a very small sum. As a matter of fact, the average per capita subsidy in the state of Pennsylvania is approximately $45. Now low man on the totum pole in Pennsylvania is Philadelphia, the largest city in the entire state. The city that makes the greatest single contribution to the tax revenue of this state.

I would point out that many, many times before we have considered legislation, and we have made contributions and subsidies to rural and local school districts which consist of mergers and jointures and actually sometimes we pay a subsidy to a district that no longer exists. I know that the entire picture must be reconsidered and I know in order to get a proper distribution of whatever subsidy is necessary, we should consider the entire picture and make a complete study of it and then revise what is given to all the districts of Pennsylvania. Possibly some would benefit, some would lose, but at least then we would have a full and probably a determined, a fair and just equal method of payment.

I know that by going throughout the entire state of Pennsylvania we can find some school districts where the teachers' salaries are much higher than those in other school districts. The mere fact that this inequity exists is an indication that some school districts get more money than they need and other school districts receive lesser sums than they need. By merely establishing Philadelphia's situation to the situations in the districts that surround it, we can easily determine that the school teachers in those districts receive higher salaries than those in the City of Philadelphia. The fact that this is inequity is obvious on its face, and to go back to the statement that Mrs. Reibman made, that we need to assist the local school districts on the basis on need, this is an indication of a real need in Philadelphia.

Now, some gentleman, I believe from Erie County, indicated that we could increase the millage on market value in the city of Philadelphia and thereby obtain additional funds. I would point out to that gentleman that the average Commonwealth millage on market value is eleven per cent or eleven mills. In going throughout the entire Commonwealth I found out there were only thirty-seven counties that did not utilize the average millage of eleven mills on market value, so that Philadelphia alone is not at fault. There are other counties and districts in this state which could also increase their millage. Insofar as the business of including non-public school students together with public school students in order to determine this school subsidy, there is no fairer way in reality because the parents of these non-public school children pay the taxes that come into the general fund, and the general fund is the source of all subsidies, so it is impossible for me to see how it would be inequitable or unjust for any reimbursement to be determined on the basis of an inclusion of such non-public school students. I say if you really do want to be fair to the locality which does make the strongest contribution to the revenues of this Commonwealth, you should consider this bill fully, and in justice and fairness you will understand that you are aiding a locality that needs proper assistance in order to maintain a proper educational system and you will vote for this bill.

Mr. KAMYK. Mr. Speaker, I have listened with great interest to this lengthy debate and I probably learned more today about this complex system of subsidizing our school districts. This is my sixth Session but I probably learned a lot more today than I did during the five previous sessions.

It seems to me, number one, we have market valuations involved, number two, assessed valuations, number three, the number of school population, number four, parochial school population. Those four items seem to be very much in conflict, and I, coming from the Pittsburgh school district, know that we have been short-changed by this inequitable subsidizing for a long time. Therefore, I think that House Bill 2354 is a step in the right direction. It probably does not take care of all the inequities, but when you compare that a small county gets anywhere between sixty and eighty dollars per capita and then a large county gets anywhere between $12 and $20 per capita, I think there is something wrong. I do not think our school children are getting a fair deal all over the state. For those reasons I think the bill should be supported, as it is a step in the right direction, and I ask the House to vote for House Bill 2354.

Mr. EILBERG. Mr. Speaker, my remarks will be very brief. I think the remarks of the lady from Northampton need further reply.

It happens that I am a lawyer, and she is saying "ability to pay," "ability to pay." I do not know what that means as far as the issue before us is concerned, "ability to pay." Is it referring to the market value of real estate in the measure of wealth? Is that what she is referring to? If that is what she is referring to then she is completely wrong as far as her concept of ability to pay is concerned, because the number of school children is also involved. So, I say, Mr. Speaker, let us not be carried away by remarks about ability to pay when on the face they are completely meaningless. When she refers to the question of need, probably all these school districts in Pennsylvania need money.

Reference is made to the question of need. All of the school districts in Pennsylvania need money. Now, if she is referring to the city of Philadelphia, let me assure her and Members of the House that the Board of Education itself, non-political, has determined the need which we are trying to meet in House Bill No. 2354. There is need in Philadelphia. There is need throughout the state and so when we talk about need let us not discriminate against any of the districts.

Mrs. ANDERSON. Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, I am not going to detain you long but I feel that I must speak for the future citizens of Pennsylvania. We are in dire need of funds in Philadelphia, in particular. At this present time, our teachers have even threatened to strike.

I want to quote to you some of the salary figures. The standard, salary figure that the teachers are receiving in Philadelphia, the minimum, is $4,041 a year; the maximum $5,700 to $6,100. That is for standard Bachelor salary. If one has a Master's degree, the minimum is $4,200 to $4,300, and the maximum is $6,500. The surrounding counties, such as Allentown, Bucks County, the suburbs of Philadelphia, even Harrisburg and the West Shore pay more to their teachers than we do in Philadelphia. We are asking that you vote for that bill so that we can continue to have a high calibre of teachers. We want to pay them an equal salary to anybody else in the state. Please vote for 2354.

Mr. DENNIS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to read this letter I received in regard to 2354 and make it part of the record.

Dear Mr. Dennis:

I have long been interested in public education and the various methods and proposals for its support at all levels of the government.

In all proposals made in Congress for aid-to-education, the basis for distribution is the total population or total child population of the various states. The question of whether children are attending public or non-public schools has been considered as having no bearing on a state's ability to support a proper educational program.

H.B. 2354 was introduced into the House with wide-spread bi-partisan support to correct a great inequity. At present many school districts are shown to be much richer than they really are—this happens because the children attending non-public schools are excluded in determining district valuations. Taxpayers in these districts are robbed by lowering the state subsidy and requiring higher local taxes.

This is not a partisan matter. Taxpayers from hundreds of districts will be benefited—regardless of whether they are Republican or Democrats.

I, personally, ask that you guarantee fair play to all the people of Pennsylvania by voting for H.B. 2354. Sincerely yours, William J. Green, Jr. Member of Congress.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

STATEMENT BY ACTING MINORITY LEADER

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to make this statement before the Members start drifting away.

We are going to convene at 10:00 o'clock in the morning, and there are two very important bills, one of them a stop-gap appropriation for the Department of Welfare that must get over to the Senate so they can take some action on it tomorrow in order that we can keep up the Department of Public Welfare program, as well as another bill, which must get over to the Senate.

I understand the Majority Leader will be taking them up as soon as the prayer is over in the morning, in order that those bills can get into the hands of the Senate.

I give you that notice now as we want to have you here tomorrow morning.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of Senate Bill No. 53, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 29, 1959 (Act No. 32) entitled "The Vehicle Code" requiring an annual physical examination of school bus drivers and providing for filing a certificate of such examination with the Department of Public Instruction and the local school district.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on final passage?

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, October 21, 1959.

The Senate met at 9:00 o'clock, a.m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore (M. Harvey Taylor) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, The Venerable ALLEN R. DAY, Rector of Mount Calvary Episcopal Church, Camp Hill, offered the following prayer:

I would like to offer up two prayers this morning; one for you men, and one for your safe return.

Lord of power and Giver of grace and wisdom, we commend to Thee all who are engaged in the government of this State. Grant to them clean hands, pure hearts and un-failing devotion to the cause of righteousness.

To Thee, Merciful Lord, we commend their work, praying that it may be such as will promote Thy work in our midst to the succor of the poor, the relief of the oppressed the putting down of all social evils and to the redress of all social wrongs. Let all those that think or speak or do, do this to the glory of Thy Name and for the service and the good of Thy people. This we ask through Jesus Christ, our Lord.

O God, who art always present with those whom You love, enfold with Thy loving arms those who are away from us at this time. We also ask Thy loving protection for we who are about to return unto our homes. Guide us safely back to those we love so that once again together, with unwavering faith, we may glorify Thy Holy Name, through Jesus Christ, our Lord.

May the Lord bless you and keep you. May the Lord make His face to shine upon you and be gracious unto you. May the Lord lift up his countenance upon you, and guide you safely home. This we ask through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. BERGER and Mr. PROPERT, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

Senate Resolution No. 11	26

INTRODUCTION

Senate Resolution No. 11, introduced by Senator George N. Wade, Senator Henry J. Probert, and Senator Edward J. Kessler and adopted by the Senate on March 3, 1959, directed that a committee of five Senators be appointed to investigate the Department of Public Instruction and to report its findings and recommendations to the Senate.

The Committee was directed to give particular attention to:

" . . . fiscal policies of the administration of the Department of Public Instruction and expenditure of appropriations without budgetary limitations together with their effect on local school district financing and their effect on the fiscal and educational policies and procedures of the entire educational system within the Commonwealth . . . "

The Committee held fourteen days of public hearings and heard testimony on almost every phase of the Department's activities. In addition, many written presentations were made available to the Committee.

Throughout the investigation, the Committee had the cooperation of the Superintendent of Public Instruction and the entire Department. The spirit of cooperation exhibited by the Department was helpful to the Committee.

FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

The Department of Public Instruction is the largest agency within the State Government that is supported by the General Fund. For the 1959-61 biennium, budget requests exceeded $884 million, or more than 50 per cent of the total General Fund budget. It was testified that total expenditures for public education will increase in the next decade to $2.6 billion per biennium, with projections based on today's rate of expenditures.

If expenditures for public education at the local level are considered—expenditures over which the Department's policies exercise considerable control—another $944 million per biennium would be added to the present-day cost of education.

Obviously, the task assigned the Committee was an imposing one. The scope of the Department's activities is so great that the Committee could not make anything like a thorough examination of the Department, within the time and resources available to it.

The Committee did, however, make inquiry into many phases of the Department activities, within the limits of its time and resources, and as a result of its study, the need for some changes becomes evident.

State Council of Education

Section 202 of the Administrative Code and Section 2802 of the School Code place the State Council of Education in the Department of Public Instruction and make it an administrative office within the Department.

Section 2806 names the members of the State Council as the Superintendent of Public Instruction and nine other members, with the proviso that the Superintendent shall be the president and chief officer. Further, a quorum shall consist of the Superintendent and five other members.

Section 2811 gives broad powers, policy and administrative, to the Council, but, in a footnote, indicates that it is independent of the Superintendent except for matters involving the expenditure of money and gives the Department authority to examine the records and accounts of the Council and to pass on the necessity and propriety of its expenditures.

In reality, then, the State Council of Education is only an adjunct of the Department and is completely subservient to the Superintendent. Testimony heard by the Committee supported this position.

There is no doubt that the Council is generally accepted as being of superior authority to the Department and, therefore, to the Superintendent. Obviously, however, this is not the case.

It was held by several witnesses before the Committee that the State Council of Education should be reorganized. This was supported by the Superintendent. The Committee, however, did not have the benefit of detailed recommendations for its reorganization.

Certainly, the Council should be given broad policy powers. At the same time, there seems to be little reason for burdening the Council with administrative duties. The Council should be independent of and superior to the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

School Finances*

While the Committee was unable to prove any case of waste of public funds, there were instances when responsible public officials indicated a lack of knowledge of basic budgetary and accounting control procedures. Indeed, at times there appeared to be a distressing lack of interest in such procedures and a total absence of coordination by the Superintendent.

That attitude, plus the manner in which some Departmental officials "interpreted" their budget items, emphasized the need for a legislative budget and finance committee which would review and examine fiscal information concerning the budget, the appropriations and the expenditures of the Department of Public Instruction. Such a Committee has been authorized by the 1959 General Assembly, this Committee is happy to note.

*See Dissenting Statement on page 21.

The matter of school finances is one of which permeates almost any discussion on education. Whether it be reorganization of school districts, transportation, accounting and auditing, school building construction, post-secondary education or whatever—the cost of the item is an important factor. Because of this, no attempt will be made to examine finances alone. Rather, the cost will be examined as a part of the phase of education under discussion.

It should be noted here, too, that recent developments in the area of State auditing of school district accounts merit the attention of the General Assembly. An integrated system of reporting, including budgets, financial reports, and auditors reports, should be established for the school district.

Reorganization of School Districts

The problem of reorganization of school districts was set forth by several witnesses before the Committee. The present program, by means of supplemental subsidies, encourages districts to merge or join together in unions. Many extremely small high schools still exist, schools which by their size, it is contended, deny the student the complete education that might otherwise be available to him.

A system of joint school districts is in existence across the State, with more than three-quarters of the districts involved. This was envisioned by some as being a preliminary to the formation of union or merged districts. It seems, however, that further steps should be considered to get the district to form unions and mergers.

The many joint school districts have, generally, offered better and broader programs of instruction. They have done so, however, at an increased cost that has been made necessary to maintain and service these new school systems. New buildings have been required. Larger professional staffs have created a need for more supervisory personnel. Transportation services, with their attendant increase in costs, have risen many-fold.

While it is not contended that a union school district can operate at a reduced cost, improvements in administration, centralization of authority and better coordination of the entire school program are possible. This reorganization should also serve to stabilize the financial structure of the school districts.

A plan must be devised whereby the State's school districts can be reorganized into more efficient units of school administration. This is, however, another of the areas in which the Committee received little by way of concrete suggestions for improvement.

It is recommended, therefore, that this problem be referred for further study. Since its impact is so general, and its consequence broad, a thorough report should be available to the General Assembly at its next regular session.

School Building Construction*

The General Assembly has authorized subsidies for the construction of school buildings to a maximum of $925 million, under legislation enacted through the 1957 session. Proposals before the 1959 session would raise this to $1.4 billion.

The need for new school buildings has, of course, had its impetus from several sources. A huge increase in population has been the result of both an expanded birth rate and a decrease in drop-outs among the older pupils. Shifts of population from established centers to suburban communities have created demands for new schools. Need for replacement of old schoolhouses has added to the construction demand. The new, larger administrative units being created have also added to the pressure for new buildings.

The Committee is disturbed by the frequent reports of school construction which tends to too much lavishness. It is difficult, however, to determine the real reasons for the addition of so many extra- and expensive-items. School boards are prone to charge that the Department requires them to add items. The Department claims that it is instrumental in keeping costs down by refusing permission for the addition of unnecessary items within reimbursable amounts of construction. The Department admits need for economies in construction, but claims that it is not easy to convince architects that changes in design and materials might be both better construction and more economical construction.

While it is difficult to fix responsibility for the extravagance in financing and construction of school buildings, policies of the Department of Public Instruction have certainly contributed to the increased costs. However, the responsibility for any extravagances must be shared in part by all concerned.

It is clear to the Committee that the school building program is in need of a thorough and complete examination. A more common sense approach and much more consistency by the Department is needed. A more practical approach by the architects is in order. A more realistic attitude on the part of all concerned is necessary. Properly tied in with reorganization of local school districts, these changes in approach and attitude should result in more economical construction.

Again, there is a dearth of definite suggestions to meet the problem. Certainly the Department should have available on its staff personnel qualified to assist in advising on financing of school construction. The merits of competitive bidding in the sale of bonds, in place of the present negotiated sale, should be explored. Because of the magnitude of the question and its long-range impact on the financial conditions of the local school districts and the Commonwealth's school obligations, it is important that the entire school construction program be examined carefully and immediately.

This problem too, should be referred for study, with the request that a report be submitted to the 1961 Session of the General Assembly.

Transportation

The rapid movement into jointures and the terrific increase in school population that have been witnessed in the past decade have created a major problem in the financing of transportation services. In order for an individual school district for a joint school system to provide the most efficient bus operation for its own pupils, it has become not uncommon to find duplication of routes among neighboring systems.

If these districts could be put together in some sort of a combined transportation system, whether local, county or regional, efficiencies and economies could be expected. Similarly, there is reason to expect economies through a system of centralized purchasing of buses. Any examination of the school transportation problem would not be complete without a discussion of the relative merits of district-owned buses versus contract hauling of pupils.

Again, the Committee heard the many facets of the problem, and a few of the possible solutions. It is recommended, however, that this subject also be referred for study.

Distribution of State Subsidies

A discussion of the distribution of State subsidies must recognize that two factors are involved. One, the level at which it is determined to equalize educational opportunity, which determines how much the educational program will cost, and, two, how that cost is to be divided between the State and local district.

Presently, distribution is made on the basis of a formula that places the "equalization level" at $5,800 and which requires the local district to make an effort equal to 4-3/8 mills of its market value.

This formula has been questioned. It is charged that the formula is not equitable. It is also contended that the levels of $5,800 and 4-3/8 mills are now too low.

In considering possible alternatives during the 1959 Session, the General Assembly has given thought to proposals which would, among other changes, raise both the equalization level and the local effort and change the method for determining teaching units. While there are differences of opinion on the philosophies involved, there are also differences on each proposal when estimates are placed on the cost of each to the Commonwealth and to the school districts.

The General Assembly has been discussing this problem throughout this Session. The Committee devoted many hours to the question. Its importance and its impact on the educational system and on the taxpayers cannot be denied. Nevertheless, the acceptable solution is no nearer now than it was when the Assembly first convened this year.

It is imperative that the General Assembly continue to study the distribution of State subsidies to assure that the fairest and most equitable system is employed.

Post-Secondary Education

Efficient administration of education at the post-secondary level in Pennsylvania is made difficult by the crowded conditions which exist at most of the State's colleges and universities. This problem will be compounded by an expected increase of 60,000 students within the coming decade.

In order that the Commonwealth may meet the demand for an education for its youth, coordinated planning must be initiated immediately. Two factors must be borne in mind: The Program of Education offered must be adequate and it must be within the means of the Commonwealth and its taxpayers.

Numerous suggestions have been offered to the Committee. Many of them merit consideration.

The State Teachers Colleges should become instead State Colleges and their function expanded from one limited to teacher education to one offering a general college education program.

At the same time, there is obvious need for expansion in college facilities to accommodate the increased enrollment anticipated. This can be accomplished by added construction at the State's colleges or by the establishment of a system of junior colleges across the State.

A system of junior colleges, it is contended, will siphon off from the colleges the freshmen and sophomores, permitting these institutions to accommodate the larger junior and senior classes without expansion in staff or physical facilities. This program assumes the use of high school or other existing buildings.

However a junior college program is to be established, the plan should be given serious consideration. It is important that the exact place of the junior college within the State's system of public education be clearly established.

A thorough study should be made to evaluate the need and the best and most effective system that could be set up. It is recommended that this question be referred to further study and later report to the General Assembly.

Any report should review the entire public education program in Pennsylvania at the post-secondary level. The obvious need for closer liaison between the Department, the high schools and the colleges should be explored in the study.

With the need for closer cooperation throughout all levels of educations being cited as necessary if a system of education is to be one coordinated program, it is imperative that there be but one body responsible for making policy and for coordinating and supervising the entire program.

Professional Licensing

Evidence before the Committee is overwhelming that the responsibility for the administration of professional licensing should not be with the Department of Public Instruction.

The only reason for having 14 boards in the Department hinges on the fact that each board includes some sort of educational requirement among its qualifications for issuing a license to practice the profession it regulates.

This does not appear to be sufficient reason for burdening the Department with a function that has little to do with the education of public school children in Pennsylvania.

It is recommended that the Bureau of Professional Licensing be transferred from the Department of Public Instruction to another of the departments of State government. While there is no compelling reason for doing so, the probable place for the function is with the Secretary of the Commonwealth, although further study might suggest placing it elsewhere.

This Committee is interested only in its removal from the Department of Public Instruction. Apparently, changes and coordination in the administration of the 14 boards is in order, but the Committee will not enter into the discussion, since its primary interest lies with the Department of Public Instruction.

Recapitulation

Suggestions have been made that, if implemented, would result in a general reorganization of the educational system in Pennsylvania. The State Council of Education would be reorganized; school districts would be reorganized; an integrated system of post-secondary education would be established.

A number of studies have been recommended which would serve to assist the General Assembly in considering fiscal aspects of education. School building construction has added tremendously to the cost of education in Pennsylvania. School transportation, expanded many-fold because of the widespread movement into jointures and the increase in school population, has added to the cost of education.

The increased costs of education and the demand on the part of the public for better educational programs have spotlighted possible inequities which exist in the present system of distribution of State subsidies and the accompanying equalization of educational opportunity across the State. Because of this, request is made for continuing studies into the distribution of State subsidies for education.

Suggestions are made that an integrated system of post-secondary education be established. The apparent need demands that early consideration be given so that, if found to be critical, a system can be in operation in time for it to help in absorbing the increase of 60,000 students that is expected at the college level within the coming decade.

To unburden the Department of Public Instruction of a chore that does not properly belong there, it is recommended that its Bureau of Professional Licensing be transferred to another department within the State government.

Commission on Education

It is noteworthy that every recommendation made, with the possible exception of the transfer of Professional Licensing, requires further study before decisions can be made. In many instances the further study is made necessary by the lack of agreement among school people on basic issues.

It is imperative, then, that a special study group be created. To be effective, such a study group should have sufficient resources in time, money and staff to permit a thorough examination of the problems cited.

It is recommended that H-2142, now before the Senate Committee on Rules, be amended so that there be created a temporary Commission, composed of legislative and non-legislative members. The Commission shall be charged with the duty of determining which of the problems cited here are most critical and to make a complete and thorough study of these problems. The Commission should report back to the General Assembly at the 1961 Session with detailed recommendations. The report should specify the State's share and the local share of the cost of its recommendations.

Should its recommendations be such as to increase the cost of education to the Commonwealth, the Commission shall determine the amount of increase and shall make recommendations to the General Assembly as to how the additional funds may be secured. At any point in the report, alternative recommendations may be submitted, so long as each is complete.

Because of the little time remaining between now and 1961 Session and in view of the magnitude of some of the problems to be considered, it is imperative that the Commission on Education be appointed and that it organize with a minimum of delay.

If such a Commission is created, the many resolutions introduced in the Senate and in the House of Representatives to study various phases of education in Pennsylvania, could properly be a part of its agenda.

Dissenting Statement by Senator Jo Hays and Senator Harry E. Seyler

With two noteworthy exceptions, we are content with the report of the special Senate committee. We are also content to join the majority of the committee in its recommendation of a temporary Commission on Education provided that adequate revenue is provided for this purpose.

There are two areas, however, in which the report of the committee is in glaring contrast with the facts as they appear in the proceedings of the committee. In both instances, the report is unfair to the Department of Public Instruction, in one instance to the local officials of our school districts, and in one instance the position of two members of the committee is misrepresented.

On page 7 under the heading "School Finances," unfair and unwarranted generalizations are drawn from the testimony presented at the hearing. It is certainly true that the committee found no evidence of waste in public funds in the management of the Department of Public Instruction. The famous charge, which formed the original basis of the committee's appointment—of the alleged $100,000 expended "to redecorate a suite of offices"—evaporated when exposed to the evidence. All other similar charges and innuendoes were similarly found baseless.

It is not true, however, that there was evidence of "instances when responsible public officials indicated a lack of knowledge of basic budgeting and accounting control procedures"; nor was there evidence to support the statement that "at times there appeared to be a distressing lack of interest in such procedures and a total absence of coordination by the Superintendent." There were times, it is true, when questions were asked of witnesses which did not pertain to their area of competence or responsibility. Surely, not all members of the department nor even a majority can be expected to be expert accountants, or expert in the details of budgeting control procedures. If this were so, there would be a reasonable basis of complaint in that such a situation would indicate that there were too many accountants and not enough educators in a department entrusted with educational leadership of the state's school systems.

Repeatedly such interrogations misdirected by members of the committee were referred to members of the department who were properly entrusted with such fiscal administration and all such questions were entirely and adequately answered when so appropriately referred. A person who expects a Superintendent of Public Instruction, the prime educational statesman of the Commonwealth, to devote his time to master the small details of budget control assigned by him to experts in such areas, instead of the great questions of educational policy, is hardly equipped to investigate this important area of the state's responsibility to its citizens. Much testimony was available within and without the department among the state's outstanding educators that the Superintendent was meeting this prime responsibility of educational leadership in an outstanding manner.

In the second paragraph under "School Finances" on page 7 of the report the position of at least two of the members of the Senate committee is misrepresented. We certainly do not agree that there is a "need for a legislative budget and finance committee which would review and examine fiscal information concerning the budget, the appropriations and the expenditures of the Department of Public Instruction," or of other executive departments of the government. Nor are we "happy to note" that "such a Committee has been authorized." We voted against this proposal.

It seems to us that such a committee can well endanger the division of powers established by our federal and state constitutions and so subvert what has been one of the distinctive advantages of our form of government. The balance of power between the three parts of our government is likely to be destroyed if one of them assumes the power to interfere with the constitutional duties of the others.

The other area of the report which we find not warranted by the evidence produced in the hearings of the committee occurs in the 3rd, 4th, and 5th paragraphs under the heading "School Building Construction" on pages 10 and 11.

There was no explicit evidence presented to the committee which established the incidence of "lavishness" in school construction. Nor were any criteria presented which were accepted by the committee enabling them to draw a distinction between adequacy, attractiveness, and "lavishness." The term "lavishness" in regard to school construction is an epithet which can be used to condemn but which is a matter of taste and judgment by school board members elected by the citizens and taxpayers of local communities, responsive to such citizens and removable by them at regular elections.

Nor is it true that any school boards appearing before the committee charged that the Department was responsible for adding educationally unnecessary items. Some locally disgruntled citizens alleged that such items were included in buildings, but all such allegations about the Department were thoroughly refuted.

Perhaps it is true that the evidence indicated that more authority should be given to the Department to regulate school plans and construction, and perhaps there was also evidence warranting the conclusion that more staff was needed by the Department, particularly experts in this area, but certainly there was no evidence warranting the statement that "a more common sense approach and much more consistency by the Department is needed."

Pronouncements of individual committee members were constantly filled with such statements, but these are not to be confused with unrefuted testimony of competent witnesses who were heard by the committee.

By Messrs. WADE, PROPERT and KESSLER.

SENATE COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE THE REDECORATION OF THE OFFICES OF CHARLES H. BOEHM, SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.

In the Senate, February 16, 1959.

It is rumored from reliable sources that the Superintendent of Public Instruction, Dr. Charles H. Boehm, is in the process of expending approximately $100,000 to redecorate his suite of offices and that within the past twelve months he has remodeled rooms adjacent to his private office at a similar cost. If these rumors are true, it is difficult to understand why such extensive alterations and beautifications are being undertaken at a time when our public schools need every available dollar to carry on the education of our youth. The amount being expended, if properly applied, could undoubtedly prevent certain schools from being closed as fire hazards.

Such an expensive undertaking is certainly not in conformity with the purported economies to be effected by our new administration.

It is recognized that responsible officials of our Commonwealth should be provided with adequate offices, but a line should be drawn between that which is necessary for comfort and efficiency and that which constitutes luxury and reputed sheer waste of tax moneys; therefore, be it Resolved, that the President Pro Tempore of the Senate appoint a committee of five Senators to investigate the truthfulness of rumors relating to the redecoration of the offices of Charles H. Boehm, Superintendent of Public Instruction, and further fiscal policies of his administration of the Department of Public Instruction and expenditure of appropriations without budgetary limitation together with their effect on local school district financing and their effect on the fiscal and educational policies and procedures of the entire educational system within the Commonwealth and to determine whether or not such costly alterations and policies are necessary and defensible at this time; and be it further

Resolved, That the committee may hold hearings take testimony and make its investigations at such places as it shall deem necessary within this Commonwealth. It may issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman, commanding any person to appear before it and to answer questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee deems necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person and shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Any person who wilfully neglects or refuses to testify before the committee or to produce any books, papers, records or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases. Each member of the committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee; and be it further

Resolved, That the committee so appointed shall report back to the Senate its findings and recommendations as soon as possible.

Referred to Rules, February 16.

Reported as amended, March 2.

Adopted March 3, 1959.

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I would call your attention to the fact that this is a thirty-page report, which is a kind of distillation of some thousands of pages of testimony, and hundreds of pages of exhibits.

These materials represent, it seems to me, a good study of public education and the department of Public Instruction in the year 1959 in this Commonwealth. I have been told by students and librarians that these are the kind of materials which are useful to them. I also understand that many copies of the thirty-page report are available. However, there are a limited number—seven or eight—of copies of the original thousands of pages of testimony. Therefore, I am suggesting to my fellow committee members that we make available to universities in the State that have students, particularly graduate students in political science, government and education, our copies of this particular study, so that the libraries of the State may be enriched in this manner. It is my plan to give my copies to the library of Pennsylvania State University, and I suggest to the other members of the committee that they give consideration to this aspect of the report.

It seems to me, in this way, the State will benefit from the report in a way that most of us on the committee had not originally thought they would benefit.

I call to your attention, also, that there have been times perhaps when I have spoken here on behalf of public education and asked the Senators to provide money. Here is a way we can help higher education in Pennsylvania without expending a penny.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair might normally be expected to speak on this topic. However, by the wise provision of the President pro tempore, the Chair is now prevented from making any comments.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. RUTH, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 453, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 1, 1956 (P. L. 1959), entitled "An act fixing the salaries and compensation of the Chief Justice and Judges of the Supreme Court, the President Judge and judges of the Superior Court, the judges of the courts of common pleas, the judges of the orphans' courts, the judges of the Municipal Court of Philadelphia and the judges of the County Court and Juvenile Court of Allegheny County, certain associate judges not learned in the law, certain state officers, and the salary and expenses of the members of the General Assembly, and repealing certain inconsistent acts," increasing the compensation of judges of the Municipal Court of Philadelphia.

He also, from the Committee on Rules, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 1220, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Department of Property and Supplies with the approval of the Governor, to sell and convey 7,715 square feet of land situate in East Allen Township, Northampton County.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION No. 102 REPORTED FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. RUTH from the Committee on Rules, to which was referred on September 15, 1959, the following resolution from the House of Representatives, reported the same without amendments as follows, viz:

STATE COUNCIL CIVIL DEFENSE CONSULT WITH ATOMIC ENERGY COMMISSION ON DEFENSE MEASURES

In the House of Representatives, August 5, 1959.

It has long been evident that the rulers of international Communism are determined to spread their godless doctrine to every part of the globe by any and all means, including war if other means fail.

The people of the United States and of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania may one day be subjected to the supreme trial of an all-out atom and hydrogen bomb attack.

Such an all-out attack against us is less likely to come if we bring our military and civil defense preparedness to a high level.

The continuity of State government and protection of its key personnel will be of vital importance during an atomic attack.

The General State Authority is now designing a second underground parking facility to be built adjacent to the State Capitol Building in Harrisburg; therefore be it

Resolved (The Senate concurring), That the State Council of Civil Defense, in cooperation with the General State Authority, be directed to consult with the Atomic Energy Commission in Washington, D. C. on the feasibility of extending the use of the projected underground parking facility to include (1) a fallout shelter for government employees; (2) emergency operational headquarters to be used by the Governor and the Council of Civil Defense, or both, and study such other Civil Defense uses as can be made of the structure; and be it further

Resolved, That the State Council of Civil Defense report its findings to the Legislature; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the State Council of Civil Defense and to the General State Authority.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. This resolution will appear on the Calendar for Monday, November 9, 1959.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. BERGER, from the Committee on Judiciary General, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 924, entitled:

An Act providing subpoena power for District Attorneys.

He also, from the Committee on Judiciary General, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 1043, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 1, 1907 (P. L. 135), entitled "An act relating to the appointment of stenographers and assistant stenographers to report proceedings in the several courts of common pleas, and orphans' courts, courts of oyer and terminer and general jail delivery, and courts of quarter sessions of the peace, of this Commonwealth, as well as before commissioners, masters, and special masters in chancery, referees, examiners, auditors, and other officers; . . ." further providing for the giving of copies of notes of testimony in criminal cases.

He also, from the Committee on Judiciary General, reported as committed, House Bill No. 1355, entitled:

An Act amending "The Penal Code," approved June 24, 1939 (P. L. 872), redefining the offense of shoplifting as larceny, a felony, and increasing penalties for such offense.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE ON EXECUTIVE NOMINATIONS

Mr. BERGER, from the Committee on Executive Nominations, reported with a favorable recommendation the following nominations, made by His Excellency, the Governor:

MEMBER OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF PENNSYLVANIA TRAINING SCHOOL AT MORGANZA

October 19, 1959.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In conformity with law, I have the honor hereby to nominate for the advice and consent of the Senate the following for appointment as a member of the Board of Trustees of Pennsylvania Training School at Morganza, until the third Tuesday of January 1961, and until his successor is appointed and qualified.

Edward L. Dardanell, 1500 Riverside Road, Pittsburgh 35, Allegheny County to fill a vacancy.

DAVID L. LAWRENCE.

MEMBER OF THE PENNSYLVANIA AERONAUTICS COMMISSION

October 19, 1959.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In conformity with law, I have the honor hereby to nominate for the advice and consent of the Senate Hugh J. McMenamin, Scranton, Lackawanna County, for re-appointment as a member of the Pennsylvania Aeronautics Commission, from December 1, 1958, until December 1, 1962, and until his successor shall be duly appointed and shall have qualified, unless not re-elected for succeeding term.

DAVID L. LAWRENCE.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. VAN SANT read in his place and presented in the Chair Senate Bill No. 1230, entitled:

An Act amending the act of July 8, 1941 (P. L. 298), entitled "Fourth Class County Retirement Law," further providing for optional minimum retirement allowances.

Which was committed to the Committee on Rules.

CONSIDERATION OF EXECUTIVE NOMINATIONS

Mr. BERGER asked and obtained unanimous consent for immediate consideration of the nominations reported at today's Session.

EXECUTIVE SESSION

A motion was made by Mr. BERGER and Mr. TAYLOR, that the Senate do now resolve itself into Executive Session, for the purpose of acting upon the nominations reported at today's Session.

Which was agreed to.

The nominations were read as follows:

MEMBER OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF PENNSYLVANIA TRAINING SCHOOL AT MORGANZA

October 19, 1959.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In conformity with law, I have the honor hereby to nominate for the advice and consent of the Senate the following for appointment as a member of the Board of Trustees of Pennsylvania Training School at Morganza, until the third Tuesday of January 1961, and until his successor is appointed and qualified:

Edward L. Dardanell, 1500 Riverside Road, Pittsburgh 35, Allegheny County, to fill a vacancy.

DAVID L. LAWRENCE.

MEMBER OF THE PENNSYLVANIA AERONAUTICS COMMISSION

October 19, 1959.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In conformity with law, I have the honor hereby to nominate for the advice and consent of the Senate Hugh J. McMenamin, Scranton, Lackawanna County, for re-appointment as a member of the Pennsylvania Aeronautics Commission, from December 1, 1958, until December 1, 1962, and until his successor shall be duly appointed and shall have qualified, unless not re-elected for succeeding term.

DAVID L. LAWRENCE.

A motion was made by Mr. BERGER and Mr. TAYLOR, that the Senate do advise and consent to said nominations.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I know that Second Reading is not the time to debate a bill. My purpose is not to debate this measure, but to merely observe that since we passed Senate Bill No. 405, which was supposed to clarify all of the problems regarding Sunday closings and Sunday enforcement, we have since passed four other measures to further clarify the clarification. I am afraid if this Session goes much longer, we will have a number of other clarifications which will have to be made to this very excellent law which was passed here, which sort of clarified what was a miasma to begin with, and which will continue to be a miasma as long as we have this law on the books, which I thought, and still say, is a retrogressive piece of legislation.

I just wanted to bring to your attention that we continue to pass behind this clarification, further clarifications.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I do not understand that this is a bill to clarify Senate Bill No. 405. On the other hand, if the Senator has in mind some further clarification bills on that, I have several that we might consider.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, this only bears out what I have been saying. As long as we are here, we will have further clarifications of the clarification.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

It was agree to .

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 2405, entitled:

An Act amending the act of December 27, 1951 (P. L. 1742), entitled as amended "The Realty Transfer Tax Act" further defining the word "document."

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

STUDENTS OF SWOYERSVILLE HIGH SCHOOL, SWOYERSVILLE, LUZERNE COUNTY, PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, in the absence of our distinguished colleague, the Honorable Harold E. Flack, who underwent surgery recently and is recuperating at his home, I would like to take this opportunity to introduce a group of visitors from Luzerne County who are with us today in the Senate. They are students from the Swoyersville High School in Swoyersville, Pennsylvania. We are delighted to have them here, coming from that great county of Luzerne.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair is very happy to welcome these students. At this time, I ask them to rise and receive the applause of the Senate.

On behalf of Senator Flack, who is absent today, we welcome you. We regret that the good Senator is not able to be present with us today. All of us are, of course, hoping for his early return to the Senate.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 2322, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30) entitled "Public School Code of 1949" providing for additional payments to certain school districts.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

RECESS

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request a one-half hour recess of the Senate for the purpose of awaiting communications from the House of Representatives.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any objections? The Chair hears no objection, and declares a one-half hour recess of the Senate.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT pro tempore (M. Harvey Taylor) in the Chair.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

WEDNESDAY, October 21, 1959

The House met at 9:00 a. m. EST.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Reverend Nelson Frank, Pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Church, State College, Centre County, guest Chaplain and guest of the gentleman from Centre County, Mr. Fulmer and the House Chaplain, offered the following prayer:

Eternal God, Whose mercy is over all Thy works and Whose will is ever directed to Thy children's good, we bow reverently before Thee.

We thank Thee for Thy kindly Providence that has watched over us in all our ways. For the blessings of home and country, the good fortune of health and friends, and for the sense of Thy abiding presence, we offer our praise and thanksgiving.

We ask Thy blessing upon the men and women in this room who represent the people this State, and who are called upon to make decisions affecting the welfare of ten million people. Season their judgement with wisdom and their spirit with courage.

Enlarge our minds to think Thy thoughts and strengthen our resolve to do Thy will, this day and always. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journal for Tuesday, October 20, 1959 will be postponed until printed.

The Chair hears none.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. AGNEW asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, there appeared an article in the Philadelphia Inquirer, Tuesday morning edition, under the by-line of John M. Cummings, which I think is worthy of comment in this legislative Hall and deserves answer.

I do not know whether this article was intended to be humorous. If it was, I would then now apologize to the reporter under whose by-line the article appears.

However, what it was intended to be and what it is are two different things. As background for my comments, for those of you who may have missed this enlightening piece of journalism, I shall now quote, not verbatim, but pertinent portions of this illuminating article.

It is entitled "State Dog Needed Surely Not a 'Must,'" and I quote:

"In any legislative body, such as Congress or the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, the Senate is known as the upper chamber. Down through the years it has become firmly implanted in the public mind that the average of intelligence is much higher in the Senate than it is in the House or lower chamber."

And continuing:

"Every member of the House at Harrisburg is ambitious to become a Senator.

This is not to say that the House, with its more than 200 members, is devoid of intelligence. Indeed, a close search unquestionably would come up with members whose intelligence quotient would equal that of some Senators. But taking the 50-Member Senate as a whole and comparing it with the whole membership of the House, the intellectual balance would dip sharply on the side of the upper or more select chamber.

Because of this difference there is every likelihood the Senate in the exercise of its wisdom will give short shrift to the dog patch legislation recently passed by the House.

Then the article goes on to discuss the Great Dane official state dog bill.

Continuing:

To prove there are in the House some, but not many, men of intelligence you need only to take a gander at the words of wisdom uttered by Representative Auker of Blair County. The dog business in the House was denounced by this sensible lawmaker as "ridiculous and asinine."

Then our commentator goes on to say:

Why should Pennsylvania have an official state dog? And if we are to have an official pooch why shouldn't the House in which the nonsense originated be called the Dog House?

But then to show the lack of logic and the inconsistency which is unfortunately typical of some members of the journalistic profession later on in the article, our reporter friend says and I quote: "Until our own dog died of old age some months ago, we strongly favored the English Setter for the official title. With her demise we lost interest."

Now I would like to comment briefly on some of the more glaring sentences in this article.

In the first place, the gentleman says that our level of intelligence is much lower than that of the Senate. I think this is a ridiculous statement which libels every Member of this House with the possible exception of one. I do not think it has any place in any serious publication appearing in this Commonwealth concerning the Representatives of the people. "Every Member of the House at Harrisburg is ambitious to become a Senator." Now he did not say almost every Member, he said every Member. I think it must be said at this time that there are not just some Members who have no ambition to become Members of the other chamber, I think it is a fair statement that a substantial majority of the Members of this House, if they had their choice, would prefer to remain here rather than go over there.

Then the gentleman goes on to say that the Senate, because of its superior wisdom, will undoubtedly give short shrift to this piece of legislation. Forgetting about the merits of this legislation, an identical bill in 1957, in an identical Senate originated over there. It was Senate Bill 135, and on April 23, 1957, the Senate in its wisdom, superior wisdom, passed this bill by a vote of 27 to 17 and sent the Great Dane to be the official state dog Senate Bill 135 over to the House, where it met an ultimate fate by being defeated on final passage on June 18, 1957, by a vote of 81 to 87.

Those Members of the Senate then are almost with one exception the same members of that illustrious body today. Perhaps since they are two years older they have gained in that wisdom that was discussed in the article I have commented upon freely.

However, I do not wish to state that the Members of this House on an average have a superior intellect to those of the Senate, but I do think there is no real question that our intellect on the average is the equal of the average intellect in the other Chamber.

I might point out for the benefit, not necessarily of the reporters present, but all reporters, because those present are our friends, they have a job to do, and by and large they do it very well. However, I might remind them that they are not perfect either. I might also remind them that the Members of this House represent all the people, even the stupid people, even reporters.

Now that the intelligence level of the Members of this House has been discussed in public print, I think it is only fair and proper that in this forum the general intelligence level of reporters might also be discussed. I think we have all had the experience of attending sessions of this House or other public affairs and having had the opportunity of reading the same discussed in public print the next day. As I said, I have a lot of respect and a certain friendship for many members of the journalistic profession. However, there have been times when I have read with amazement reports in the public Press of things that transpired the day before in my presence and that of Members of the House and the Speaker and members of the Press, and any similarity between the two was purely coincidental, so there must be something to be said about the general level of intelligence of reporters, or at least some reporters.

Let us examine the general level of intelligence of publishers. It seems to me that there is only one qualification required to be a publisher and that is to have enough money to buy a newspaper. What qualifications in matters of intelligence are there for those who are employed on the editorial staffs of newspapers? You know there is one thing to be said for this article—it has a reporter's name on it. How many times have we been victimized by editorials written by journalistic cowards who hid behind the editorial masthead? How many times? I would like to see, and I think this Legislative Session might give, or the next Legislature, might give some consideration—this would not be tampering with the freedom of the Press. We could not do anything to disturb that sacred relationship between editors and publishers, and do something about requiring editorials to carry the name or names of those who are responsible for foisting those words on an innocent public. The Joint State Government Commission might also consider the possibility of licensing reporters and journalists. After all, Mr. Speaker, this state, through this House, this Legislature, in its wisdom in times past has seen fit to license barbers, nurses, real estate salesmen and brokers, insurance personnel, beauty shop operators, all of whom have some slight impact upon the daily lives of the people we represent. Do not also reporters and journalists have more than slight impact upon the minds of the people we represent? I do not say this in all seriousness, but I do say that the Joint State Government Commission could profitably spend some time between this Session and the next by examining the possibility of a journalists' division in Department of Public Instruction.

A lot of what I have said, of course, has been in good clean fun, but a lot of it is in dead earnest also. I think I speak for every Member of this House when I say to the members of the journalistic profession, all we want is a fair and accurate portrayal of what we do. We expect not always to get the best of it in the public Press. We know better. I know better than to be making the remarks I am making right now, because it takes more guts than common sense to do it. I do not have a newspaper to fight back, but all we want is an accurate portrayal of what we do. If by our own fault, our own inadequacy, our own inferior intelligence, we place ourselves in a position to be ridiculed in the public Press, then all well and good, but to the reporters present and the Members of this House, I say there was no excuse for that article that appeared in the Philadelphia Inquirer on Tuesday.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman rise?

Mr. FINEMAN. I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I want to compliment the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Agnew. If there was any question at any time about the balance of intellect between his and the Members of the Senate, it became manifest immediately when he was through speaking that his intellect is far superior, perhaps, or at least certainly equal to the Members of that other august Chamber.

I, too, read that article, and I do not mind stating that a slow burn set in when I was reading it. I think it is a darned shame that the Members of this House should be subjected to this kind of asinine, stupid editorialism.

The gentleman who authored this article stated as a general proposition that the intellect of the Members of the House is inferior to the intellect of the Members of the Senate. I would like to ask the author of that article what is it about that august Chamber, what is it about putting your foot into that Chamber, that suddenly makes you possessed of greater intellect? Certainly it is not a matter of its being inherent, according to the author of the article, that they have more intellect because many Members of the Senate formerly were Members of the House. When did they get this superior intellect? The moment they put their foot into that other door?

This incidence points up the stupidity of the argument, and I think it is a shame that the members of the Press have painted the House to be a place, a Valhalla, for the senseless, for those who cannot get gainful occupation or employment elsewhere, and are just a lot of hacks and drones.

There are too many of us in here who work too diligently, sincerely and with intelligence in the interests of the people of this Commonwealth to be subjected to this kind of ridicule, and it is time, indeed, that we started to get a fair shake from our reporters.

The SPEAKER. The Chair can only remark that what has been said has been completely enjoyable, and as completely out of order as it was enjoyable.

BILLS CALLED OUT OF ORDER

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I request permission of this House to call up bills out of order that must be considered today and sent to the Senate for concurrence and so forth, to go to the Governor's desk.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its consent to calling bills out of order?

The Chair hears no objection and consent is granted.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of Senate Bill No. 749, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 29, 1959 (Act No. 32) entitled "The Vehicle Code" excepting mobilehomes house trailers or office trailers from safety glass requirements.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, Senate Bill 749, Printer's No. 1552, yesterday was amended by the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Yetter. The amendments tacked to the bill pertained to authorizing the Secretary of Revenue to extend the time for registration and obtaining of operators' licenses. Under this amendment the Secretary may, with the approval of the Governor, extend the time for not more than 30 days for any registration required by this section in any case.

To try to clarify the situation, the operators' licenses in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania at the present time, under the law, expire at midnight on January 31. There are five million operators' licenses and they are all in the Department of Revenue, ready. They, of course, are printed and available on the basis of the present figure of one dollar. Upon the enactment of House Bill 1592, which is a bill dealing with concurrence in Senate amendments which would change the license fee of the operators license, all of these five million applications would have to be changed and stamped. It is our intention to act on 1592 on November 9 or 10, and under that situation the Department of Revenue would need this extended period of time for the handling of the operators' licenses, and they would be granted, by the approval of the Governor, the 30 days.

Under normal procedure, Mr. Speaker, the Department of Revenue would now be processing and placing in envelopes these applications, and have ready at the present time the first one million. So work has been stopped on all of the operators' license applications at this point, for all of the five million must be restamped through automatic stamping machines to reflect the amount which the bill shows at the time it is signed by the Governor. For that reason, Mr. Speaker, along with the purpose of the bill as it originally came over, Senate Bill 749, I ask that everyone support Senate Bill 749, to pass it. It is part of a package dealing with the mobile home industry in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Speaker, the bill itself, Senate Bill 749, without the amendments is part of a package of four bills, and with the passage of this bill, we should like to take all of the other Senate bills dealing with this package in order.

On the question, recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House of Representatives has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 748, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 29, 1959 (Act No. 32) entitled "The Vehicle Code" providing a special handling permit for pickup of mobile homes and office trailers from jobbers and dealers.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HOCKER. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to this bill, and I want to clarify my opposition by saying this:

I am not an attorney, but in my opinion this is class legislation.

We have a law in this state that says anything over-width and over-length shall apply for a special permit to move it, and in obtaining that permit they pay two cents per ton mile. I had a conference with a Member of the State Police yesterday, and he said that when that was written in the act it was written in for the sole purpose of police work in moving these oversized vehicles.

This will remove that from one, and only one, part of these oversized vehicles, which will be mobile homes, or house trailers, as they are called.

In my opinion this is class legislation. I have always been told that when you pass a law you pass it for everyone, but this would remove them from that obligation.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I am going to vote no on the bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House of Representatives has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 2386, entitled:

An Act amending "The General State Authority Act of one thousand nine hundred forty-nine" approved March 31, 1949 (P. L. 372) increasing the powers and the borrowing capacity of the Authority and allocating the proceeds of such increased borrowing capacity.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BELL. Mr. Speaker, would the Majority Leader consent to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, if it is on House Bill 2386, I would be most pleased to yield momentarily to the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. POLEN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BELL. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen, tell the House what is the composition of the General State Authority?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman refer to the membership?

Mr. BELL. How is the membership of this Authority selected or appointed?

Mr. POLEN. I believe I will let Mr. McCann answer that because he is a member of the Authority and he knows exactly what its composition is.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, by law, the members of the General State Authority are as follows: the Governor or the Commonwealth, the Treasurer of the Commonwealth, the Auditor General of the Commonwealth, the Secretary of Internal Affairs, the President pro tempore of the Senate, and an appointment of the President pro tempore of the Senate, the Minority Leader of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and appointment of the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the Minority Leader of the House of Representatives, and one appointment of the Governor.

That constitutes the entire Board of the General State Authority by law.

Mr. BELL. Thank you.

Mr. Speaker, is the Pennsylvania Manual correct where it describes the General State Authority and states: This Authority as well as all other authorities are not departments of the Commonwealth but are separate and independent corporations created by acts of Legislature?"

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, that is correct and, in addition to that, I believe there was some type of a court decision or there was an attorney general's opinion bearing upon the possibility of a certain member at one time being appointed to a vacancy in such a position I beg your pardon, that dealt with the Turnpike.

That is correct, it is a corporation as it exists.

Mr. BELL. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I rise to oppose this bill because of the manner in which it is written. I do not necessarily rise to oppose what it attempts to do, but we have a bill which will raise the spending authority, or borrowing authority of this non-governmental corporation from $480 million to $626,-200,000.

In other words, this bill is going to raise the non-governmental—I imagine you call it that—debt of the Commonwealth by $146,200,000. Whether the General State Authority debt is a debt of the Commonwealth or not, we know very well that it will increase future taxes of the Commonwealth that will pay the General State Authority's debt charges and pay off this debt.

Now the reason I object to this bill is when I opened it I found that except for the colleges and universities the expenditures were by department. Then under the department would be maybe thirty or forty different projects. But at no place is found opposite the project how much money is to be spent on that project. True, there are figures in parentheses which indicate priorities for these projects.

I say to you, ladies and gentlemen of this House of Representatives, that where a project carries priority 1, that priority could be meant if $100 was spent on it. So we are turning over to a non-governmental corporation the power to spend $146 million and I say this is wrong. I would say we should tell them how it should be spent. We are delegating to an authority the power to determine how public monies will be spent. This is our responsibility. It is the responsibility of the Members of this House to tell the Authority how this money shall be spent, and I am not concerned whether this is the way it was done in the days past because if it is bad today, it was bad then, and it should not have been done then.

We in this House should exercise the responsibilities placed in us by our constituents. This is our responsibility; it is our duty; it is why we were elected. And that, ladies and gentlemen of the House, is why I oppose this bill in its present form and I ask the Members to vote no on this bill.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I listened carefully to the remarks of the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Bell, regarding his opposition to the bill.

Number one, every Member of this House has in their possession the 1959-61 capital budget. In that capital budget you will find every item that is in that bill and you will find it line by line and the amount, except there has been added to that bill projects that are not in this capital budget.

One project that we added on our own was the infirmary at Scotland School for veterans' orphans. We added an item that is in this budget but was not in the bill, the William Penn Memorial Museum building, if that is the correct title of the building to be built here at Harrisburg dealing with the Museum, the archives of the building.

We added to the bill an elevator project in a hospital in the city of Philadelphia, Mercy Douglas. We added an item for Slippery Rock State Teachers' College. You will find them in the bill. You will find it is the budget but it was not in the bill and we added it in the bill.

Now then, let us go to the second point raised by Mr. Bell regarding the operation of the General State Authority. In the General State Authority you have a Committee of Priority; all the committees of General State Authority are composed of two Republican members and two Democrat members. No matter what committee you name it is divided equally in appointment.

The Committee on Priority certainly selects the priorities of the projects to be handled in the General State Authority. I am very sorry, I assume that the Speaker could instantly tell this House who the members of the Committee on Priority are in the 1959 organized year of the General State Authority. I am not a member of the Committee on Priority.

Now then, by each of the projects listed in this bill in turning over this legislation you are increasing the borrowing power of the General State Authority to handle these projects or to do these capital projects as outlined. To do all the items carefully defined in the bill that you speak of, then it would almost take again a capital budget sized bill to do it, but you have in your possession a capital budget, and if you will take any department, namely, Forests and Waters, you will find in capital budget all the items listed and the projects and the amounts in the book that is in your possession or that was given to every Member of this House and Senate.

House Bill 2386 takes a lot of computation and a lot of work whenever it is going to be amended. This bill will be amended in the Senate in which two or three or possibly four Senators intend to add projects to the bill which could not be added in the House at this time. Mr. Polen informs me there are two for such, and possibly three; the Senator from the Indiana area, Senator Harney's area, and one other Senator, which will add amendments to this bill.

I think that this bill dealing with the General State Authority borrowing power has been handled in the past and I think the General State Authority is as composed by the law; if there is something wrong with it, then the basic law needs to be changed dealing with its composition or its operation. I think you will admit that as a statewide authority the capital improvement that they have handled—for example, they have built all the buildings that you see here at the Capitol, the Health and Welfare Building, the Labor and Industry Building, the numerous buildings at Pennsylvania State University, Penn State, all of our various schools and all of the various flood projects that have been enacted in the past and the new ones that are listed in this budget.

Mr. Speaker, I think this is Pennsylvania's answer to a program in which capital improvements are badly needed and we agree the cost is spread over the years and the improvements must be made. In fact, there are many others who have requested and badly need the projects in some of the other areas, but you cannot do them all at once. You try to work this program out the same as it has been worked out in the past. I ask that all the Members of this House support this bill increasing the borrowing power of the General State Authority.

Mr. HOCKER. Mr. Speaker, I would yield to the gentleman, Mr. Bell. I think he prefers to answer the gentleman, Mr. McCann, so I will yield to him for that purpose.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Dauphin yields to the gentleman from Delaware.

Mr. BELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask one additional question of the Majority Leader, Mr. McCann.

The SPEAKER. Will the Majority Leader permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BELL. Mr. Speaker, is it not correct that although these items could have a price tag in the printed budget that when the General State Authority spent the money they would follow this law which presently is House Bill 2386 and would not necessarily be legally bound by what is in the budget?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I think the question he is putting to me is this: 2386 is a bill dealing with lump sum amounts for various departments but they tie back to the capital budget, and then you are asking me to answer whether, for example, the Committee on Priorities will say that the project—whatever the project may be—is listed now for—we will just use this as a typical example—we will say that the William Penn Museum Building is $11 million. That is an estimated figure of architect engineers, and what you are asking me is, suppose that building were to come to $12 million or $13 million? It does not work the way you think it works in that scope. For example, they allocate the money to the project and when they go into the field, suppose the bids were over the amount, then the project can be knocked down, and it has happened in the past. Or, money must be made available from money returned to go over the amount that is listed as the amount for the project. There is no deceptive intent, and none that I know of from the prior members who have talked to me, of many years' experience. Charlie Smith served on the Board for a number of years; the Speaker, Mr. Andrews; the Senator, Mr. Taylor. They always try to hold within the figure of the project and they do not try to shift from one to the other, which is what you are asking me if they do.

Mr. BELL. Thank you, Mr. Speaker, I would like to briefly answer the Majority Leader.

First, there is no attempt in this opposition to infer any wrongdoing or deception of any kind on the part of any Member of the Joint State Government Authority, heretofore or even hereafter.

Secondly, with archaic, limited borrowing capacity of the Commonwealth under the present Constitution, which law allows us to borrow up to $1 million, this is the only way that we can build the necessary hospitals and permanent items that are necessary for the Commonwealth to progress. I thoroughly agree with the Majority Leader on that.

Neither am I finding fault with the items which are in the budget, but I am finding fault with the way this bill is written because legally the budget does not bind the General State Authority in this bill, and I think that we, as Legislators, should stand up to our responsibilities. I think it does not take too much work to have the budget printed on a line basis. It would not be too much work to have this bill printed on a line basis, so that we know what we are voting on.

For that reason I am going to vote no on this bill.

Mr. HOCKER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. POLEN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HOCKER. Mr. Speaker, I ask the gentleman, what is the figure in the General Appropriation Bill to take care of rentals and interest for the General State Authority?

Mr. POLEN. I think it is $42.15 million.

Mr. HOCKER. I ask the gentleman if we increase this to $146 million, what would be his estimation of the cost?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, the amount in the budget would take care of the rentals on any of these that are being constructed and the rentals payable during this biennium. It is provided for in the present budget.

Mr. SPEAKER. I would ask the gentleman one more question. Is it true that under the General State Authority building program we built some buildings and schools or colleges, universities that do not belong to us as such, and that we pay the rent on them for a period of 20 or 25 years and then turn the buildings over to them?

Mr. POLEN. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HOCKER. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, in my opinion, this is the wrong way to operate a state government. I happen to be here. I was not here when I think this "monster," as I term it, was destroyed. I think it was destroyed under the administration of Governor Martin. However, I was here when we raised the money to pay off their indebtedness and at that time it was the opinion of the bodies on this Hill, the other Chamber and this one, that we were getting rid of something that was bad for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Then, in our so-called wisdom, which I do not know whether it is true or not but we call it that, we reactivated this monster. I say to you that as Members of the House and the Senate of this Commonwealth, if our Constitution forbids us to borrow more money, then I say that we as Members of these bodies should have guts enough to stand up and ask the people of this Commonwealth to change that Constitution. We do it in other cases. I say that this is not the right way to do it. The taxpayers of this Commonwealth have no idea what we are doing here; they have no idea how much money is involved in this program; they have no idea that we are furnishing buildings for institutions that do not belong to us, and that never will belong to us. The taxpayers do not realize that they will pay the rent on those buildings for a period of 20 years and then say, now this is yours.

To me that is a lousy way of running a government. We are hiding from the taxpayers what we are doing here; we are hiding from them the fact that we are sneaking money into places that we have no business to sneak it into. We give those institutions an appropriation to help them in their problems, but I do not think that we should build their buildings for them. I do not think that we are on the right track here and I voted against reactivating the General State Authority. Evidently I was in the minority because here, within the short period of ten years, it has gone from practically nothing to over a half billion dollars. The people that you, each and every one of you, represent do not know what you are doing. I say that if they knew they would rise up and criticize you for it. I say to you Members of the House, let us put something on the ballot and let our people decide whether or not we should go into a borrowing program like this. I say the people should decide whether we are going to help institutions that do not belong to us. That is not our prerogative as Members of this House. Our prerogative is only to represent the people in our district. Many, many times I would vote differently than I do if it were my own thinking, but I have to cock my ears to my constituents and do what they want me to do.

So what I want to say in closing is this, please let us not let this monster go to the place where it is going to eat up the people of this Commonwealth who are paying the bills, and that is not us.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, there seems to be some misunderstanding in connection with this bill as to the amount of money which is being appropriated, or authorized, I should have said. We presently, under existing law, have authorized $480 million, which has been exhausted. This bill increases the borrowing capacity of the General State Authority to $625.5 million, or an increase of $145.5 million covered by the various projects in this bill.

For the information of any Members who would like to see it, I have the capital budget with each item shown that is covered by this bill. I believe this is the first time that a capital budget has been presented to the General Assembly and it was exactly the purpose of the capital budget to inform the Members of the General Assembly which items were and would be included in this authorization. I have it on my desk and if any Member would like to see it I will be happy to make it available to him.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, there was a question propounded to me that I was unable to answer, so it is not my original thought and I do not want to take credit for anything which I did not originate. I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen. Maybe he can answer my question.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Washington permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. POLEN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, under existing law, the ceiling on the General State Authority is $400 million.

Mr. POLEN. $480 million.

Mr. AUKER. $480 million, I beg your pardon. Now can the gentleman tell me, or can anyone, if he cannot, what is the existing indebtedness owed by the state on their bonded indebtedness under the General State Authority? In other words, how much has that $480 million been reduced; how much does the state now actually owe on their bonded indebtedness under the $480 million ceiling bill.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, it is my understanding that the amount authorized has been issued.

Mr. AUKER. That is not the question, Mr. Speaker. The bonds are being amortized over a period of four years and the General State Authority has been on the books for a period of ten years or more, and a lot of those bonds, possibly some of them, have been completely amortized. At least they have been amortized, some of them possibly, to 75, 80 per cent or more over the period of years. What I want to know is now, how much the state owes right now.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I do not have that information, but I could get it for the gentleman as to the amount of the bonds now outstanding.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I think we ought to know before we can vote intelligently on this bill, how much now the state actually owes. If it is only $100 million, that could possibly influence some thinking, or $200 million. Mr. Speaker, I would like to further interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. First let him answer.

Mr. AUKER. Oh, I did not know he had it available. I am sorry, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I think everyone received today, or they should have, the report of the General State Authority for the year ending May 31, 1959, and the amount of the bonds outstanding at that time would be $302,278,000.

Mr. AUKER. Do I understand then from the gentleman, Mr. Speaker, that is the full amount on which the state is now paying interest?

Mr. POLEN. That would be correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. AUKER. Under the circumstances, and since the ceiling of the General State Authority is $480 million under existing law, would it or would it not be possible for the state to borrow the additional between $302 million and the $480 million without any legislation?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, that would not be correct. The authorization is for the bonds that could be issued. It is the same as in connection with the public school building authority. The bonds that are paid off do not reduce the amount so that they will have a borrowing power for the amounts that were paid. The authorization is an original authorization and the payments made on account of the bonds do not give any additional borrowing power when they are paid off. The borrowing power is the amount that is authorized by the General Assembly.

Mr. AUKER. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

That enlightens as to what we wanted to know over here and then I might add, and I guess everybody can add, this would make then, if we passed a bill for the full indebtedness of the General State Authority of $302 plus $146 million, or $448 million of actual borrowed money on bonds on which the state is paying interest and not at two or two and one-quarter per cent, or two per cent on which they first began to borrow under the General State Authority, but now possibly at least three and three-fourths to four, and possibly four and one-half and maybe five since the federal government is now paying five per cent on short-term bonds. That is going to very vitally influence the rate of interest on all bonds, particularly municipal bonds and government bonds that are sold from here on in.

I would like in a way to vote for this because it is an improvement on other bills under the General State Authority, which have been passed. In some measure it is spelled out, but as a bill it is only spelled out by departments. It is not spelled out in the bill project by project, and I am still of the same opinion that I have been heretofore, when this body passes a bill of this immense debt and relinquishes its right, what I feel is its right to say how much money should be spent on each individual project, then I think we are going far afield. It might take a little more trouble to have done that, but I think it could have been done and still could be done for that matter.

We have no say-so whatsoever, and this bill does not provide how much money is going to be spent on each individual project listed under the various categories under this bill. Some of them may be needed in the minds of the departments. On the other hand, the heads of the departments do not have to sit here and scratch their heads and worry and get the headaches of passing the tax bills to pay for these things. We are the ones who have to do that and we are the ones who are responsible to the people of this Commonwealth and to our constituents who elect us as to whether these projects are worthwhile and as to whether they are absolutely necessary. I have no way of determining, I have no research, and apparently the House does not have any method of research for delving into these things before we pass these bills as to just how essential all of these projects are before we vote this money, and I am not willing—again I say I am not willing—as I have been in the past, to vote for an increase in indebtedness of this size without its being spelled out exactly, every item, item by item in the bill, so that before we vote on it we would have the right to determine how vital or how necessary such a project is to the health and welfare and safety of the people of this Commonwealth. Until that is done I will not vote for any increased indebtedness.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, the figures which I gave the gentleman as to the total bonded indebtedness outstanding of the General State Authority was as of May 31, 1959, $302,278,000.

On July 15, 1959, $9.25 million of those bonds were paid off, leaving at the present time $293,028,000 bonds outstanding.

Mr. VARNER. Mr. Speaker, during about the last five weekends on Saturdays, I have visited the State Teachers College in Edinboro, the State Teachers College in Slippery Rock, the State Teachers College in Clarion, the State Teachers College in Shippensburg and in my conversation with different people at those State Teachers Colleges one of the crying needs that the authorities at the Teachers Colleges tell me they need is more dormitory space. Now, may I interrogate Mr. Polen or Mr. McCann?

The SPEAKER. Would the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. POLEN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. VARNER. Mr. Speaker, there was legislation moving through to build dormitories that was not under General State Authority but under another form on a rental basis. What is the status of that legislation, on the dormitories at the State Teachers Colleges?

Mr. POLEN. I yield to the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I believe the gentleman has reference to Senate Bills 436 and 437. Were these the bills that allowed the State Teachers Colleges to increase their rental per week at the rate of $3 per week per student? Is that the right bill?

Mr. VARNER. I think that is right.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, those two bills would establish and they are going to be enacted to establish, I believe they would be allowed to increase the rent per student $3 per week. With that money, if I remember correctly now, they are going to set up a system of capital reserve to replace equipment and buildings, but this will not give them the complete funds that they need to expand the additional facilities as they expand their schools. For example, say a school has now a thousand students and their plans call for in so many years to be three thousand, they will still need capital budget dormitories. Is that what you are referring to, Mr. Varner?

Mr. VARNER. Well, yes and no. Just keep talking I like to listen.

Mr. McCANN. I cannot answer the total number of requests. I feel confident I would not be wrong in saying that all the State Teachers Colleges and the state-aided universities would be more than pleased to come in here with $2 or $300 million worth of projects in one biennium in expanding dormitories, science buildings, necessary buildings that are a part of the educational campus.

We are not talking now of football fields or stadiums, we are talking about bonafide educational buildings, and Mr. Speaker, I believe that the State Teachers Colleges themselves meet within a group—there are fourteen of them. They all meet and establish within themselves a system of those items that are most important that have to be done at each respective school, and from that comes their own priority risk of the schools you are mentioning, Mr. Varner, that is how they come into the project.

In the capital budget are listed projects for schools that you speak of in some cases. Remember all of these are not buildings, sometimes it is sewage, water, parking facilities, heating plants, rewiring electrical systems, classroom buildings. I mean all of these items.

Mr. VARNER. Thank you, Mr. McCANN. I saw the status of Senate Bill 436 and according to the latest history it said the Senate nonconcurred in the House amendments September 21st. Is that in the Conference Committee, in other words? I am not out of order to ask that question, I hope.

Mr. McCANN. No, Mr. Speaker, I do not think you would be out of order but I do not have on my list anything on Senate 436 but I am sure we will. We amended Senate 436 in the House. The amendments dealt with the recommendations of the legal counsel, and I remember the amendments because Mr. Holmes, the chief of the legal counsel of the General State Authority, assisted along with the Attorney General in those amendments and that is correct.

Mr. VARNER. Thank you, Mr. McCANN. While in some cases I naturally disagree with this House Bill 2386, particularly in the case of building a new power plant at the Soldiers and Sailors Home in Erie, I think the whole thing should be torn down and we should build a whole new home, but I think generally we have to move ahead and I must support this bill.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I call up on page 22 of today's calendar, bills on concurrence in Senate amendments, House Bill No. 2355.

SENATE MESSAGE

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate ibeing introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 2355.

An Act amending the act of August 21, 1953 (P. L. 1254) entitled "An act establishing a uniform fee for services of recorders of deeds in counties of the third fourth fifth sixth seventh and eighth classes" fixing fees to be charged and paid by counties for certified copies of certain military or naval discharges certificates of service or other separation from active duty forms for use in connection with claims for compensation

With the information that the Senate had passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

Th SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend page 3, by inserting after line 19 of Section 1, the following: "Section 2 The provisions of this act shall be retroactive and any recorder of deeds who has heretofore collected and retained a fee or any county treasurer who has heretofore received from the recorder of deeds money paid as a fee for an exemplification of a military or naval discharge or certificate of sevice obtained for the purpose of securing benefits under "Korean Conflict Veteran's Compensation Act" shall return the same to the person who made payment thereof"

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I request that the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 2383, entitled:

An Act to validate certain proceedings for municipal improvements municipal assessments municipal claims and municipal liens in the several cities of the third class boroughs and townships of the first class of this Commonwealth and validating such improvements assessments claims and liens providing for the filing of claims and for the collection of such assessments claims and liens.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate one of the sponsors of this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Murphy, permit himself to be interrogated on House Bill 2383?

Mr. A. J. MURPHY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I wonder if the gentleman would explain this bill and the purposes of it?

Mr. A. J. MURPHY. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

In 1927 when the Borough Code was originally codified it was decided by the state Legislature at that time to make all ordinances requiring assessments of properties for borough improvements to be codified. Ten years later, in 1937, this Act was again re-enacted and at the time, apparently, there was some necessity for it.

What this bill will do is that at any time the municipal authorities have made improvements and made assessments on the abutting or adjoining property owners for the payment thereof, rather than from the general fund, and then subsequent to that or during the proceedings a borough ordinance is enacted to make these assessments. Of course, we know that the ordinance is then not applicable to the assessment. It is not an invalid ordinance but you cannot make an assessment retroactive. The only ones that can do that are the General Assembly. So, apparently there arose some need, and of course under the codification of the Code we can readily understand the need. Then again in 1937 there was possibly some need for that.

We have some instances in the Commonwealth, one in particular that I know of, where the municipal authorities have commenced the improvements, let the contract for the improvements, and then discovered that they did not have an ordinance. They went ahead and enacted the ordinance, published it, recorded it in their ordinance book as required by law, and now attempt to levy the assessment. There is some question as to whether or not they can make that levy of the assessment, or whether or not the moneys will have to come out of the General Fund. It does not seem fair that the money will come out of the general fund where the regular taxpayers will have to pay for the total improvement, when the abutting property owners are not specifically assessed.

That is the essence of the Act.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, would this Act not validate all mistakes made by all borough authorities heretofore?

Mr. A. J. MURPHY. It will validate those mistakes specifically set forth in the Act, that is correct.

Mr. TOMPKINS. When the gentleman refers to borough authorities, does he mean the borough government as such and not one of the municipality authorities?

Mr. A. J. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, that is right, I refer only to the elected Borough Council. This will apply to Borough Councils, and of course I think we understand the Borough Council is guided by its solicitor. If the solicitor is not in attendance at a meeting and they decide they want to go ahead and start these improvements and they do that and later the solicitor catches up with their project—

Mr. TOMPKINS. What I am talking about is that this is work which the borough itself does, and not an authority created by the borough.

Mr. A. J. MURPHY. That is absolutely correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TOMPKINS. This has no relation with validating anything which authorities have done and not which the borough itself has done.

Mr. A. J. MURPHY. No, that is certainly not the intent of this bill and if it were so, and the gentleman would point that out to me, I would certainly want that deleted from the bill.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I just wanted to clarify that because today you know those municipality authorities have the right to take certain steps in connection with committing the finances of the authority, but it must be done through borough ordinances.

This is not to validate anything that has been done by a municipality authority, but by the Borough Council in its function as the borough government, is that correct?

Mr. A. J. MURPHY. That is right. Municipal officials only, and I call the gentleman's attention to the top of page 2 of the bill where it specifically sets forth "Whenever heretofore the council of any city of the third class or of any borough or the board of commissioners of any township of the first class" and so forth. So, it only applies to the municipal officials.

Mr. AUKER. I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Murphy.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Murphy, permit himself to be interrogated further?

Mr. A. J. MURPHY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, as I read the bill it also refers to third class cities, townships of the first class, and boroughs. Is that right?

Mr. A. J. MURPHY. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. AUKER. As I read the bill, Mr. Speaker, it would also validate any errors of any description made in the assessment, the notice, the advertisement, the improper passing of the ordinance for all future improvements that might be made. Is that correct?

Mr. A. J. MURPHY. No, Mr. Speaker, that cannot be so. We cannot correct mistakes in the future. This bill does not do that. This is merely a reenactment of the 1937 Act. This Act now appears on our record books, but of course at that time it could not apply to future mistakes, and that is why the necessity for reenacting, if you desire to assist these municipal officials.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I will take the gentleman's word for it. I may have been mistaken in reading the bill. Of course we could provide for future mistakes if we wanted to pass a law, and as I read the bill hurriedly the other day and glanced over it today, it seems to me that that provision is in the bill. But, if the gentleman assures me that is not in the bill I might be inclined to go along and vote for the bill.

Mr. A. J. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, I would respectfully call the gentleman's attention again to the wording at the top of page 2, where the word "heretofore" appears. Of course that specifically limits us to what has occurred heretofore, that is, from the effective date of the bill. That is in line 1; "whenever heretofore the council" and so forth, has made a mistake. Had we deleted the word "heretofore" then I would say that possibly the statutory construction could mean heretofore, at the present time, sometime, or in the future, but that is specifically in the bill.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 2388, entitled:

An Act amending the "State Highway Law approved June 1, 1945 (P. L. 1242) authorizing acquisition of property necessary for present or future highway purposes.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Comer, permit himself to the interrogated?

Mr. COMER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I am generally in sympathy with the purpose of this bill. I am wondering, though, if some sections of this bill are not portions of which were included in 1702, which we hashed out pretty well on the floor of this House some weeks ago. That is with reference to the condemnation rights and the acquisition of property to move condemned persons onto.

In other words, as I understand it, under this bill if you condemn a piece of property on which a person is living, or a commercial establishment is erected, you can condemn other property outside of the right-of-way limits for the purpose of moving those people on it. Is that not right?

Mr. COMER. Mr. Speaker, I did not get the last part of Mr. Tompkins' question. Will he repeat it? I cannot hear him up here very well.

Mr. TOMPKINS. As I read Section 22 of this bill on page 4, you condemn a piece of property which is located in the path of the right-of-way of the highway; on that path is a dwelling house. This Section 22 gives you the right to condemn other property which is not in the path of the right-of-way for the purpose of moving the person who was in the path of the right-of-way to the new location.

Mr. COMER. I believe that is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Suppose that piece of property to which you wanted to move that person should be within a zoning area and the building you wanted to put on that property was in restriction of the zoning ordinance. Would this condemnation right contained in this bill give them the power to overcome the zoning ordinance for the use of that land?

Mr. COMER. Mr. Speaker, not being entirely familiar with condemnation proceedings, I would like to yield, to possibly my friend, Mr. Gailey.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from York, Mr. Gailey.

Mr. GAILEY. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman's question, I think the gentleman knows the answer to that question, that is, that the state would have no right to impose its will on a local community in violation of local zoning ordinances providing they were perfectly proper zoning ordinances.

Mr. TOMPKINS. When I asked the question, Mr. Speaker, I did not have the advice of my good legal counsel who is acquainted with all the zoning ordinances. I do not have much experience with them, but he tells me that the law is that you cannot zone against the rights of the Commonwealth, so maybe my question was unnecessary.

Mr. GAILEY. Mr. Speaker, by way of further answering the gentleman, I think he is quite correct when he states that if the Commonwealth wanted to erect a Commonwealth building on a piece of land which was zoned against for the kind of use which the Commonwealth wanted to make of it, the gentleman would be quite correct, in that the local zoning ordinance would have no bearing, but in this situation where, if I understand the question correctly, the Commonwealth would merely be aiding the private citizen in moving his dwelling place onto a new piece of land, obviously, those zoning laws would affect the private citizen just as if he moved onto them voluntarily.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, the thing that I am concerned about is granting to the Commonwealth the right to condemn land beyond the areas of their immediate use and necessity, which I understand is the foundation for the rights of condemnation. Do you know of any other instances where the Commonwealth has the right to condemn beyond the limits of their necessity and use?

Mr. GAILEY. Mr. Speaker, if I may, I would like to yield to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lee, who has indicated that he would be glad to supply the gentleman from Cameron with the answer to that question.

Mr. A. M. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I think it might be helpful if we were to consider for just a moment the purpose for which this subsection 22 is included in the bill.

I think all the Members of the House have seen highways which are being constructed, and they have gone down those highways and have seen houses that have been half torn down. There are half houses there.

In other words, the Commonwealth, when it takes the right-of-way, removes that portion of the home or the building which is within the right-of-way and leaves the rest of it standing. Normally in a condemnation proceeding if such a procedure is followed, as far as the damage to the dwelling is concerned, it is considered perhaps 100 per cent loss, and the Commonwealth has to pay for the full value of the dwelling. This particular section is designed to permit the Commonwealth, if by doing so they may reduce the acquisition costs, to jack that building up and move it back out of the right-of-way and set it back down. If in order to do that they have to acquire a little additional ground, they would have that right. Always remember that this right in the Commonwealth only exists where first the owner consents in writing to this being done, and, in the second place, it can only be used where the cost of acquisition would be less as far as the Commonwealth is concerned.

I think with that background of explanation as to what this section is designed to accomplish, we can get at it in a little more intelligent fashion.

Mr. TOMPKINS. In reading this section it says, "Where the owner of the building or structures consents in writing." Would you interpret this to mean that would be the owner of the unimproved land?

Mr. A. M. LEE. No. Because there would not be any buildings or structures on unimproved land, would there?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Yes, but the consent in writing is not from the owners of the unimproved land; the consent is from the owners of the buildings and structures.

Mr. A. M. LEE. I will agree, Mr. Speaker. The reason for requiring the owner of the buildings or structure to consent in writing is this: "it gives him the right to elect to have the Commonwealth either tear down the building in whole or in part and to get his damages in condemnation, or it permits him to refuse to have his building moved if he does not want to have it moved.

Mr. TOMPKINS. That is a different interpretation than has heretofore been put on it because of the fact that I have been sort of understanding that the consent was to be from the owner of the unimproved land. If that were the case, there would be no necessity for condemnation, I agree, but what do you do about the owner of that unimproved land if he owns other buildings on or adjacent to it and he does not want a building of that kind coming in there? Should we give the right to the Commonwealth to condemn lands in an area that is contrary to the wishes of the owner under circumstances of that kind?

Mr. A. M. LEE. I would only say, Mr. Speaker, that the owner of the unimproved land would be in the same situation as any other person whose property is taken for any public purpose. He would be entitled to damages in a condemnation proceeding in the regular course of events. But, remember this section only operates where the cost of acquisition would be less, in other words, where the Commonwealth would save money in the overall picture.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Well, I do not think the cost has anything to do with the basic principle of the right of condemnation in areas beyond the area of necessity and use that they want it condemned for. If they are going to condemn and use for highway purposes, why should the Commonwealth be granted the right to condemn beyond those areas for purposes of moving a structure or building onto it?

Mr. A. M. LEE. I have tried to explain, Mr. Speaker, as to the purpose that I see in the inclusion of this particular clause. It is basically for the purpose of mitigating the damages which the Commonwealth might be called upon to pay. Again I say, as far as the owner is concerned, he need not consent to it, so he is fully protected, that is, the owner of the building or structure.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Well, the owner of the building or structure, of course, is the one who has had his land condemned which is located within the right-of-way to be used. The basic principle of condemnation is that you can do it where the land is to be used for certain public purposes. Certainly land that is to be used for the purpose of moving a building on it is not used for public purposes. I wonder if the gentleman could point out to me, is this not a departure and are we not creating an exception to the basic principle of condemnation that they can go beyond the areas of use now and condemn land?

Mr. A. M. LEE. I would say that—

Mr. TOMPKINS. Is there any other type of condemnation that permits that?

Mr. A. M. LEE. I did not get the last part of that.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Is there any other type of condemnation that permits that?

Mr. A. M. LEE. Not to my knowledge, Mr. Speaker, and I would only say this, that as far as this particular section is concerned, it says that the Secretary may acquire all property necessary for present or future highway purposes, and these subsections are a delineation and a definition of what highway purposes are. In this particular area we are allowing them to go somewhat beyond the right-of-way where there is a situation where the Commonwealth may be able to reduce the acquisition costs by so doing.

By this bill, in effect, the Legislature is saying this condemnation of some portion of ground outside of the right-of-way is a condemnation for highway purposes. In other words, we are laying down the rules.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, Members of the House, this provision is a very radical departure from all basic condemnation proceedings, and I think it goes beyond the rights of what we should grant in matters in this respect. I do not like to set up the power in any agency of government to go beyond the point of their use to condemn lands because we are then going to destroy the basic rights of the ownership of private property in this Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and I am against the bill because of this provision in this section.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I am getting into this because I think I was the one who originally raised the objection to the bill based on this section 22 on page 4.

I agree wholeheartedly with the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins, that it is an entirely new field into which we are allowing the state to proceed. I cannot agree with the gentleman from York, and I am not going to get into a technical debate on that, that the state could not condemn where ground is already planned and plotted and approved by a planning commission. I believe the state can do it and the only thing that would change my opinion on that would be a decision by the Supreme Court of this state, and until we have such a decision that they could not do it, then I cannot vote under any circumstances for this bill unless this particular provision was deleted.

I can understand that they put a nice little clause in there where it would be a savings of cost.

Sure, it would be a savings of cost. They could go out into the country and pick out a nice piece of ground that would not be too expensive and put a machine shop or garage or something else within possibly 150 or 200 yards of a person's residence and that certainly would not be satisfactory to the person who moved out there, who wouldn't want that, and yet he would not have one thing to say against it or about it. It seems to me that we are whipping down individual rights, sacred rights, of property ownership in this bill if we allow this bill to pass with this provision in it.

It seems to me that in this Session and other Sessions that we have been gradually whittling away at the sacred rights of individual ownership to property which has always been a very sacred right, and I am not willing to go along with it until we have adequate safeguards written into these bills that will fully protect the individual rights of ownership. We are going far afield in the basic principles of our republican representative form of government.

I would certainly ask every Member to consider very carefully, very carefully, because you know and I know that once we give a department or bureau of this state government authority to go ahead under broad powers such as contained in this section they are going to go the whole hog. They have not much regard for the individual rights of citizens once they want to do something. That has been my experience with them and I think it has probably been the experience of a good many people who are serving in this House and representing our constituents back home, so I would ask you to think about this very, very carefully.

It is not a matter of a little clause in there that you are going to save some money, a little money, or make it cheaper for them to do it. Sure, they can find that very, very easily. The thing that I am thinking about here, and I reiterate it, is that we are giving the Commonwealth a power that they have never had before, as Mr. Tompkins so well stated, and I think we ought to consider it very, very carefully and weigh it very, very minutely before we extend this kind of power to any department or any bureau of government. Let us remember that the people who run the government in the administrative department are not the government. The people of this state are the government basically and their rights are the first rights to be considered, and no one else's.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. SCHWARTZ. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the final passage postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 535, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 23, 1931 (P. L. 932) entitled "The Third Class City Code" changing tax levy provisions when land and buildings are taxed separately.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House of Representatives has passed the same without amendment.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair returns the gavel to the Speaker of the House.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman from Cambria for presiding.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY CHIEF CLERK

The CHIEF CLERK (Mr. OMINSKY). For the information of the House, checks will be available November 1 while we will be in recess and, therefore, unless we hear otherwise, the checks will be mailed to the respective homes or offices.

This will be the last check that the Members will receive before the end of the year under the law. There will be probably only one other check and that is for mileage which will either be mailed or received when we are in session. I thought the Members ought to know or have this information.

SENATE MESSAGE

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, October 19, 1959.

Resolved, (the House of Representatives concurring), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, November 9, 1959, at three o'clock p.m. EST, unless sooner recalled by the President pro Tempore; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, November 9, 1959, at four-thirty o'clock p.m., EST, unless sooner recalled by the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?
It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

BILL SIGNED BY SPEAKER

BILLS ON FIRST READING

Pursuant to a resolution adopted Monday, June 15, 1959 the following bills were read the first time:

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 432, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Paoli Memorial Association for improvements and repairs of the driveways on the Paoli Parade Ground situate in Malvern Borough, Chester County.

And said bill having been read at length the first time,
Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 2425, entitled:

An Act amending the "Public School Employees' Retirement Code of 1959," approved June 1, 1959 (Act No. 77), providing for the purchase of credit for service in summer schools prior to membership in the retirement system, changing the income limitation for disability annuitants and requiring school employees who are members of the General Assembly to give notice of election in certain cases.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I believe that if we work straight through, we can finish. So, with that recommendation, we will not break for lunch.

Mr. TOMPKINS. That is right, Mr. Speaker, and if we run into any controversial bills, I am going to ask that they be passed over today. But so far as I know we have non-controversial bills to work on.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE RECALLED FROM THE GOVERNOR

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1572, entitled:

An Act amending the "Second Class County Code" approved July 28 1953 (P. L. 723) further regulating employees' eligibility for retirement allowances and reinstatement and requirements for credit for previous service.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I ask that this bill go over because they want to debate this bill and it is a controversial bill.

Mr. WALSH. Mr. Speaker, I do not know what controversy there would be on this bill. The bill simply allows the qualified members of the Pension Fund in Allegheny County additional time in which to pay up their back money so that they could come under this Act. This bill has been on the calendar now for sometime. It passed before and we brought it back because we had no cut-off date on it. We put the cut-off in it, so I do not think there is any controversy on it.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Goldstein wants to debate this bill, and I think he should be given that courtesy.

Mr. WALSH. Mr. Speaker, I feel that if the gentleman has any interest in this bill he should be here to debate it. This bill has been on the calendar Monday, Tuesday and today. It is not fair to the people in the Allegheny County Pension Fund who want to put their money back in this fund. There is nothing on it, but it was not debated when it passed the first time and the bill is even better now then it was then because you put a cut-off date on it. I ask that we roll this bill.

Mr. DEVLIN. Mr. Speaker, in confirming Mr. Walsh's remarks, we passed this bill unanimously 177-0 on August 12. I certainly would not consider that to be a controversial bill. Now the bill was recalled for the purpose of putting a date into the bill that did not heretofore appear, at the suggestion of one of the drafters in the Justice Department. We recalled it and put the date in. I see no legitimate reason for delaying it any further. As Mr. Walsh points out, if Mr. Goldstein desired to debate the bill, he should have been here.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Goldstein is not here.

He wanted to debate the bill. I am not trying to defeat the bill. I am merely trying to extend a courtesy to one of the Members of the House, which he requested.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Spaker, I believe those marks about the debate of Mr. Goldstein, he was here the previous days when the bill was marked, and I know that Mr. Goldstein did intend to debate the bill. But Mr. Goldstein yesterday was not here and could not have debated this bill at that time.

I beg your pardon, I know what time he left. He was here yesterday but by the time the special order of business was being considered he could not have debated the bill.

On those grounds, Mr. Speaker, I agree with the request of the acting Minority Leader, as he has indicated, but I would like to say that the bill is better. Every single item in the bill is agreed to. The only addition is the cut-off date which you see in the bill. You can read it and check.

With that, Mr. Speaker, I would ask that the bill be voted on. Mr. Goldstein can put his remarks on the record.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I am not familiar with the second class county situation as provided in this bill. I would not attempt to debate it myself. I do not know any of the facts or the background of it. All I am trying to do is to get for a Member of this House a courtesy which I think could be extended to him.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, does the Minority Leader agree that the bill was agreed to except for Mr. Goldstein's debate?

Mr. TOMPKINS. So far as I know, yes.

Mr. McCANN. Well, since the bill was agreed to and Mr. Goldstein is not here to debate the bill, Mr. Speaker, I would request that the bill be rolled in order. He can spread his remarks on the record. He will not be recorded as voting either aye or nay; he will be recorded as not voting. However, they can put it in the record absent or whatever it may be.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I am not going to try to debate this bill, but I am going to ask for a slow roll call, if that is the position.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Devlin.

Mr. DEVLIN. Mr. Speaker, if it will not suffice for our colleague from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein, to spread his remarks on the record Monday, November 9, if that will not suffice with the acting Minority Leader, then we will agree to wait until that date and let him give his remarks prior to the vote.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. DEVLIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the final passage postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE

BILLS PASSED OVER

There being no objection,

House Bill No. 460, Printer's No. 1854, was passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1316, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 2, 1937 (P. L. 1183) entitled "An act providing that investment of shares of Federal Savings and Loan Associations or shares of other institutions insured under the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation shall be legal investments for certain corporations and certain funds" permitting mutual life and mutual fire insurance companies to invest in shares of certain Federal Savings and Loan Associations outside the Commonwealth.

CALL OF THE HOUSE

Mr. FARABAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I question the presence of a quorum.

The SPEAKER. The Chair does not hear the gentleman.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

BILLS PASSED OVER

There being no objection

Senate Bill No. 1081, Printer's No. 1361,
Senate Bill No. 1094, Printer's No. 1363,
Senate Bill No. 1109, Printer's No. 1319,
Senate Bill No. 1116, Printer's No. 1334,
Senate Bill No. 1121, Printer's No. 1344,
Senate Bill No. 1181, Printer's No. 1443 and Senate Bill No. 1182, Printer's No. 1445

were passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. ROVANSEK. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. ROVANSEK. The gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Farabaugh questions the presence of a quorum in the House to do business.

The SPEAKER. The Chair did not hear the gentleman. We were in the midst of a roll call and there was nothing we could do about it.

The roll call showed a quorum present. You cannot question the roll call in the face of the fact that the roll had just been called and a majority was present.

Will the gentleman from Cambria preside temporarily?

Mr. LOPRESTI IN THE CHAIR

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. FILO. Since the duly elected Speaker has left the rostrum, Mr. Speaker, many times during this Session the gentleman said there will be no consent calendars in this House.

The gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Farabaugh, questioned the presence of a quorum. I think the gentleman should have followed up his question.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, during the debate on Tuesday, October 20, on House Bill 2354, I rose to a point of order on a decision by the Chair at that time to check with the presiding Speaker on a point of order.

I am not conceding that I was not right in taking the point of order. I think that I was right. I am not conceding that I was wrong in not yielding to the Speaker on my point of order raised.

I am admitting to the Members of this House and to the Speakers that I was wrong in the manner in which I did it. I was considerably heated up over the matter. I was wrong and am willing to admit that I was wrong in the way I did it.

I think possibly it was an affront to the House, an affront to the dignity of the Chair, the dignity of this body.

I apologize, Mr. Speaker, to the Members of the House for it and to the Speaker. I wish to extend my apologies also to the gentleman from York, personally, and to him as presiding officer at that time, Mr. Gailey, for the manner in which I did it.

I would like to have those remarks spread upon the record.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I understand that the Minority Leader did have one bill that he had marked in error on page 20, I believe, is that correct?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Bill 1116?

Mr. McCANN. I call up on page 20 bills on third reading, Senate Bill No. 1116, Printer's No. 1334.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 1116, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 1, 1929 (P. L. 1612) entitled "Real Estate Brokers License Act of 1929" re-defining real estate broker and salesman and deleting the provisions relating to limited licenses.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 882, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 14, 1949 (P. L. 482) entitled as amended "An act authorizing and requiring cities boroughs townships municipal authorities and public utility companies engaged in the supplying of water to shut off the supply of water for nonpayment of sewer or sewage treatment rentals rates or charges imposed by municipal authorities organized by counties of the second class by cities of the second class by cities of the second class A by cities of the third class by boroughs or by townships of the first or second class * * *" authorizing municipalities which impose charges for sewerage as lessee of authorities and also supply water to premises to shut off water thereto without prior request or assignment of claim or lien from the authority and placing certain conditions and limitations upon the powers and duties conferred by the act.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. FILO. I would like to have somebody explain this bill.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, Senate Bill 882, when it came over from the Senate, carried a provision by which the water could be shut off by the authority for non-payment of sewage rental.

When the bill was acted on in the House in the Committee on Municipal Corporations, Senate Bill No. 882 had a series of conferences in which an amendment was placed in the bill that the water could not be shut off for non-payment of sewage rental, but a provision was placed in the bill which gave the right of appeal to court for, I believe, a ten day period so that the case could be heard. If it were just a matter where a person refused not to pay his bills, that is one item; but if it was a matter where there was a discrepancy or where there was a difference of service or the services were not being handled properly, then that person had a right to be heard, and that provision was worked out with the parties involved so that Senate Bill 882 now carries the protective provision of insuring you and me that if we have a discrepancy with the authority where it is a matter of service, that they do not shut our water off but we can be heard. If it is matter of just refusing to pay your bill, then it can be shut off.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Knecht, had some explanation on this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The chair recognizes the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Knecht.

Mr. KNECHT. Mr. Speaker, the object of this bill was to rectify what the Supreme Court referred to as a legislative oversight in reversing a decision of the common pleas court where the boroughs have attempted to shut off the water from one of the residents who had refused to pay his bill.

The borough erected a sewage system and disposal plant at a cost of a million dollars, and about 12 people in that community refused to pay their bills. The common pleas court upheld the borough but the Supreme Court reversed the lower court because of a technicality in the law, which the Supreme Court referred to as a "legislative oversight."

This bill is designed to correct the "legislative oversight" and make it possible for the sewage authority to collect its rentals.

I might say, since that decision of the Supreme Court was handed down, more than 100 people who are connected to the sewer have refused to pay their sewer bills, and unless there is some rectifying legislation, that number is destined to grow, in my opinion. I think this is very vital not only to the borough of Schuylkill Haven but to every other borough or municipality in this state that has spent millions of dollars in some cases to erect sewage disposal plants at the directive of the state, if they are to meet their obligations to the bondholders of the sewage authorities. I think this is a good legislation and I am satisfied to go along with the amendments that were put in because I feel that the court will give a just decision in those cases.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair has been informed that there is present in the Hall of the House a young lady from Schuylkill County, Susan Bertholf, who has just been elected Rodeo Queen at the Horse Show here in Harrisburg.

BILLS ON FIRST READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 161, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 29, 1959 (P. L. 58) entitled "An act consolidating and revising the Vehicle Code, the Tractor Code, the Motor Vehicle Financial Responsibility Act and other acts relating to the ownership, possession and use of vehicles and tractors, "changing limitations upon the operation of commercial motor vehicles for carriage of passengers.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 591, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 29, 1959 (Act No. 32) entitled "An act consolidating and revising the Vehicle Code the Tractor Code the Motor Vehicle Financial Responsibility Act and other acts relating to the ownership possession and use of vehicles and tractors" requiring school buses to be equipped with a pressurized dry chemical fire extinguisher and providing penalties.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. FARABAUGH. I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. FARABAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I would just like to say to the Members who are here, before they leave, that I was not joking. I was sincere in my efforts, because I was very much concerned about what has been going on here and the number of people who have been walking out of this House before the end of the Session. I was sincere and I think it is high time that something be done about it. Had it not been that I respect those who stayed here and did not want to penalize them, I would have pressed the issue.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. McCORMACK asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I think it would be unfair of the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Farabaugh, to press that issue now because we realize that Al Johnson is down in Philadelphia seeking out the silent vote for Stassen, and he is having quite a job.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 227, entitled:

An Act amending the "Mechanics Lien Law" approved June 4, 1901 (P. L. 431) requiring the owner or contractor in certain cases to post bond for payment of labor and material furnished.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, to be transcribed for third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 778, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Department of Highways with the approval of the Governor to erect and construct a bridge over the Monongahela River at a point in the vicinity of the borough of Donora in Washington County and the City of Monessen in Westmoreland County * * * empowering counties to pay certain damages and making an appropriation.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. COMER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be re-committed to the Committee on Appropriations.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 2098, entitled:

An Act amending the "Unfair Cigarette Sales Act" approved May 20, 1949 (P. L. 1584) making technical changes therein.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, to be transcribed for third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 2150, entitled:

An Act amending "The County Code" approved August 9, 1955 (P. L. 323) authorizing the levy and collection of an additional tax for municipal improvement to lands and buildings damaged by subsidence.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, to be transcribed for third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 2428, entitled:

An Act amending the "State Highway Law" approved June 1, 1945 (P. L. 1242) authorizing adoption of a system for qualification of competent and responsible bidders on highway projects.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, to be transcribed for third reading.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR.

STATEMENT BY SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to make a statement regarding parliamentary requests.

Any two Members of this House have the right to demand a roll call, so that any Member of this House who wants to find out whether there is a quorum in the House does not have to raise the question of no quorum. All he has to do is demand a roll call. The roll call will reveal whether or not there is a quorum present.

The Chair wants to say that in his opinion, in fairness to the Members who stay, to have the announcement made early in the Session, when we convene that John Jones of such and such a county, if he has reason to believe there is not a quorum, will ask for a complete roll call. That solves your question right there. There does not have to be any parliamentary fuss about it, there does not have to be anybody recognized, the question presents itself automatically.

INTERROGATION

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the Chair a question.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will recognize the gentleman. The Chair does not know whether he will answer his question or not.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, when there is the suggestion of the absence of a quorum what is in order while that suggestion is pending, prior to bringing back all of the Members?

The SPEAKER. The roll itself establishes whether or not there is a quorum present, and if the House has consented to a fast roll call and the fast roll call proceeding on the number that answered at a previous time, counting them present, the result of the roll call establishes the fact that a quorum is present.

However instead of a fast roll call a Member rising can ask for a slow roll call, just like you demand the verification of the roll and it would be parliamentarily possible for a—even on a fast roll call—for a Member to demand a verification of the roll and that would show, and if the verification of the roll showed that there was a quorum present it would automatically develop. We would have to send for the Members. I think that the Members before they leave, if they are likely to be sent for, should be notified that that could be the possible outcome. That is simply the opinion of the Chair.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, where a quorum is established by the roll call is it not then possible to send for the absent Members?

The SPEAKER. When the absence of a quorum is established by the roll, that automatically reveals the fact then you either have to adjourn or send for the Members. Once that question is raised you have only the two alternatives. You can adjourn or you can send for the Members. I would like to point out that we have Members habitually absent. The House can send for any Member who is absent without leave.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, regarding this question as to a quorum in the House, as the gentleman well recalls, in the Session of 1949, when the question of a quorum was raised and there were about 15 Members absent, we sat here from eight o'clock in the morning until five o'clock at night until those absent Members were present and there was no question of a doubt that there was a quorum present at the time.

The SPEAKER. The House had the right if, even though there is a quorum present and the roll call develops the fact that there are absent Members, a verification of the roll develops the fact that there are absent Members of the House, even though there are two hundred Members present on the floor and there are ten that are absent without leave, the House can send for them.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 216, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30), entitled "Public School Code of 1949," providing for the creation of capital reserve funds regulating the use of such funds and authorizing the levying of taxes.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, to be transcribed for third reading.

RESOLUTION

Mr. COMER offered a resolution which was filed with the Clerk under the Rules.

RESOLUTION

CONDOLENCE

Mr. FRASCELLA offered a resolution which was read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives October 21, 1959.

Last week one of the former Members of this body passed away. Mr. Edward Duffy, Jr., who represented the 21st district from Philadelphia, served in the House from 1940 to 1950. Many of us who are here today remember what a wonderful job Ed did while he was a Representative. He was the type of Member that all of us should try and emulate, since he had the foresight and ability to recognize the problems that faced the State as well as those that he was confronted with from his own district.

At the time of his untimely death, Edward Duffy was only 54 years old. He was then Deputy Clerk of the Quarter Sessions Court of Philadelphia County. He dedicated his entire life to the service of his people. He attended the local schools in Philadelphia and Temple University. By trade he was a sheet metal worker, but his great interest was in the children of Philadelphia, since he always felt that participation in sports was a way to make better citizens out of the youth of today. He himself took an active part in sports since 1920. He organized semi-professional baseball and football teams throughout the Philadelphia area.

He was also active in the Democratic Party. As president of the 29th Ward Democratic Club, he did much to bring honor and prestige to the people he represented. There is no question that his great insight and ever present spirit will be missed by many of his friends and associates; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives extend its deepest sympathy to the family of our former colleague from Philadelphia, Mr. Edward Duffy, Jr., during this, their hour of extreme bereavement; and be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to his widow, Mrs. Florence Duffy, and to his children, Robert, Rita, Ruth and Richard.

RESOLUTION

CONDOLENCE

Messrs. SNIDER, KORNICK, WHEELER and TRUSIO offered a resolution which was read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives October 21, 1959.

We pause on this sad occasion to mourn the loss of a soldier, statesman, patriot and humanitarian, George C. Marshall, one of the great men of our times, whose actions and deeds will be remembered in infinitum.

A Pennsylvanian, he was born in Uniontown, Pennsylvania, December 31, 1880.

He attended the Virginia Military Institute at Lexington, Virginia and after graduation was commissioned a Second Lieutenant of Infantry in February 1901. He had many important assignments but of particular note were his appointment as Chief of Staff of the United States Army with the rank of full General. He directed the master strategy of the United States war plan during World War II, and in 1944 was promoted to the rank of Five Star General. The European Recovery Program, commonly called the "Marshall Plan," promoted by him played a significant part in the economic recovery of Western Europe and for his untiring efforts was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1953.

Many honors were bestowed upon him by nations all over the world and by institutions of higher learning in recognition of his services to his country and mankind.

Freedom loving peoples in all countries have lost a great champion for their cause in the death of George C. Marshall; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania pays tribute to George C. Marshall, one of our own Pennsylvania sons, who became and was recognized the world over in his lifetime as a great soldier, statesman, patriot and humanitarian; and be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to Katherine Boyce Tupper Brown Marshall, his widow at Leesburg, Virginia.

BILLS LAID ON TABLE

House Bills Nos. 2218, 2268 and 2319 and Senate Bill No. 379 were laid upon the Speaker's table.

STATEMENT BY MAJORITY LEADER

Mr. McCANN. I have nothing further to bring before the House except I hope and I know that this is impossible, that everyone may have a most glorious election victory party, for some will lose and some will win, and when we come back the election will be over.

The SPEAKER. The election being over, maybe it will be possible to get down to business.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, when we return on November 9, on behalf of Mr. Johnson who will then be in the Superior Court, we will invite you all to his party—at his expense.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. SCARCELLI. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Monday, November 9, 1959 at 4:30 p.m., E.S.T.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 1:40 p.m., E.S.T.) the House adjourned.

SENATE

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1959

The Senate met at 3:00 o'clock, p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor John Morgan Davis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, FATHER JOHN F. CULLINAN, Pastor of St. Michael's Catholic Church, Hollidaysburg, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, our Father in Heaven, from Thy sun in the sky comes all the light, heat and power that we have in the material world, and from Thy Fatherly loving heart comes all the light, warmth and strength of the human spirit. All our lives we have been held enwrapped in this never failing love of Thine. Whether we knew or whether we were unaware, Thy love never failed.

Now, in this place and on this day, we are to translate Thy love into love for others. Those who have entrusted themselves to our care will receive, through our agency, the love that comes from the Heavenly Father. We ask Thee then, may we have a living love, a living sense of Thy love for us and of Thy love for all Thy children. May their love be translated into the light of wisdom, into the warmth of affection and the strength of service in Thy Name. In this noble Hall, we see democracy in action. May we also see, through our efforts, Thy love in action, Thy love by Thy dear children and for Thy dear children.

In the Father's Name we pray, Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. PECHAN and Mr. BLASS, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

BILL ON SECOND READING AMENDED

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 203, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 30, 1947 (P. L. 1183) entitled "An act relating to strikes by public employes prohibiting such strikes providing that such employes by striking terminate their employment providing for reinstatement under certain conditions providing for a grievance procedure and providing for hearings before civil service and tenure authorities and in certain cases before the Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board" imposing certain duties on the Governor and State agency or political subdivision involved

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. WEINER offered the following amendment:

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1), page 5, line 6 by inserting after "measures": "consistent with rules and regulations promulgated by the Executive Board, the Civil Service Commission, or both."

It was agreed to.

The section was agreed to as amended.

The second section and title were read and agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time, as amended,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading, as amended?

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that House Bill No. 203, Printer's No. 79, on second reading, go over in its order, as amended.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the following bills, on second reading, go over in their order:

House Bill No. 355, Printer's No. 1710; and
House Bill No. 506, Printer's No. 1826.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 804, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 13, 1836 (P. L. 551) entitled "An act relating to roads highways and bridges" authorizing the Secretary of Highways to determine the maximum width of public highways.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 924, entitled:

An Act providing subpoena power for District Attorneys.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

MOTION TO RECOMMIT BILL

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 924, on second reading, be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I have no pride of authorship on this measure, but I have apprised the parties, the District Attorney of Philadelphia as well as the Attorney General, of the problem involved.

This matter arose as a result of the District Attorney in the city of Philadelphia trying to conduct an investigation by Grand Jury into one of the associations in the city of Philadelphia in an area where he felt there should be some public inquiry. When that was attempted, the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania said that this was not a proper way to do it and the District Attorney is now seeking subpoena power to do it.

This may seem to be a little wide swath of power that the District Attorney is seeking and for that reason I would request, rather than this bill being recommitted, that it go over in order so that the Attorney General and the District Attorney can resolve their differences. If this cannot be done, I will so report back to this Body, and at that time the bill could be recommitted. If there are any objections on that ground, I would like to hear about it.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, first of all, I am not going to place any objection to the suggestion that the bill go over in its order, provided that my colleague withdraws his motion to recommit the bill. The motion was made as a result of discussion on this bill whereby we concluded that this was rather extraordinary power to delegate to the office of District Attorney. The power of subpoena is not ordinarily relegated to quasi-judicial proceedings. However, I do not know about the special situation which brought about the introduction of this bill. Therefore, I will ask Senator Pechan if he would care to withdraw his motion.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I will inform the Senate the moment that these two parties resolve their differences, if there is a possibility of having them resolved.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

MOTION TO RECOMMIT BILL WITHDRAWN

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I will now withdraw my motion to recommit this bill.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I will withdraw my second to the motion to recommit.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 924, Printer's No. 1087, on second reading, go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON SECOND READING AMENDED

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 932, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 17, 1929 (P. L. 527) entitled "An act providing for the recovery and collection of municipal claims by action of assumpsit without the necessity of entering liens for such claims and repealing existing laws" providing for the recovery of water and sewer charges and the cost of removal of nuisances by actions of assumpsit and extending the time within which actions of assumpsit may be brought to six years.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. SCOTT offered the following amendments:

Amend Section 1, page 3, line 1, by removing the brackets before and after "three" and striking out "six"; Amend Section 1, page 3, line 2, by striking out "six" and inserting in lieu thereof "three."

They were agreed to.

The section was agreed to as amended.

The title was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the title?

Mr. SCOTT offered the following amendments:

Amend title, sixth line of title, by striking out "and extending the time within which"; Amend title, seventh line of title, by striking out all of said line.

They were agreed to.

The title was agreed to as amended.

And said bill having been read at length the second time, as amended,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading, as amended?

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 932, Printer's No. 1095, on second reading, go over in its order, as amended.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 1223, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30) entitled "Public School Code of 1949" providing that certain assistant county superintendents may be appointed to serve two or more counties jointly.

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that House Bill No. 1355, Printer's No. 783, on second reading, go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the following bills, on second reading, go over in their order:

House Bill No. 1380, Printer's No. 1810; and

House Bill No. 1384, Printer's No. 1756.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I move that House Bill No. 1789, on second reading, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177) entitled "The Administrative Code of 1929" adding to and redefining the powers and duties of the Department of Public Instruction with respect to libraries and authorizing regional library resource centers. be recommitted to the Committee on State Government.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I am opposing this motion. This bill, when it first came out, was amended until the very heart of the measure was cut out of it. Now it is being sent back to committee for final death.

I think the matter with which this bill deals, the libraries in the State of Pennsylvania, is a rather vital issue, and a vital problem which is important to all of our people. I think this action is in error.

I would like the gentleman who asked for the bill to be recommitted to reconsider his action as I do not think this will be something of which we can be proud if we kill it now.

This bill deals with an area where we, as a people, have to do everything we can to educate our young people and keep our adults informed. Cutting the heart out of libraries or not placing books in the hands of people so that they can educate themselves, I think is a rather foolhardy thing to do at this time. This bill carries no appropriation with it and was just merely a declaration, in asence, of public policy. Therefore, I do not think that the killing of this measure is something that we should do at this time.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, this bill was amended. In the opinion of many of the Senators, the bill, in the form in which it was reported from committee, was rather too broad and went too far. In the opinion of some of the Senators at the present time, including my learned colleague, it may not go far enough. For that reason, Mr. President, we thought that it would be better to recommit this bill and permit a study to be made of this subject with the idea that a recommended bill might be produced for our consideration at another Legislature.

There is no question about it; the conduct of a library and the qualifications of librarians are important, and books should be placed in the hands of our people just as plentifully and as rapidly as it is possible to do so. However, we do not believe that this bill is the precise vehicle by which that laudable object might be accomplished in the manner that it should.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to point out to the Members of the Senate that a special commission had been appointed earlier this year. I believe it was headed by a Mr. Greenfield of Philadelphia, and a report was placed on the desk of every Member here as well as the Members of the House. I think that this bill is a result of that report.

Since they put that time, effort and energy into the report, I think we should criticize the report or say that the report does not fulfill the function which the commission set out to do, instead of killing the measure that has resulted from it. I think we are sort of going at this thing in a backward manner.

I would like to hear from the Members of this Body who have read the report or found some difficulty with it, and have them tell me what is wrong with it so that I can transmit this to the members of my Caucus, as well as to the Members in the House, who may have made an error in passing this measure. If we do that, we will be saving the Commonwealth money, rather than going into another investigation and having other hearings and another report result.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I am somewhat bewildered by the turn of events with regard to House Bill No. 1789.

In the first place, the bill originated after a great deal of study, Mr. President, on the part of people throughout the Commonwealth who have at heart the interest of extending the library facilities of the Commonwealth. A tremendous amount of study was placed on that.

The bill then, when it came to the Senate, was given very careful further study. As a result of the thinking about that, Senator Kessler introduced what seemed to me a set of amendments designed to remove objections which certainly had some validity in the minds of many Members. Those amendments were passed and I thought, at that time, that possibly the bill had been cleared to the satisfaction of everyone. I was greatly surprised when I heard the motion to send it back to committee, because I think everything has been done in the way of studying this bill that could possibly be done. I believe the Kessler amendments removed the last controversial matter from the bill.

This is a very important bill, Mr. President. This is one which, it seems to me, is as important in many ways as the education bills which we are considering because, as far as the adults of our communities throughout the Commonwealth are concerned and as far as the continuation of education beyond the period of formal schooling, the library is the key to this progress.

I believe, therefore, that we should not lightly cast aside a bill which has had all of the study and attention that this bill has had, and which carries the recommendations of the people who are deeply concerned with this, the people who work in this field. I would urge everyone to give serious consideration to this matter. If it has to come to a vote to decide its fate today, then I hope the people here will vote against sending it back to committee.

Perhaps it would be better if we would put this bill over in order and give a little more thought to this matter, rather than put a decisive vote on the matter of recommitting it to committee. It would, perhaps, be better if we would wait a day or two and consider the possibilities.

I hope, however, if that suggestion is not taken, that the motion will be defeated.

The PRESIDENT. The only motion before the Body is a motion to recommit, which has been seconded.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, first I might say that, in my opinion, this surely is not a political bill. Secondly, Senator Kessler inserted those amendments which certainly watered down the bill, and I was of the opinion there was not going to be any difficulty in regard to this legislation. As a matter of fact, last week I made a speech in which I said that something would be done for the libraries here in Pennsylvania, and I thought that this bill would possibly pass the Senate.

I would dislike very much to see the bill recommitted because it is a great educational feature. It is going to revitalize the libraries in operation in Pennsylvania, and I believe that it is good legislation.

If anyone on the Majority side has objections to this bill, I wonder if they would agree to let the bill go over in order. If the amendments are unnecessary, I, for one, would agree. I would like to have something done this Session. I know if the bill is recommitted now, it will probably be too late to bring it out of committee.

Therefore, I would ask the Majority side to reconsider their position on recommitment and let the bill go over in order. I will be glad to work with anyone on the other side, and I will agree to almost any amendment possible to save this legislation so that we will have a start here in Pennsylvania. I would like to know if the Majority Leader would reconsider his position on recommitment, let the bill go over and let us see if we can work something out.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I do not feel too strongly about this bill, personally. However, this was discussed thoroughly, and it was the thinking of the majority in our Caucus that the bill should receive some further amendments, and the amendments should be inserted in committee or following a study which could be made by the Joint State Government Commission upon this whole subject.

I see almost nothing in the bill which cannot be done now except to extend the powers of the State Librarian and to set up the regional library resource centers by the State Librarian. Practically anything that is in that section can be done now by the libraries enumerated, as far as I can see.

To make an effective bill, without making it too restrictive upon the already existing and very excellent free public libraries which are located in almost every town and village of any size in our State, would require some further study. I certainly will be glad to discuss this matter with Senator Lane or anyone else as to getting something accomplished even in this Session which might be acceptable, and will certainly not recommend to our Caucus that the matter be considered finished business upon recommitment.

However, at the present time, I would not feel free to withdraw the motion to recommit.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to point out to the Members of the Senate that there are now one-quarter of a million people in our State who are without library facilities of any type. This is a vehicle to provide those people with those kind of facilities. This was clearly stated in the report, and it was one of the reasons this bill was drawn.

I do not adhere to the idea that this is the finest piece of legislation, or that it covers all of the multitude of sins which we are trying to avoid. However, I certainly think it is a step in the right direction, from which we might build later on to accomplish what we want to do in this State to prevent illiteracy from completely invading many areas where it is now present. I think this bill can shed a light where darkness now exists. I think this is the vehicle to begin this job.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, due to the date on today's Calendar and in view of the prospects of relatively early adjournment, I have a strong feeling that recommitment of this bill will mean its practical death.

For that reason, Mr. President, I would ask for a roll call because I believe that a vote to recommit is a vote to kill the bill. Therefore, I would ask for a roll call.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I wonder whether someone from the other side could tell me, specifically, just what is wrong with this bill. Would someone tell us, specifically, what the objectionable features are? By doing that, we will have a clear light in regard to this legislation.

The PRESIDENT. It is my understanding, Senator Lane, that at this time the merits of the bill, itself, cannot be debated. This is a motion to recommit.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, that is so correct. Perhaps that was just brought to your attention right now. As a matter of fact, we have been debating this bill for the past half-hour.

The PRESIDENT. I think you may properly call that to my attention, Senator Lane. However, as long as you gentlemen were proceeding to indulge your right to discuss legislation, I hated to annoy you by cutting down on it. I am just wondering whether now, at this point, any further explanation would really be in order.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, in addressing the Chair, I might say that we have had sort of a vague explanation in regard to this legislation. I, for one, am quite curious. Actually, the legislation is watered down to the point where it is not going to do much of anything. It is merely a step in the right direction. Therefore, I would like to know what the objections really are to this piece of legislation.

The PRESIDENT. I do not think anyone on the other side has volunteered for that particular job. Therefore, I have only before me the question as to the bill's recommendation.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The roll was called and was as follows:

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SEYLER and Mr. HAYS, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—26

Berger,	Fleming,	Pechan,	Van Sant,
Blass,	Harney,	Propert,	Wade,
Chapman,	Keller,	Scott,	Walker,
Confair,	Kessler,	Shafer,	Watkins,
Ehrgood,	Koprivier, Jr.	Stevenson,	Whalley,
Elliott,	Kromer,	Taylor,	Wolfe,
Flack,	Mallery,

NAYS—18

Camel,	McCreesh,	Ripp,	Seyler,
Donolow,	McGinnis,	Rooney,	Silvert,
Hays,	Miller,	Ruth,	Stiefel,
Kalman,	Mullin,	Sarrafi,	Weiner,
Lane,	Murray,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1927, entitled:

An Act amending the act of January 14, 1952 (P. L. 1965) entitled as amended "Fuel Use Tax Act" decreasing one tax clarifying certain types of aircraft.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I offer the following amendments to this bill.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, may we be at ease a few moments?

The PRESIDENT. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

AMENDMENTS LAID ON THE TABLE

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I now request that the amendments which I offered be laid on the table.

The PRESIDENT. There being no objection, the amendments will be laid on the table.

And the question recurring,
Will the Senate agree to the section?

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that House Bill No. 1927, Printer's No. 1665, on second reading, go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. RIPP. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Messrs. RIPP and FLEMING read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 1238, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 1, 1956 (P. L. 1959), entitled "An act fixing the salaries and compensation of the Chief Justice and judges of the Supreme Court, the President Judge and judges of the Superior Court, the judges of the courts of common pleas, the judges of the orphans' courts, the judges of the Municipal Court of Philadelphia and the judges of the County Court and Juvenile Court of Allegheny County, certain associate judges not learned in the law, certain state officers, and the salary and expenses of the members of the General Assembly, and repealing certain inconsistent acts," increasing the compensation of judges of the County Court and Juvenile Court of Allegheny County.

Which was committed to the Committee on Rules.

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. RUTH, on behalf of Mr. WEINER, read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 1239, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Internal Affairs for conducting, interpreting and publishing an aerial magnetometer survey of oil and gas fields in Pennsylvania.

Which was committed to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Messrs. McCREESH and KELLER read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 1240, entitled:

Which was committed to the Committee on Rules.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

RECALLING SENATE BILL No. 304 FROM THE GOVERNOR

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. LANE offered the following resolution which was read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, November 9, 1959.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), that Senate Bill No. 304, Printer's No. 329, entitled "An act amending the act of July 28, 1953 (P. L. 723) entitled 'An act relating to counties of the second class amending revising consolidating and changing the laws relating thereto' providing for the creation of capital reserve funds for capital expenditures," be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

STATEMENT CONCERNING INTRODUCTION OF JOINT RESOLUTION, LIMITING THE LENGTH OF LEGISLATIVE SESSIONS

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, before making the request that I am about to make, I would like to inform the Members of the Senate that I had intended today to introduce a Joint Resolution concerning an amendment to the recently adopted amendment to the Constitution, limiting the length of the legislative Sessions. The amendment was prepared by the Legislative Reference Bureau, but I find that it needs some slight changes. Therefore, I must defer the introduction of that until tomorrow's Session.

RECESS

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I now request a five minute recess of the Senate for the purpose of holding a meeting of the Committee on Rules, to be held in the Conference Room at the rear of the Senate.

Th PRESIDENT. Are there any objections? The Chair hears no objection, and declares a five minute recess of the Senate.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading, as amended?

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that House Bill No. 1614, Printer's No. 1823, on third reading, go over in its order, as amended.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILLS ON FIRST READING

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the first reading of all bills reported from committees for the first time at today's session.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the first reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 990, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 5, 1933 (P. L. 364), entitled "Business Corporation Law," changing the relationship of certain corporate directors to the corporation from fiduciaries to employees.

DAVID L. LAWRENCE.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Tuesday, November 10, 1959, at 11:30 o'clock, a. m., Eastern Standard Time.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 5:38 o'clock, p. m., Eastern Standard Time, until Tuesday, November 10, 1959, at 11:30 o'clock, a. m., Eastern Standard Time.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, November 9, 1959

The House met at 4:30 p. m. EST.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend David R. Hoover, offered the following prayer:

Heavenly Father, in the beauty and glory of this day, we pause to call upon Thy name in prayer, praise, and thanksgiving. We thank Thee for our privilege of living in and sharing in this life and all the many blessings thereof. We praise Thee that Thou hast called these Thy servants with a high and noble calling and hast entrusted to their care the leadership of this great Commonwealth. And we pray that Thou wilt grant to them Thy continued presence, guidance, and care; so that the work which they do and the lives they live may bring glory and honor to Thee. In whose name and for whose sake, we pray. Amen.

JOURNALS APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Journals for September 15, 16, 21, 22, 28, 29 and 30 are now in print. Unless there are some corrections, they will stand approved. The delay in getting these Journals is a matter that will have to be attended to in future sessions.

The Journals for October 13, 14, 15, 19, 20 and 21 are in print. The Chair will say that they stand approved, but will entertain a motion at any time later on for a correction in those Journals which have been so long delayed. Certainly the delay in receiving the Journals is something that will have to be looked into.

SPEAKER OF CONNECTICUT HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. We now have the pleasure of saying that we have with us here on the rostrum the Democratic Speaker of what I believe is, on the basis of present Membership, the Republican House of Representatives of Connecticut. He is here with a group of the employees of the Connecticut House.

He wants to study some of our methods, particularly those matters over which the Chief Clerk has jurisdiction. Of course many of the things we do are worth emulating; and some of the ways we do some things, I hope he never finds out anything about.

The Speaker's name is William J. O'Brien, and you could not make a Republican out of him although he spent some of his time in Pennsylvania, in Mt. Lebanon, which is somewhere in Allegheny County. He lived next door to a present-day Member of the House, Mr. Ewing from that district. Mr. Ewing spent 15 years trying to make a Republican out of this Democratic Speaker from the State of Connecticut.

It gives the Chair great pleasure to present to the Members of this House, William J. O'Brien, Speaker of the House of Connecticut, and I would like to have Speaker O'Brien introduce the other members of his party.

Mr. WILLIAM J. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Majority Leader, Mr. Minority Leader, ladies and gentlemen of the House, it is certainly a great pleasure for me to be here today, knowing that you people are still in Session, and we adjourned back in June with all our work done. Of course it was done basically because of the great record set by our Democratic Governor, Abe Ribicoff, and the many Democrats in the House and Senate.

I have a sort of affinity for Pennsylvania because of the many years I spent in Mt. Lebanon, some 12 or 13 years. All that time Ed Ewing tried very hard to persuade me to become a Republican, but he failed. I regret, of course, that this visit at this time precludes the opportunity to renew acquaintance with a dear friend of mine who died during the past year, John Haudenshield.

Over on our left there, we have with us some people from Connecticut, Miss Lucille Dow of the Clerk's office, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Thornburn and Mr. David Mandell.

Of course I might say that you Democrats here have a wonderful time; you have six votes which you are numerically ahead. When we entered the House there was one vote difference between the Republicans and Democrats, but you will recall it had been 83 years since the Democrats controlled the House, so that was pretty good. The House now stands at one Republican more than the Democrats, so we felt presumably we would not have a special session this year because of the fact that the session did such a grand job.

I know that you have much to do. It is a great pleasure to return after the many years I spent here. I am glad to renew acquaintances with so many people—Ed Ewing, Joe Barr, and many others.

I assure you, Mr. Speaker, I appreciate greatly the opportunity to visit with you and learn so many things, and we will make every effort, believe me, not to learn the things which you mentioned.

STATEMENT BY MINORITY LEADER

The SPEAKER. The Chair welcomes the Member from McKean to the Hall of the House.

We are taking it for granted that he will now be able to dedicate his talents to the furtherance of legislation that we have for the people of Pennsylvania.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, someone said that I am the late, lamented ex-judge of the State Superior Court. I just want to say that I am, of course, glad to be back. I naturally would like to have won the election but that, after all, is the American way, the majority rules.

I enjoyed traveling all over Pennsylvania to see what a great state it is; traveling on our beautiful turnpikes and expressways. I met some very fine and wonderful people, not only on the Republican side, but on the Democratic side as well. I was amazed at the well-wishers I had all over Pennsylvania.

My reason for addressing you now is to thank the Members on the Republican side for what you did for me in the election, financially and the way they boosted me in their home districts, the way they introduced me as their speaker of the evening. I want to tell you that I will always have in my heart a warm spot for all of you.

And you folks on the Democratic side, your well-wishes I know were well-meant. I know some of you gave me some support. As I went through Pennsylvania you were very kind to me; you introduced me to a lot of nice people. I want to say that the bond of friendship that exists between us, whether we are Democrats or Republicans, certainly was vividly displayed to me in my campaign throughout the state.

I am glad to be back at this stand, and I want to thank you, one and all, for your kind support. There is no remorse, no hard feelings. We will face the electorate perhaps at another date. I thank you.

MEMBER WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair notes that Ronald Thompson of Allegheny, who has been ill, has returned to the Hall of the House. We are glad to see him.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, I just want to take a second. While I was in the hospital I received from the Members here a great many cards, letters and notes. I did not reply to them because I did not have the opportunity, so I want to take this opportunity of thanking all of you for thinking of me, and for all of the good wishes that you sent me. Especially, I still remember the very wonderful card that practically every Members of this House signed; it was really a dilly. Thank you very much.

STATEMENT BY MAJORITY LEADER

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, on election day the citizens of this Commonwealth voted a change in the Constitution of the Commonwealth dealing with annual sessions of the General Assembly, dealing with appropriations and revenue-raising measures.

Following the results of that election on the amendments proposed in changing the Constitution, we had a meeting here in Harrisburg on Thursday and also on Sunday night. It was agreed, and we are going to present here today legislation which would change the Administrative Code of the Commonwealth to provide that annual budgets shall be submitted to the General Assembly effective in 1961; legislation will be introduced in a few minutes covering this change. The present biennial budget which is being considered and acted on by the Conference Committee in any event be adopted for the present biennium, the 1959-1961 period. Beginning with 1961 the Governor would submit to the General Assembly annual budgets each year. We hope to enact this legislation immediately, changing the Administrative Code.

Then, in compliance with the change in the Constitution, we are submitting a Joint Resolution dealing with the length of regular sessions of the General Assembly. This Joint Resolution proposes that the regular sessions would be a period of three months dealing with fiscal and financial matters, and a period of six months dealing with the general sessions in which all of the laws are to be considered, or what we normally used to call the regular session, which we are now a part of in 1959. We believe the people of Pennsylvania in their vote of approval on the Constitutional change also favored establishing lengths of sessions.

We believe the budgets should be submitted on an annual basis, and we are certainly most pleased that this will be done. We hope that in future years, beginning with 1961, the problems will not be so difficult. It will be easier to estimate the revenue yields of existing taxes and new tax proposals when acted upon on a yearly basis.

In addition to that this House, as you know by the notice that we sent out, asked that we operate four days this week, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and that the following week, the week of November 16, we hope to have the adjournment of the 1959 Session of the General Assembly become a reality. The General Appropriation bill and the 64 other bills dealing with budgeted, non-budgeted, preferred and non-preferred appropriations are all a part of the Conference Committee's work. I hope that before these next ten legislative days pass, counting today, all of these items will be accomplished and that we can adjourn this 1959 Session, sine die and go home to our families for a short period of time, reconvening on January 5, 1960.

Mr. Speaker, there are many problems that must be resolved between now and adjournment, and many problems that must be considered between adjournment and the convening of the new regular session in 1960; problems dealing with the important fiscal matters of this Commonwealth, financial matters dealing with revenue and appropriations.

We are confident we can face these situations, and hope there will be an agreement in the next day or so on adjournment of this Session for 1959. Some, and I believe many of us, feel that we can accomplish, in the period of time that is left, the major portion of the work that needs to be done in this Session dealing with the legislation that has been enacted in the House and sent to the Senate, bills which are being considered in the Senate Committees this week. I hope this will become a reality in the next few days, for certainly we have tried time and time again to arrive at an adjournment date and accomplish this goal which I feel now will become a reality in the next few weeks.

With those thoughts in mind we ask that all of the House Members try to be with us every day this week and next week to complete all of the legislative program that will have to be acted upon here in the House.

I understand other Joint Resolutions will be introduced, and I do hope we will find agreement on the length of time so that we can state the period in which future sessions will operate here in the Commonwealth.

Mr. Speaker, with those thoughts in mind, despite all of those who keep saying you will listen to Christmas carols here in Harrisburg, that will not become a reality.

The SPEAKER. The Chair believes that he might be privileged to state for the information of the Press and the information of the Members that he is most emphatically personally in disagreement with the proposed program of constitutional amendments which the Majority Leader has outlined.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. STONER. I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. STONER. Mr. Speaker, over the recent recess I spent some time catching up on my reading of the legislative Journal.

On page 2104, June 30th, House Bill 656, I am recorded as voting in the affirmative. This record is an error. I voted in the negative. This was a very important bill, the personal property tax bill; also it was this error that gave the House the 106 votes to pass the bill.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. COMER.

RESOLUTION No. 125.

In the House of Representatives, October 20, 1959.

The efficient management, operation and control of our highway system is essential to the general safety and welfare of the people of this Commonwealth. Improper classification of highways and roads in respect to their function, use and maintenance not only impedes the free flow of traffic but endangers the health and safety of the citizens of this Commonwealth; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission investigate, study and evaluate the classification of all highways, roads and streets in accordance with their function, traffic volume and other pertinent data for the purpose of reclassification; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission report its findings and recommendations, together with drafts of such legislation, as may be necessary to carry its recommendations into effect, to the next regular session of the General Assembly.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. COMER.

RESOLUTION No. 126.

In the House of Representatives, October 20, 1959.

A great deal of confusion, lack of understanding and thus controversy has arisen over House Bill 1702, Printer's No. 1634, pertaining to establishing a new Highway Act to revise, consolidate and amend the various acts relating to highways, particularly the existing Highway Act of 1945.

Despite many weeks of study and hearings by the House Committee on Highways and the considerable expense of reprinting the amended bills of House Bill 1702, many members of this House remained confused as to its purpose, necessity and meaning.

It is imperative, therefore, that a thorough study be made of this proposed legislation in order to determine whether or not its enactment would be in the best interests of our Commonwealth as a whole; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to study and thoroughly investigate the advantages and disadvantages to our Commonwealth of enacting legislation similar to 1959 House Bill 1702, Printer's No. 1634; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission report to the next regular session of the General Assembly its findings and recommendations.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. GALLAGHER offered the following amendment:

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1203), page 3, line 10 by inserting after "or" where it appears the first time "a police officer in uniform."

It was agreed to.

The section was agreed to as amended.

The title was read and agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to as amended.

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1108, entitled:

An Act amending the "Public School Code of 1949" approved March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30), providing a general standard reimbursement fraction for all purposes where reimbursement fractions are used and revising the basis for reimbursement on account of instruction.

The first section was read.

Mr. McCORMACK. I ask that the Clerk read the amendments in full, please.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be explained in full by the gentleman from Potter and by the Majority Leader. After they have been explained, if the gentleman wants them read in full, it will be allowed. They are principally words here, words there and words some other place.

The Clerk will read the amendments.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Messrs. GOODRICH and ZIMMERMAN offered the following amendments:

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2501), page 4, lines 4 and 5, by striking out all of line 4 and "lars ($6300)" in line 5, and inserting: "six thousand six hundred dollars ($6600)."

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2501), page 4, lines 6 and 7, by striking out all of line 6 and "lars ($6900)" in line 7, and inserting: "seven thousand four hundred dollars ($7400)."

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2501), page 5, lines 2 and 3, by striking out all of line 2 and "dred dollars ($6300)" in line 3, and inserting: "six thousand six hundred dollars ($6600)."

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2501), page 5, lines 5 and 6, by striking out all of line 5 and "(.0049)" in line 6, and inserting: "fifty-one ten-thousandths (.0051)."

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2501), page 5, lines 7 and 8, by striking out all of line 7 and "lars ($6300)" in line 8, and inserting: "six thousand six hundred dollars ($6600)."

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2501), page 5, line 10, by striking out all of said line, and inserting: "seven thousand four hundred dollars ($7400)."

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2501), page 5, line 13, by striking out "fifty-four ten-thousandths (.0054)" and inserting: "fifty-eight ten-thousandths (.0058)."

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2501), page 5, lines 14 and 15, by striking out "six thousand nine hundred dollars ($6900)" and inserting: "seven thousand four hundred dollars ($7400)."

The second section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Messrs. GOODRICH and ZIMMERMAN offered the following amendments:

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 2502), page 20, line 10, by inserting after "membership" "at the expense of their district of residence."

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 2502), page 20, line 15, by striking out "basic account."

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 2502), page 20, line 18, by striking out "basic account."

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 2502), page 21, line 20, page 22, line 1, by striking out "six thousand three hundred dollars ($6300)" and inserting: "six thousand six hundred dollars ($6600)."

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 2502), page 22, line 4, by striking out "forty-nine ten-thousandths (.0049)" and inserting: "fifty-one ten-thousandths (.0051)."

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 2502), page 22, lines 12 and 13, by striking out all of line 12 and "lars ($6900)" in line 13, and inserting: "seven thousand four hundred dollars ($7400)."

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 2502), page 22, line 16, by striking out "fifty-four ten-thousandths (.0054)" and inserting: "fifty-eight ten-thousandths (.0058)."

The seventh section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Messrs. GOODRICH and ZIMMERMAN offered the following amendment:

Amend Sec. 7, page 33, lines 6 and 7, by striking out "fifty-five million dollars ($55,000,000)" and inserting: "seventy million dollars ($70,000,000)."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. GOODRICH. Mr. Speaker, the amendments offered to House Bill 1108 places it in the same position that it was in when it was reported from the Committee on Education. This Printer's Number is 1768.

Excepting for this feature, the bill as reported from the Committee on Education carried no appropriations. Presently this bill carries a $70 million in appropriation. The bill as amended carries $55 million in appropriation. It is the feeling of myself and many others, that the $70 million is a minimum figure for the subsidization of schools in Pennsylvania.

I would like personally to congratulate the Chairman of the Committee on Education and Members for the fine work they did on the bill. I ask the Members of the House to support the amendments.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the gentleman from Potter, Mr. Goodrich?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Potter, Mr. Goodrich, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GOODRICH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman tell us clearly on the amendments that he has just proposed to House Bill 1108, Printer's No. 1861, do these proposed amendments restore the bill to the exact wording and figures that were in the bill at the time it came out of the Committee on Education?

Mr. GOODRICH. Mr. Speaker, it does except for the appropriation.

Mr. McCANN. It does except what, sir?

Mr. GOODRICH. The appropriations.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman then tell us whether the amendments that he has proposed to 1108 are amendments which carry an appropriation of how much money?

Mr. GOODRICH. $70 million.

Mr. McCANN. $70 million?

Mr. GOODRICH. That is correct.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman also then verify that all the teaching unit figures are reverted back to the figures for teaching unit reimbursement as were in the bill when it came out of the Education Committee?

Mr. GOODRICH. That is correct.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, House Bill 1108, Printer's No. 1861, is a bill in which it increases the teaching unit reimbursement figures which are estimated to cost approximately $55 million.

These amendments proposed by the gentleman from Potter, Mr. Goodrich, would increase the reimbursement figure on the teaching unit basis from the present $55 million cost to $70 million.

There is no question that we stand in support of the public schools in Pennsylvania and the public school system, but, I rise to oppose the amendments offered by the gentleman from Potter, Mr. Goodrich, increasing the subsidy figures in the present bill of $55 million to $70 million on the grounds that each of these items must be agreed to in what we are trying to do in the field of education.

House Bill 1108 when first introduced cost approximately $200 million in new money. As reported from the Committee on Education, $70 million. As reported from the Committee on Appropriations, as amended, $55 million. The amendments offered by the gentleman from Potter, Mr. Goodrich, would re-increase the $55 million to $70 million.

This is not within sound fiscal, sensible operation of our public school system in proposing these amendments and not providing any revenue raising measures to pay for them. As soon as everyone is ready to vote for the tax measures, we on this side of the House will certainly also meet our obligation and provide money for the public school system, whether it is $70 million, $80 million, or whatever the figure, but until that time, I rise to oppose the amendments offered by the gentleman from Potter.

Mr. GOODRICH. I assume that the Members of the House are, and I know that they are, responsible. The Members of the House in appropriating revenue which has not been passed at the present time that would finance the amended 1108 for $70 million, certainly the House of Representatives in voting for the bill, would certainly declare their intent to support equitable and nonpunitive taxes in a like amount. It is not new in the House of Representatives to vote appropriation bills prior to a tax bill. I think the basis of the Majority Leader's argument is incorrect; it is unsound. At the present time, we have a bill for $55 million with no tax package signed by the Governor. For that reason I ask the members to support the amendments and ask for a slow roll call.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the gentleman?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Potter permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. GOODRICH. I shall.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman inform us whether this House has passed revenue raising measures in excess of this amount of money?

Mr. GOODRICH. I think that is correct, but I further think that there is no point in flaying a dead horse.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman inform us if any of the Members on the Republican side of the House voted in support of that tax measure?

Mr. GOODRICH. Mr. Speaker, I think the question is not pertinent to the question before the House.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman inform us if the Republican Party is now ready to propose and vote for a tax measure to replace the $55 million that is a dead horse?

Mr. GOODRICH. Mr. Speaker, I can speak for myself only. If it is a nonpunitive and acceptable tax measure, I certainly would vote for it.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman define a nonpunitive tax measure when someone always opposes every tax measure?

Mr. GOODRICH. I agree with the Majority Leader that all taxes to a degree are not equitable and are punitive. Now it is the intent in the tax measure that would determine my vote for or against, whether the intent was punitive or not.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker. Will the gentleman inform us if the amendments he is proposing to 1108 are backed by the Republican Party of the House of Representatives?

Mr. GOODRICH. No, I cannot tell you that.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, will the speaker tell us whether the Republican Party supports these amendments and that they are also willing to support the tax measure?

Mr. GOODRICH. Mr. Speaker, the question is not pertinent to the amendments.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has been very lenient in the matter of interrogation.

Mr. McCANN. I said that I assume, sir, that responsible Representatives would pass a tax program.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would say that probably the gentleman cannot commit the Republican party, and does not know who can.

Mr. GOODRICH. Mr. Speaker, you can remove the word "probably" from your statement.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman tell us if the amendments to 1108 were agreed on and placed in the bill changing it to $70 million for the public school system of Pennsylvania, if you are in a position to outline a tax program to support that measure?

Mr. GOODRICH. That is not a question concerning the bill. I assure you that I would be glad to sit down with the Majority side and discuss the tax program to support the measure.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, this is extremely important to this measure,

Mr. GOODRICH. That is correct.

Mr. McCANN. If I named the taxes, would you care to say if the party would support them. Since all the tax measures in this Session have been for increased taxes and have been heavily in the field of consumer taxes, such as the sales tax increase and the new items placed under it? Are they now in a position in which they care to place a tax on either business, industry, corporations or in other fields?

Mr. GOODRICH. Mr. Speaker, I did not offer amendments as a policy of the Republican party. I cannot commit the policy of the Republican party to taxation. I will say this again, if there is a need for the $70 million, I am sure there are enough votes in the House of Representatives to pass it.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, if we assure you as members of the Conference Committee there certainly is need for some tax measures to pay this, are you willing to provide the votes for the tax measure?

Mr. GOODRICH. You are asking me as representing the Republican party. I am proud to do that, but in this I could commit only myself.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman very kindly for his non-informative position on the Republican policy regarding the tax program to support education. Mr. Speaker, I again ask that the amendments be opposed.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not agreed to.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. McCANN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to have permission just to say one or two words regarding the amendments which have now fallen. I ask unanimous consent to address the House.

We can assume that there are now at least ninety-one Republican votes for the $70 million tax program to pay for education. Those of us who voted against this increased measure will provide the balance of the votes immediately for the passage of that tax measure.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to make a motion at this time if I am in order.

The SPEAKER. The minority Leader was attempting to gain recognition but the Chair overlooked him. The Chair now recognizes the Minority Leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Cameron.

The SPEAKER. The Minority Leader yields to the gentleman from Cameron.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, in connection with the remarks of the Majority Leader, I merely wish to state that there were 18 Republican votes on this side already for $28 million of taxes for the schools.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER. There is nothing before the House but will the House agree to Section 1?

Mr. McCANN. That is right, Mr. Speaker, but you recognized the gentleman the same as you did me on other than what was before the House, Section 1.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hearing no objection, the Majority Leader will proceed.

Mr. McCANN. It is this type of irresponsible financial responsibility that causes the chaotic conditions. There were, and those votes for $28 million worth of public school money in which the Republican Members of this House voted to pass tax measures to provide that money for public education. Will any stretch of the imagination make that $28 million, $70 million or will you consider the personal property tax at $55 million in addition to the $28 million?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I said nothing about voting for any tax for $70 million. I merely wanted to correct the statement that he asked for votes for $70 million worth of taxes. I wanted to remind him that it is not $70 million. We have already voted for $28 million.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I realize that I have been away for two weeks and when I got back here last evening and started working on this calendar, of course, on second reading I found House Bill 1108.

As I have gone through the hinterlands and talked to many, many people, oddly enough, they would come to me and say, "Well, how about House Bill 1108?" House Bill 1108 is pretty firmly imbedded in the minds of every citizen of Pennsylvania and it has been imbedded in there by educators, teachers, and members of the PTA, and everybody all over the state says, you have to do something about 1108. Well, we notice that it is on the calendar and there is a tab on it for $55 million. I know what the by-play is and what the game is. The game is to get the bill over to the Senate and then to start putting pressure on the Senate to pass the personal property tax.

Well, now, you know why the Senate has not passed the personal property tax. For one thing, the tax hits unevenly on the people of Pennsylvania and two of our major cities practically go scott-free under the tax. You have read it in the public press, and I have heard it said to me, that the other Body, or somebody in another place where it is to be voted on, has said that the tax will not pass, it is a dead issue. All right, I think when talking about gross irresponsibility, even sending the $55 million over to the Senate in view of repeated warnings that the bill would not pass, is, of course, gross irresponsibility. But I can see a political gimmick on the part of all of us. The people want some part of 1108.

You do not dare put it on the postponed calendar or send it back to Committee until you have decided what type of tax we are going to pass. I think the plan of the minority is to send it over to the Senate, hoping then that the Senate will put it on the Governor's desk to be signed and then to pass some kind of tax program this biennium, this next Session, rather, which will come right now, January 5.

I do not know which is the best course. It seems it is irresponsible to send this bill over to the Senate when we know there presently is not any tax money to pay for it. It seems there should be some responsibility here in this House on the part of the Ways and Means Committee to try, and if the personal property tax is as dead as it reputedly is, to do something within the realm of the $55 million. I am not saying what tax or what you should do, but you are certainly being irresponsible if you send that bill over to the Senate without the money.

You say you want to get out of here; you want to adjourn maybe next week sine die. How are you going to adjourn sine die if you send this bill over to the Senate and they refuse to pass the personal property tax? We will go on and on and on, and there will be a deadlock here. I think if anybody is being grossly irresponsible, you people on the other side are being grossly irresponsible in determining to send this bill over there when you know absolutely the Senate is not going to pass the personal property tax. That is what it adds up to, and I can see in the amendments that Mr. Goodrich felt that as long as we are sending a school bill over to the Senate without any money, why not send it over in an adequate amount and then figure out some way to pay for it. I think that is the rationale of the thinking. Maybe that is being irresponsible. Be that as it may, even if now, tomorrow, we send this bill over to the Senate without the money for it, I think the people of Pennsylvania can rightfully say we are all being irresponsible.

You say what taxes will you vote for? My goodness, we came into this Session, you people had a majority and you had a tax package that you could have passed by yourselves and sent over to the Senate, but no, every day of this Session you have stood there with your hat in your hand and begged us to give you votes and give you votes. You want bipartisanship, but it is only a one-way street with you people over there. That is the trouble with this whole Session.

We Republicans want to be responsible, and we have been responsible by giving you votes to pass a pretty tough tax program. But here we have a $55 million tab, and I do not know where you are going to get the money. I know there is an indisposition on this part of the House to now, at this point, give any votes for taxes. There is an election coming up and the people are very sensitive about the whole situation. Why do you not call a meeting of your Ways and Means Committee and work this thing out for yourselves as the responsible party in Pennsylvania? That is my admonition to you. I do not believe it is right for you to say that we are being irresponsible on this side of the House when it is emanating right from you folks.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will perhaps, with one more reply from the Majority Leader, declare that last campaign over and decree that next year's campaign has not yet begun. The Chair recognizes the Majority Leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, it is very nice for the Minority Leader to say that the irresponsibility should be shifted over to the Democratic side of the House, but if you do not call that irresponsible in changing a school bill to $70 million when you are not going to provide the votes for the tax measure, what is it? That certainly is the height of irresponsibility.

I can remember so well, time and time again, and the Legislative Journal will show clearly, the remarks of the Minority Floor Leader in which he stated time and time again that the people of Pennsylvania are getting very, very fed up with additional taxes. Now if 1108 has $55 million, $70 million or $200 million, you and I are the only ones who can vote for the tax measures to pay for it; nobody else can in this House.

I think it is time that you face the financial responsibility. It is nice to be able to do something about schools, and we want to do everything we can for the public school system, but let us do it in a financially responsible way. We passed in this House a tax measure for $55 million. That tax measure is a personal property tax. It is not right to say that Philadelphia and the city of Pittsburgh people do not pay, or would not pay, any taxes under this bill. They now pay and have been paying more taxes than you and I pay under the same law. Yes, they have.

The SPEAKER. The House will be in order. We can transgress the rules in debate under unanimous consent, but in so doing we must have decorum.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, it is high time that the financial responsibility of this Commonwealth be faced by the two parties, and you say call your Ways and Means Committee together and work this out, propose a tax measure. It is very easy to say that. It is very easy to talk about the tax measure. We as a Democrat party voted for the sales tax measures. We cannot seem to get anywhere in the field of taxation that we as a party believe in and that we as a party seem to favor, but, Mr. Speaker, we do favor being a sound fiscal Commonwealth and sharing our responsibility in enacting those tax measures.

I again say to you that the amendment proposed was nothing more than a position to place into the bill a $70 million appropriation in which all of us would have to vote for the tax measures to pay for it except no one will state what the tax measures are.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I think I had the floor before and yielded temporarily to all those speakers who have preceded me.

At this time, Mr. Speaker, I wish to make both a motion and then talk briefly on the motion.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill 1108 be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary for further study and attention.

The SPEAKER. That is a proper motion, to recommit to what Committee?

Mr. SHERMAN. The Committee on Judiciary.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. SHERMAN. I wish to speak briefly on the motion and then request a division.

Mr. Speaker, there has been no dissenting voice that a House bill emanating from this House, regardless of the other body, should be properly considered for the benefit of our teachers and schools.

I, in making this motion, have that in mind—have in mind that we should give careful study and attention to a proper House bill so that all of our school teachers and the children attending schools may receive proper attention, and a proper appropriation can be made for their benefit.

House Bill 1108, in my opinion has never been given proper consideration and attention, and if this House was to inquire from the two or three of those House Members who even attended to the matter when this bill was brought up, you will find that very little if anything is known about it, either the bill or the amendment.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is verging upon a line of discussion that if the question were raised the Chair would have to rule that the gentleman was out of order.

Mr. SHERMAN. I believe, Mr. Speaker, that the Committee that should properly consider this bill is the committee I have requested so that not only the Chairman of our Educational Committee will have a proper say but that all members of the Committee who are properly learned in the law, and before whom the entire question can be put. I believe that the Judiciary Committee is the proper Committee to carefully consider a bill of this magnitude, in which all of our teachers and not only those in a particular area should be given proper appropriations.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I ask a division vote and ask that as many as possible support this motion to recommit to the Committee on Judiciary,

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, prior to Mr. Sherman's making the motion to recommit we heard an eloquent discourse from the Minority Leader as to fiscal responsibility in an effort to place blame upon this side of the House for House Bill 1108.

House Bill 1108 is repugnant to a great many of the Members on this side of the House. We feel that it needs full and complete study before it is acted upon. We feel, first of all, that the appropriation mentioned in this piece of legislation has been placed in it without ample and complete study. We think that all aspects of the bill need complete study. As a matter of fact, we feel the whole question of subsidies for various school districts requires complete amplification and further study.

Therefore, we take this opportunity at this time in order to induce the people on the other side of the House to act the way they speak. If they feel that this bill represents fiscal irresponsibility this is an opportunity for them to demonstrate what they do consider fiscal responsibility by voting to recommit this bill where it will receive ample and complete study, and then come out as a bill that will serve the purposes of the school districts of this Commonwealth in the way they should be served.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, on the motion made by the gentleman from Philadelphia to recommit 1108 to the Committee on Judiciary, I rise to oppose the motion and ask that it be voted down.

Mr. BOWMAN. Mr. Speaker, I was rather interested to hear the motion that it is to be referred to the Committee on Judiciary. I merely am making an inquiry as to whether those men who are so learned in the law are learned in education, and more particularly whether they know anything about raising money.

Mr. SHERMAN. Just a one or two sentence reply, Mr. Speaker.

I had not intended to reply, but I think the challenge from Mr. Bowman should not be left unanswered.

I assure you that in my district we are greatly interested in the field of education, that I myself am greatly interested in that field, and that both I, along with the Judiciary Committee, the Chairman of the Education Committee is on the Judiciary Committee, and other members who are very well learned in the field of education are on that committee, and for that reason I request the reference to that Committee.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I am asking the Members on our side of the House to vote no on the motion to recommit.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

A division was called for, less than a majority of the Members having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative, and the motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to Section 1.

It was agreed to.

The second to eighth sections inclusive and title were separately read and agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to state that on that last roll call, the Chair tabulated the vote and miraculously he was absolutely right, and so the decision finally rested is the lap of the Chairman, and do not do that again.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1479, entitled:

An Act amending the act of July 18, 1917 (P. L. 1043), entitled "An act establishing a public school employees' retirement system and creating a retirement board for the administration thereof * * *" providing for the payment of expenses related to investments from interest earnings on the fund.

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to.

Ordered, to be transcribed for third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 2063, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Department of Property and Supplies to acquire by gift on behalf of the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission the historic property known as the Tuscarora Academy.

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to.

Ordered, to be transcribed for third reading.

BIRTHDAY OF MEMBER

The SPEAKER. The Chair understands this is the birthday of the gentleman from Venango, Mr. Gramlich, who has given the Parliamentarian or somebody a nice birthday cake. He is giving everybody in the House a birthday cake. Therefore, we suggest the gentleman from Delaware rise and salute the gentleman from Venango on his birthday.

The Members joined with Mr. Dengler in singing "Happy Birthday."

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Venango, Mr. Gramlich.

Mr. GRAMLICH. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. You do not mind my singing my part "Happy Birthday to me." That was last week, but you know, Mr. Speaker, I do appreciate it, as I have been waiting for this for four Sessions, and this is the first time.

I think I am going to digress or maybe I am going to say something different than has usually been said, and that is this—everyone is called upon when asked how old are you? Says about 39. Well I am going to tell you the truth, it is not 39 or 49 or 59 or 69. It is three score and ten. Thank you very much for calling upon me.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 2371, entitled:

An Act amending the "Public School Employees' Retirement Code of 1959" approved June 1, 1959 (Act No. 77), changing definition of final average salary for classroom teachers with thirty-five or more years of service.

An Act amending the "Public School Code of 1949" approved March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30), providing homebound instruction for children confined in detention homes.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON offered the following amendment:

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1372), page 3, line 12, by inserting after "confinement" "if their confinement exceeds or is expected to exceed ten days."

It was agreed to.

The section was agreed to as amended.

The title was read and agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to as amended.

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 2425, entitled:

An Act amending the "Public School Employees' Retirement Code of 1959" approved June 1, 1959 (Act No. 77), providing for the purchase of credit for service in summer schools prior to membership in the retirement system changing the income limitation for disability annuitants and requiring school employees who are members of the General Assembly to give notice of election in certain cases.

The first section was read and agreed to.

The second section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. POLEN offered the following amendment:

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 302), page 3, line 9, by adding after "board." "All such contributions shall be credited in equal amounts to the employees' annuity savings account and the contingent reserve account."

It was agreed to.

The section was agreed to as amended.

The third to seventh sections inclusive and title were separately read and agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to as amended.

Ordered, to be transcribed for third reading.

Agreeably to order,

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1802), page 3, line 19, by striking out "IN" and inserting: "in."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Ageeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1963, entitled:

An Act amending the act of December 22, 1951 (P. L. 1715) entitled "An act authorizing council of cities of the second class to fix the salaries of the mayor and the council members of such cities and to provide for the assessment and retention of fines for absence of councilmen from meetings "removing the maximum limitation on salaries of councilmen.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. DEVLIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. DEVLIN asked unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendment will be read by the Clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 2, page 2, lines 15 and 16, by striking out all of said lines.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. We rise to oppose these amendments. The amendments contemplate a new theory in financial responsibility insofar as the councilmen of the city of Pittsburgh are concerned.

The amendments contend that those councilmen who were elected prior to 1959 shall receive an increase in salary beginning January 1, 1960. When the five hold-over councilmen were elected in 1957 they entered into a solemn contract with the taxpayers of Pittsburgh that they would be satisfied with a salary of $10,000 or less. They are now asking the Members of the Legislature to give them an increase of $2,600, contrary to their contract with the taxpayers.

This is something that has never been done so far as Pittsburgh is concerned, and I would like to protect our taxpayers and I ask you to vote against this particular amendment.

Mr. DEVLIN. Mr. Speaker, the amendment does nothing other than take away the requirement that they had to be elected or sworn into office prior to January 1, 1960. In other words, when we discussed this bill on second or third reading, we brought out the fact that the council was being given the right, if it saw fit, to raise its own salaries.

At that time there was objection because there was no ceiling put on it. Then after consultation it was agreed to give council the right to raise its own salary up to the level of cabinet officers in the same city, $12,600. Now the decision is still theirs. I do not see that the amendment proposed has any effect on the bill itself other than to remove the requirement as to those taking office prior to January 1, 1960.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Devlin, consent to be interrogated?

Mr. DEVLIN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. To make the purpose of the amendment clear, is it not true that if this amendment were not passed, the five councilmen who were not elected last week would receive a salary of $10,000 during the remainder of their term?

Mr. DEVLIN. To make the amendment clear, Mr. Speaker, the nine members of Council could by majority vote pass for themselves a raise up to the cabinet level of $12,600. We are merely raising the limit on their salary that we have set before.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Allegheny answer my question? If this amendment is not passed, then the five councilmen who were not up for reelection last week will continue to receive $10,000?

Mr. DEVLIN. I am not certain about that.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Then what is the purpose of the amendment, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. DEVLIN. The purpose of the amendment is to have all nine members of council in the same category.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Not to be evasive, then if this amendment is not passed, the five councilmen who were not elected last week will still get $10,000 a year instead of $12,600 as provided under this contemplated act?

Mr. DEVLIN. I think that the five councilmen who were reelected last week would have the majority vote on a councilmanic election to decide whether or not the raise would be granted to the members of Council.

That is my interpretation of it.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

If the purpose of this amendment is as meaningless as indicated, then let us not have the amendment, because the purpose of the amendment clearly is to make it legal, so that the five members of council who were elected in 1957 will get a $2600 raise when they told the taxpayers they were satisfied with $10,000.

This argument about cabinet status and cabinet pay has no merit. We have many men in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania who do less work than a legislator and they get more pay. Therefore, the only question now is whether or not you should change the rules in the middle of the stream for these particular five councilmen, all of whom are friends of mine, but the taxpayers are closer.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. GOLDSTEIN and WILT and were as follows:

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection

House Bill No. 1976, Printer's No. 1836 was passed over at the request of the Speaker pro tempore.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 2044, entitled:

An Act amending "The Realty Transfer Tax Act" approved December 27, 1951 (P. L. 1742) redefining documents and transactions providing for determination of deficiencies redetermination reviews and appeals therefrom imposing duties upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth and conferring additional power and duties upon the Department of Revenue.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would just like to remind the Members, at least on this side of the House, and I hope some on the other side of the House, that this is the bill, House Bill 2044, for which I offered three amendments which were defeated two or three weeks ago. I ask the Members on this side to vote against this bill.

This bill is in effect a tax raising measure, which has not been considered by this House as such. It gives the Department of Revenue power it has never had before, I do not feel it is fair to the people of Pennsylvania, especially in view of our many speakers saying that we are trying to encourage industry to locate here in Pennsylvania. A bill such as this would have the opposite effect.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection

House Bill No. 2171, Printer's No. 1842

was passed over at the request of the SPEAKER pro tempore.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of Senate Bill No. 810, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 15, 1933 (P. L. 624) entitled as amended "Banking Code" further providing for the lending of money by banks and bank trust companies.

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to this legislation. I would point out to Members of the House that this piece of legislation was acted upon by the House on September 30, 1959, and at that time it was defeated by the resounding vote of 98 to 88. The purpose of this legislation and the function it performs is just as bad today as it was a few weeks ago. It would create a new type of credit in the Commonwealth and would permit banks to make loans on a revolving credit plan which would be inimical to the good responsibilities of credit financing. I would suggest that we vote it down resoundingly.

At the time we discussed this bill before, I read a letter from the Department of Banking of the State of Ohio in which they indicated that they were strongly opposed to this type of legislation because it would be harking back to unwise banking policies which we had long forgotten, the type of banking policies which led to the depression and bank losses of 1929.

Some people in the House, when we debated this bill a couple of weeks ago, indicated that there was no danger in this type of lending and that actually all it did was establish a line of credit for people similar to the lines of credit which are established for businesses. However, the very fact that it establishes a line of credit is a danger that is incumbent in it. What happens is an individual goes into a bank, makes an application to receive this type of credit, and sometime in the future, without the bank making any further check on the individual's ability to pay, the individual can then resort to the utilization of this type of credit financing.

The bill since we last had it was amended to reduce the amount of interest that would be payable upon this type of revolving credit. However, although the bill was amended to reduce the amount of interest that would be charged from 12 percent per annum to 9 percent per annum, as it presently reads the interest rates would still be injurious insofar as this Commonwealth is concerned. It would place banks in the same type of lending service and offer the same type of lending facilities from banks that small loan companies presently offer. But in addition to the fact that it would allow banks to lend in the same manner, it would allow the banks to make increased charges, such as charges for attorney fees, for recording the documents and for life insurance.

However, although I am in great disagreement with the need for this type of legislation, and I feel that the interest rate charges are too high, that is not the basic reason I am opposed to it. I am opposed to it because it is dangerous; I am opposed to it because it endangers the savings that people put in banks. I believe it allows banks an extension into unwise credit financing. I think we should do the same thing today that we did a couple of weeks ago, that is, defeat this bill resoundingly. I suggest that we all vote against it instead of just 88 of us.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, we are voting at the present time on Senate Bill 810, an important bill for the consideration of the House, which was defeated on prior roll call.

It is my policy to be against banking institutions when they attempt to in some way or other take over what I consider the poor and middle class of the state of Pennsylvania; also when they intend to engage in gambling activities and increase the amounts of interest to be charged against the poor and middle class.

Considering this bill piecemeal, it states specifically that it increases the rate of interest by 50 percent, from 6 to 9 per year. Secondly, the bill provides, which the law does not provide at the present time, payment of ten cents for each request for payment or credit, or for each check, in addition.

Also, the bill provides, in addition to the two things mentioned, that you have to pay for insurance as security for said loan. That, my friends, is not enough; it also provides for fees paid to any public officer for filing or releasing any liens. And if that is not enough, it provides for the actual expense, including attorney fees. It does not state in what amount. It does not limit the attorney fees, including the attorney fees just merely to secure this loan.

I submit that even the small loan companies are not permitted under our law to charge any attorney fees. Considering the fact that this bill provides that our banks, against the poor and middle class or anyone who comes in for a loan, are permitted to charge all these fees and expenses, I say let's defeat this bill.

Mr. GAILEY. Mr. Speaker, Members of the House, I do not want to prolong the debate on this bill, but I would like to make one point which has not already been made in regard to this bill and to re-emphasize one other.

First, I have been reliably informed that the reason, of course, for this bill is that the banks, because of the extra risk they run on this kind of loan, need extra money. Well, I would like to advise the Members of the House that I have been advised there has not been a national bank in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that last year failed to pay at least a 20 percent dividend on invested capital. That is a pretty good return. It seems to me they are making just about as much money as they ought to under our present economy.

The second point I would like to emphasize is this one with regards to reasonable attorneys' fees. I think if any bill we have had here this year could be called a lawyer's bill this is one. Even on judgment notes, lawyers' fees for collection are limited usually to 10 percent. There is no limitation on this at all. I do not think I need to tell the Members of the House, as a lawyer myself that between lawyer and client, or between the lawyer and the person from whom he is collecting the definition of "reasonable" can be open to question. I think this is bad legislation. The House defeated it once, and I ask all the Members of the House to join in voting this bill down.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Gelfand.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Gelfand, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELFAND. I chall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I might say by way of prefatory remarks, I was inclined to be for this bill. There certainly must be some merit in the bill in that it would facilitate banking and make possible the easier performance of credit transactions, the interchange of goods, so I would just like to ask Mr. Gelfand who seems to be prepared the best on it, it calls for, I believe, an agreement to be entered into between the bank and the customer. Is that correct?

Mr. GELFAND. That is superficially correct.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. In other words, a customer who is doing business with the bank would come into the bank either in the business of buying automobiles or buying appliances or in the construction business or something and wants a line of credit with the bank. Is that correct?

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, that is not correct. The person who makes the application for credit does not have to be either a customer or a depositor in the bank. The person can be an individual who is completely unknown to the bank and he needs to make no other transaction with the bank.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Well, since I am in the banking business myself in a country town, I want to assure you that whoever we give a line of credit to, we certainly know who they are—they are customers of the bank, they have established a rating with us where we have confidence in them.

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, am I being interrogated, or is Mr. Johnson delivering a speech in favor of the legislation?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Well, I will take your answer for it. Would you say that the average person getting this type of credit would be a person who would be a customer of the bank?

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, as regards to the inquiry, I can only speak about Philadelphia, and whatever check I have made pertaining to this legislation has led me to believe conclusively that people who make this type of loan are not necessarily customers of the bank with which they do this, from which they get the loan.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. All right. Now, supposing a person walked into a Philadelphia bank and wants to engage in this type of transaction. What would a responsible Philadelphia bank do before they entered an arrangement of this kind.

Mr. GELFAND. To the responsible Philadelphia bank, —I hate to use the word responsible,—I will say the Philadelphia banks are advertising in all the newspapers in the city with form applications in the newspaper advertisements offering this service to everybody who reads the newspaper. All you need do is fill the application, send it to the bank, and the bank will then send you another application, a formal application, which you need sign and send back to the bank. The formal application which the banks sends you asks your name and address, place of employment, and whether or not you have credit in any of the stores in the city of Philadelphia, and they make inquiries as to your income.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Is that it?

Mr. GELFAND. Yes.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Do I infer then that the Philadelphia banks are already engaging in this type of enterprise?

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, you infer properly. The Philadelphia banks are engaged in this type of operation. They do so, but under the proposition that they are not exactly sure as to whether or not they are acting lawfully, and they have made an inquiry of the Department of Banking in Harrisburg, and the Department has also advised them that they are not sure of the legal status of this operation. The purpose of this legislation is just to legalize something which they are not sure is legal and I think it is the type of thing that should be forbidden or prohibited rather than permitted.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, do you know if the state banks are doing this with the approval of the Pennsylvania Department of Banking?

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, the information I have leads me to believe that they are doing it with the knowledge of the Department of Banking, but not with the permission nor with any direction from the Department of Banking that it is lawful.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Do you have any records, Mr. Speaker, of any unusual losses occurring to the bank because of this type of operation?

Mr. GELFAND. I have no such records because they have only started this type of operation with the last two months and have issued no reports on it. However, I would say this, that in the State of Ohio the Department of Banking has expressly forbidden it because of the dangers they feel are incumbent in it.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Now you say that a person, once they have finally applied to the bank, does not the credit department of the bank's investigation show credit sources and ask for a financial statement as to what their assets are and really have to go through the same thing that an ordinary borrower would go through with the bank and all that?

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, I know that a borrower under this proposition is not required to sign a note, is not required to place any collateral. There is nothing put up in security for this type of loan and the only thing they request is information which they get directly from the person who is making the application. He makes no formal statement as to his assets or liabilities; just a verbal inquiry is made and an oral statement as to what his earnings are, are satisfactory.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I might comment on that. If it is true, it really is an amazing situation. Do you mean to say that they do not sign any agreement or they do not confess judgment or do anything like that?

Mr. GELFAND. I do mean to say that, sir. I mean to say that they sign an application, which is against their responsibility, but they make no note, and they offer no collateral.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. How about in the matter of default of payment. How would the bank under Pennsylvania law collect?

Mr. GELFAND. That is the danger incumbent in the whole situation.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. There being no confession of judgment nor any security devices under the Commercial Code, would the bank resort to an action of assumpsit or a suit in common pleas and try to get judgment, is that correct?

Mr. GELFAND. Some banks of necessity would have to do that. Other banks do have notes, I am advised.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Do you know if there are any suits pending in any of the courts in Pennsylvania where this type of lending has gone on, where all the bank had was a letter and an informal agreement that they would let them have the money?

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, that is why I am opposing the bill, because I do not like it. I think it is too loose.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, of course I am amazed at what the gentleman has said about the practice in Philadelphia. You would have to show me that that is the loose way in which Philadelphia's banks are running their business. I do not want to say the member is not informed on what is going on, but it seems to me that in this complex commercial age it certainly would be a great facility to the business public, and I am thinking now of automobile dealers, who have to drive hundreds of miles to a branch plant to buy their cars at wholesale, to be able to give checks from a line of credit established at a bank pursuant to an agreement entered into, a formal agreement properly signed with a confession of judgment clause in it and all the things that go to protect banking. It seems to me that a system like this would be a good thing for the banking community and for business.

Of course, if what you say is true, that the bankers of Philadelphia are closing their eyes and are just loaning money willy-nilly, I may write them a letter myself. I have just been through a campaign. It might be interesting to see whether they would send me a blank check. You are, in effect, saying that is what is going on in Philadelphia. I challenge that. I would be very interested in it. I think the bill has merit and I believe that the banks, if they properly handle it with proper safeguards, credit ratings and so forth, would greatly facilitate the transaction of commercial affairs in the state. Maybe you are right but it does not sound plausible to me, Mr. Gelfand. I am not saying you exaggerated merely but I am amazed at your answer.

Mr. GELFAND. I know some things sound amazing when they are said, but unfortunately that is the way things are at times. However, I would like to point out to the Members of the House that one of the real dangers, beside the others which we have already discussed here, is the fact that a person can get this type of credit today on the basis of an application he makes today. It is not necessary for him to make any borrowing against this type of credit. But six months later when his financial circumstances have changed completely, and when he may be completely unable to make any repayments at that time, by virtue of the application he makes today he may borrow money and it would be a completely unsecured loan with no collateral behind it, and because of that it is dangerous.

I would just, as repetition, repeat certain paragraphs from a letter I read a couple weeks ago. I think it is important that we have this in mind when we vote on this legislation. This came from the State of Ohio, Department of Banking, and it said, when inquiries were made about this particular type of credit financing,

For the past ninety days this office has had under consideration plans purposed to be new ideas in credit extension and additional banking services."

Mr. Speaker, I would appreciate it if the Minority Leader would listen to this inasmuch as he did not hear it before and I think it might be important for him to have it in mind.

"The conclusion of this office is that they are just warmed-over ideas camouflaged to circumvent the laws and decisions of the courts that were enacted and rendered as a result of the unsafe and unsound practices of the Roaring Twenties. These plans and ideas have been given new names, but a "rose is just as sweet by any other name." For example, the revolving credit plan is basically nothing more than an extension of credit by overdrafts. Overdrafts have been declared illegal by the courts and practices of permitting overdrafts have been consistently criticized by both state and notional supervisory authorities.

"Revolving credit is a banker's jargon for a perpetual loan. The practice of permitting perpetual loans by demand notes and notes without a definite repayment program and which will not clear within a reasonable period of time is not considered to be in keeping with sound credit policies. Revolving credit plans are deemed to be in this same category.

"These innovations in banking are not considered to be in the best interest of the public for various reasons, the principal one being the cost of the plan to the consumer is tainted with ursury.

In considering these various plans, bankers have argued that they need to take their services to the people; also the large eastern banks have placed such plans in operation and they just have to be good. That rings a familiar bell! It will be remembered that a similar song was sung in the Roaring Twenties.

This office agrees that banks should improve their services but it should not be done by adopting unsafe and unsound loaning policies and practices."

I again repeat we should defeat this bill resoundingly.

Mr. SCHWARTZ. Mr. Speaker, I voted in favor of this bill on September 30th, but I intend to vote aye in favor of the bill again today. I stated my reasons at that time and would like to state my reasons again.

To me it is a question of the small borrower. Where would he be better off? Going to the bank under this particular bill or going to a small loan company? It seems to me that you must come to one answer and one answer only. Although there may be some objectionable features in this bill, he would still save money by going to the bank under this particular bill. The interest rate would be much less than if he went to a small loan company.

Therefore, I am going to vote in favor of the bill and I request that all Members vote in favor of the bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass nfiably?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. MAHAN from the Committee on Counties, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 827, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 21, 1931 (P. L. 149) entitled as amended "The Liquid Fuels Tax Act" providing for payment of certain county treasurers' fees out of the county Liquid Fuels Tax Fund in counties of the seventh and eighth classes.

BILL ON FIRST READING

Pursuant to a resolution adopted Monday, June 15, 1959 the following bill was read the first time:

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 827 entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 21, 1931 (P. L. 149) entitled as amended "The Liquid Fuels Tax Act" providing for payment of certain county treasurers' fees out of the county Liquid Fuels Tax Fund in counties of the seventh and eighth classes.

And said bill having been read at length the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to amend bills which have been agreed upon so that they would be in print for tomorrow.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE POSTPONED

Mr. McCANN asked and obtained unanimous consent to call up out of order Senate Bill No. 184 on page 8 of today's calendar, bills on final passage postponed.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. McCANN.

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of Senate Bill No. 184, entitled:

An Act amending the title and act of June 25, 1937 (P. L. 2123) entitled "An act to define and restrict the obligation of persons engaged on connected with or employed by certain newspapers or press associations in testifying as to the source of information procured or obtained by such persons" extending the provisions of the act to include certain persons connected with radio and television stations.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. McCANN asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1), page 2, line 11, by inserting brackets before "Be" and after "no" and inserting immediately thereafter

(a) No

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1), page 3, by inserting between lines 2 and 3

(b) The provisions of subsection (a) hereof in so far as they relate to radio or television stations shall not apply unless the radio or television station maintains and keeps open for inspection for a period of at least two years an exact recording, transcription, kinescopic film or certified written transcript of the actual broadcast or telecast.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Mr. McCANN asked and obtained unanimous consent to call up out of order House Bill No. 2428 on page 11 of today's calendar, bills on third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 2428, entitled:

An Act amending the "State Highway Law" approved June 1, 1945 (P. L. 1242) authorizing adoption of a system for qualification of competent and responsible bidders on highway projects.

On the question,

SENATE

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1959.

The Senate met at 11:30 o'clock, a. m., Eastern Standard Time.

PRESIDING OFFICER (Robert D. Fleming) in the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair wishes to state that he is presiding at the request of the President pro tempore of the Senate, M. Harvey Taylor.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, FATHER JOHN F. CULLINAN, Pastor of St. Michael's Catholic Church, Hollidaysburg, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, our Father in Heaven, as we take up our daily deliberations, grant us never to forget Thy presence in our midst and in our very hearts, or Thy love.

When the children of Israel wandered in the wilderness, Thou didst never forget them. In the midst of harsh trials, Thy children wandered not, nor were they ever abandoned. When they thought of Thee, they prospered and were strong. So, Heavenly Father, let us, in our journey, not forget that Thou hast in store for us a glorious end. Let us do all things with this end in mind. Let us never close to Thee the dwelling place that Thou dost desire in our minds and in our hearts, and shall we always be united to Thee and, through Thee, united with one another.

In Thy Name we pray, Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDING OFFICER. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. PECHAN and Mr. PROPERT, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

ANNOUNCEMENT CONCERNING LIVESTOCK SHOW

Mr. HARNEY. Mr. President, each year when our budget is being considered, the various Senators ask me, "What is the $50,000 in the budget, appropriated to the Department of Agriculture, for the Livestock Show?"

I just want to call to the attention of the Senators that this show is going on at the present time, and that a steer that was raised by Mr. Eisenhower was awarded first place in the carcass class yesterday, with Penn State University placing second.

I feel that for the education of the Senators, they should visit this show to see what this $50,000 is being spent for.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. I am sure that the Members of the Senate would profit by following Senator Harney's advice.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. STEVENSON, from the Committee on Local Government, reported as committed, House Bill No. 900, entitled:

An Act amending the "County Institution District Law," approved June 24, 1937 (P. L. 2017), including neglected children within the powers and duties of local authorities.

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to article two, section four of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by fixing a time limit upon the duration of regular sessions and limiting the power of the Governor to convene special sessions.

Which was committed to the Committee on Rules.

Messrs. KESSLER, STEVENSON and MADIGAN read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 1242, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 1, 1959 (Act No. 78), entitled "State Employees Retirement Code of 1959," redefining State employee with respect to officers and employees of certain hospitals leased by the Commonwealth.

Which was committed to the Committee on Rules.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

"AMERICAN HISTORY MONTH"

Messrs. KESSLER, PROPERT and STIEFEL offered the following resolution (Serial No. 121), which was read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, November 10, 1959.

Whereas, The history of the United States is the history of an ideal of liberty and justice and freedom under representative government, and

Whereas, In our history is written the story of the development of this ideal, through wars and conflicts of opinion, and

Whereas (In February we observe the birthdays of two great Americans, George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, who symbolize in their divergent achievements America's immortal heritage, and are representative of the other great men who toiled and fought to develop our resources and to win and maintain our freedom; now, therefore be it

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), That the Governor of this Commonwealth is hereby requested to proclaim the month of February in 1960, and annually thereafter, as "American History Month," and that the citizens of this Commonwealth are hereby urged to formulate and sponsor appropriate programs in the month of February in commemoration of the achievements of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Governor.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

SENATE RESOLUTION

DIRECTING THE JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSION TO STUDY THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A STATE TEACHERS' COLLEGE IN THE BEDFORD COUNTY AREA

Mr. WHALLEY offered the following resolution (Serial No. 79), which was read and referred to the Committee on Rules:

In the Senate, November 10, 1959.

Recent surveys and compiled statistics have revealed that unless we now plan and prepare adequate facilities for the training of qualified teachers and instructors, a critical shortage of such trained personnel in the near future will prevent many of our children from attaining that high degree of education so necessary in our present complex and technical society.

While much is being said and in some cases efforts made to expand the present State Teachers' Colleges throughout our Commonwealth in order to meet this demand for additional teachers, little or nothing has been done towards planning or building entirely new institutions in areas of our State where present facilities are not readily available, particularly in those counties along the southern border of our State from the center westward; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to investigate and study whether a new State Teachers' College in the Bedford County area would be feasible and practical; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission report to the next regular session of the General Assembly its findings and recommendations.

MEMBERS OF THE 4-H LIGHT HORSE AND PONY CLUB OF ARMSTRONG COUNTY PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. PEACHAN. Mr. President, I have a very pleasant duty to perform this afternoon. Seated in the balcony, we have a group of about thirty-five youngsters from the 4-H Light Horse and Pony Club of Armstrong County.

I do not know what time they got up this morning, but it certainly must have been at an early hour. They were in my office about eleven o'clock this morning. They are touring the Capitol and have visited with the Governor, the House and the Senate.

I would request that the Chair greet them. They are here under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Kovacovsky. Their chaperones are Mrs. Lucinda Schall, Mrs. Baranec, Mr. and Mrs. Blair Good and Mrs. Viola Toy.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. On behalf of the Senate of Pennsylvania, the Chair is happy to welcome to the Senate the guests of Senator Pechan, the thirty-five members of the 4-H Club from Armstrong County and their sponsors who are with them. We hope that your visit to the Senate of Pennsylvania and to the Capitol of Pennsylvania will be both interesting and informative to you.

Will the Members of the Senate please recognize them?

CONGRATULATIONS EXTENDED TO SENATOR JOSEPH M. BARR UPON BEING ELECTED MAYOR OF THE CITY OF PITTSBURGH

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, on behalf of my colleagues—and I am sure I speak for the gentlemen on the other side—I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate one of our own Members who will now be the mayor of the second largest city of our Commonwealth, Senator Joseph M. Barr.

I think this is a real tribute to him. I know that all of us will miss him here in the Senate. On behalf of all of the Members of the Senate, I wish him godspeed, and I am sure he will do a good job in Pittsburgh. We only hope that he does not come down here and buttonhole us for too many bills after he leaves us.

Good luck, Joe.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I think the Minority Leader has very well expressed the feeling of all of the Members of the Senate. They certainly do wish ex-Senator Barr well, and hope that Mayor Barr's career will continue to flourish. We join in the congratulatory remarks.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair cannot help but remark, being from the same county as Senator Barr, that if we had to lose the Mayoralty to the Democratic Party, I can think of no one to whom we would have rather lost it than to our colleague, Senator Barr. Is he in the Chamber? We cannot recognize him then.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, to show you how active this gentleman is, he is always on the road. I am afraid he is not even here to hear what has been said. I was going to say, you know, that after a man is gone an epitaph is usually given. However, people usually would rather have the taffy rather than the "epitaph" later on. Senator Barr is not even here to hear these good words about him.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, recently I received by mail a statement addressed to the Members of the General Assembly and reprinted from an issue of The Pennsylvania Federationist, which contained some material which seemed to me very striking, and just as appropriate, Mr. President, in my opinion, as it was when this statement was originally published in October of 1959, because it bears on the problem still, to my mind, not happily resolved regarding the amount of wealth of this Commonwealth which should be devoted to the problems of education and welfare.

The figures published in this statement are very striking, and they are authoritative. They are taken from the "Compendium of State Government Expenditures for 1958," which was published by the Bureau of Census of the United States Department of Commerce.

I would like to call the attention of the Members of the Senate to a couple of these statements, which certainly deserve our attention.

"While the average increase for all states for public and higher education was almost 12%,"—in 1958—"we in Pennsylvania had the dubious distinction of reducing our expenditure for education (including higher) for 1958 by almost 6½% under 1957.

"In the field of public welfare, all states in 1958 increased their expenditures by 6½%. Though in Pennsylvania such expenditures were increased 7½%, on the basis of per capita cost we were still FORTY-THIRD IN THE RANKING OF ALL STATES" in the Union.

Mr. President, the statement goes on and points out that:

"If we in Pennsylvania were to have equaled the national per capita cost for public welfare—the level of mediocrity—it would have been necessary for this Commonwealth to have spent MORE THAN SIXTY-ONE MILLION DOLLARS above its expenditures for 1958 alone. On a biennial basis this would have meant an additional ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-TWO MILLION DOLLARS.

"In the field of education (public and higher combined) Pennsylvania, to achieve mediocrity, would have been required to spend in 1958 alone over SEVENTY-SIX MILLION DOLLARS more than it did, or over ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-TWO MILLION DOLLARS ON A BIENNIAL BASIS."

Mr. President, I think all of this article is very pertinent to the problems which still lie before us, the unfinished work, and which, I am afraid, will still lie before us as we come together in the first, history-making session which will open in January, because I believe that this problem of determining the proper amount of the wealth of Pennsylvania that should be devoted to education and welfare will still be unsatisfactorily resolved.

Therefore, Mr. President, in order to save time and not to read the entire statement, I would be very well satisfied if, by unanimous consent, this statement could be published as a part of my remarks.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. I am sure there is no objection, and the statement will be spread upon the Legislative Journal.

To the Members of the GENERAL ASSEMBLY

An INVITATION to Face the Fiscal Facts!

The battle of the budget is in its final moments and it appears that the advocates of economy will have scored a victory. From every indication, the House and Senate conferees are about to agree finally on an appropriation bill—which may be fifty or more millions lower than was requested by the Administration. Admittedly, this is a lot of money—even if you say it quickly. Those responsible will undoubtedly regard such an economy as a great accomplishment.

That it may be. But the question is: CAN WE AFFORD IT?

The members of both parties in the General Assembly are undoubtedly sincere in the belief that they are dedicated to the best interest of the Commonwealth and its citizens. However, in our humble opinion, no one can really make the claim that this budget, with or without the expected reductions, adequately meets the needs of our people.

The Bureau of Census of the United States Department of Commerce publishes fiscal facts gathered from all of the States. The "Compendium of State Government Expenditures for 1958," published recently, offers some very compelling information—information which is both shocking and sobering.

These are the unhappy facts.

In 1958 the Commonwealth spent almost 5% more than it did in the preceding year. Yet, throughout the country the average increase for all States was more than twice as much (11.6%).

(The cost of all expenditures distributed over the total state population is the only real index to cost of government and its services. Comparing such per capita costs with the rest of the nation, Pennsylvania ranked twenty-eighth).

While the average increase for all states for public and higher education was almost 12%, we in Pennsylvania had the dubious distinction of reducing our expenditure for education (including higher) for 1958 by almost 6½% under 1957.

In the field of public welfare, all states in 1958 increased their expenditures by 6½%. Though in Pennsylvania such expenditures were increased by 7½%, on the basis of per capita cost, we were still FORTY-THIRD IN THE RANKING OF ALL STATES.

For health and hospitals, the national increase in 1958 was almost 13%. In Pennsylvania the increase was but half that amount, slightly less than 6½%.

In the field of public control (government overhead, the legislature, judiciary, etc.,) the national increase in 1958 was 7½% while in Pennsylvania it was scarcely over 5%. (On a per capita basis, thirty-one other states were spending more money for government overhead than was Pennsylvania.)

All this takes on added meaning when we examine per capita costs for all government services nationally. It is admitted by competent observers that state government expenditures generally have failed to keep pace with needs. The U. S. per capita cost for a given service, therefore, is far from being the desired ultimate standard, but is rather an expression of mediocrity. In such important areas as health, welfare and education, Pennsylvania was substantially below that level.

If we in Pennsylvania, were to have equaled the national per capita cost for public welfare—the level of mediocrity—it would have been necessary for this Commonwealth to have spent MORE THAN SIXTY-ONE MILLION DOLLARS about its expenditures for 1958 alone. On a biennial basis this would have meant an additional ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-TWO MILLION DOLLARS.

In the field of education (public and higher combined) Pennsylvania, to achieve mediocrity, would have been required to spend in 1958 alone over SEVENTY-SIX MILLION DOLLARS more than it did, or over ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-TWO MILLION DOLLARS ON A BIENNIAL BASIS.

In the field of health and hospitals in 1958 alone to equal the national per capita cost, Pennsylvania would have been required to spend almost ELEVEN AND ONE-HALF MILLION DOLLARS more than it did or ALMOST TWENTY-THREE MILLION DOLLARS MORE ON A BIENNIAL BASIS.

Viewing total expenditures on a per capital basis, Pennsylvania in 1958 alone, would have had to spend almost THREE HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS MORE to equal such a national per capita cost. On a biennial basis this would mean almost SIX HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS MORE.

And this fantastic sum would only have permitted us to reach the national average—the level of mediocrity.

To be sure, our state tax revenue is substantially below the national average. What is more, combined state and local tax revenues in Pennsylvania are below the national level. (U. S. Bureau of the Census.)

Pennsylvania apparently refuses to recognize the plain facts of life.

Perhaps this is the key to the reason why our Commonwealth is fast being outdistanced by other leading states in terms of population growth, industrial expansion and increased per capita personal income.

This explains, in part at least, why our General Assembly is deadlocked for almost ten months over a budget which if approved even in its entirety would still, on a per capita basis, not equal the increased expenditures already undertaken by the many other states with whom we are compelled to compete, not only in attracting new industry, but retaining that which we already have.

It should surprise no one that the responsible industries seeking new plant sites lay far greater stress upon the availability of good secondary and post-secondary educational facilities and the quality, variety and availability of all public services, than they do upon the tax structure of a state.

To be sure, saving the taxpayers fifty or more millions during this biennium represents quite a feat.

BUT CAN THE COMMONWEALTH AND ITS PEOPLE AFFORD SUCH A LUXURY?

Perhaps the members of the General Assembly in next session will want to take a good look at this picture and to ponder anew whether Pennsylvania shall continue to sink below the national average of mediocrity or whether Pennsylvania shall reverse its direction, fearlessly view this generation's needs and energetically set out to redeem its proud heritage.

If they decide upon the latter course, working men and women throughout our state may be relied upon to join with all thoughtful and conscientious citizens in a most vigorous support of such an objective.

REX ALLEN, HIS MEN OF THE WEST, AND THE QUEEN OF THE LIVESTOCK RODEO PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, it is very unusual to have our Senate invaded by the stars of the western plains, and rodeo and motion picture stars. However, we are very happy at this time to introduce to the Senate of Pennsylvania, Rex Allen, known as TV's Frontier Doctor and a star of thirty western pictures.

Will Rex Allen please stand up?

With him are his Men of the West, Jimmie Wiener, Bobby Dyson and Kennie Newton. Also, Mr. President, from Susquehanna County, in Pennsylvania, we have the Queen of the Livestock Rodeo, Miss Hertolf.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. On behalf of the Senate of Pennsylvania, the Chair is most happy to welcome to the Senate Chamber Rex Allen, TV's Frontier Doctor; Miss Hertolf, the Susquehanna County Rodeo Queen; and the group of musicians.

The Chair would now like to invite Rex Allen, Miss Hertolf and the musicians up to the rostrum. Possibly you would entertain us a little bit.

(The group then approached the rostrum.)

Mr. REX ALLEN. It is indeed an honor and a wonderful pleasure to have the opportunity of visiting with such a fine group of men. The boys and I just made mention of the fact, out in the outer lobby, that we have played in lots of places, but this is the first time we have ever been invited to visit a Legislature. It is certainly something that we will never forget.

I do not know whether to sing hymns or what. I feel as though I have invaded something which I should not have. However, with your permission, we will try to sing a little song or two. I do not know whether they will be appropriate or not, but you are stuck with them.

(Rendition by Mr. Rex Allen and his Men of the West.)

Mr. REX ALLEN. There are many people in Pennsylvania who probably wonder why a cowboy is always decked out in a mess like this. I have a little reason for wearing this outfit. I was born in southern Arizona and wore levi's and old blue shirts most of my life. However, they told me, when I got to Hollywood, if I wanted to be a real cowboy, this is the way I had to look.

I am not complaining. This is a real good suit. This is a seersucker suit; Sears made it and a sucker bought it. I do not know what a cow would do if she ever saw me coming at her with this mess on, but I bet it would curdle her milk for a week or two. We used to have one old cow that did not give any milk and we sold him. We do not have him anymore.

I do not want you to feel that I am bragging or anything, but I would like to talk to you a little bit about this suit. It costs a lot of money to go around looking like a darn fool. These boots cost me $275. The spurs cost $300 because they have solid gold buckles; and you have to have those. The pants cost $75. The guns and gun belt cost about $2,500. The shirt cost $350. The hat cost—I wonder how much I should lie about it—$75. What is the matter with you? Why are you laughing?

MEMBER OF THE GROUP. I know that you paid a lot of money for all that, but I happen to know that you wear the raggedest underwear of anyone I know.

Mr. REX ALLEN. I thought perhaps some of you might be wondering about these guns that cowboys carry in their pictures. These are real guns. Many people think that we do not use real guns, but we do. These are actually old Colt 45s'. They call them that because they shoot forty-five times without reloading. We have blanks that we shoot in them because of some silly law that the Legislature put through about killing people in California. They will not let us do that. I never did keep these loaded. This is probably the wrong place to do it because you can imagine if I had them loaded and they would accidentally go off, and one of them was to be pointed up there and went off (two gunshots were then fired by Mr. Allen), it would sound kind of like that. For that reason, we never keep them loaded in places.

The point I like about it is when you pull down on an old boy going over a hill—is everybody ready? If you pull down on him (gunshot was then fired by Mr. Allen), and you miss him, you can smoke him to death with this gun.

It seems as though everybody is always singing some song about some old squaw who ran off and they are going to sit around and eat worms and die if she does not come back. I would like to sing the first song that I ever learned in my life, I believe. It is one which my dad taught me when I was a little fellow.

(Rendition by Mr. Rex Allen.)

Mr. REX ALLEN. I hope we will see all of you again this evening out at the rodeo. I am certain you will enjoy it. It is one of the finest in the whole world we think. If you do not think so, then you can come over to the hotel and shoot up my suite.

Thank you very much.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Thank you Rex Allen, Miss Hertolf and you are very fine musicians. We enjoyed the music very much. I am sure that most of us will be out to the rodeo to see you this evening.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I just want to call the attention of our guests to the fact that our Reporters have taken down everything that they said and everything that they sang. I wonder if they know that. Rex, did you know that? They have taken down everything you said and every note you sang.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. At this time, the Chair would ask the President pro tempore to approach the rostrum.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore (M. Harvey Taylor) in the Chair.

BILLS SIGNED

The President pro tempore (M. Harvey Taylor) in the presence of the Senate signed the following bills:

Senate Bill No. 145, Printer's No. 154;

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Robert D. Fleming) in the Chair.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE BILL No. 1207

Mr. RIPP. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. RIPP. Mr. President, I submit the report of the Committee of Conference on House Bill No. 1207, entitled:

An Act amending the "Public School Code of 1949," approved March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30), providing for payments on account of pupil transportation to certain additional school districts.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The report will lie over for printing under the rules.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, before making a motion to adjourn, I would request that all of the Republican Senators meet in the Conference Room for a short Caucus immediately following adjournment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Immediately following adjournment, there will be a short caucus meeting of the Republicans in the Conference Room at the rear of the Senate.

I now see that Senator Barr has returned to the floor.

In your absence, Senator Barr, there were some very laudatory remarks made about you by Senator Weiner and Senator Berger on being elected Mayor of the city of Pittsburgh. The Chair tried to recognize you at that time, but you were not present. Would you care to say something now?

REMARKS BY SENATOR JOSEPH M. BARR

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I do not know what they said, but I hope it was nothing other than words of praise.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. They were all words of praise.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, seriously, I am going to be a very lonesome person I think for quite a time, particularly when the gavel falls to start the Session next January. I was always in favor of Annual Sessions, but when I found out I was not going to be here, I do not think I was as much in favor of them anymore.

However, I just want to invite everyone, who wants to come, out to Pittsburgh on December 2, 1959. We are going to have the raising of the hand and get back on the payroll.

As you know, this is for an unexpired term, so I cannot wait until January. After the return board finishes, I must take my job then.

I am going away for a few days—I will not tell you how many—starting tomorrow night, but I presume I will be back here before this Session ends.

Thank you all so much for being so kind to me through these nineteen short years.

CONGRATULATIONS EXTENDED TO SENATOR G. ROBERT WATKINS UPON BEING ELECTED TO THE OFFICE OF COUNTY COMMISSIONER

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. President, as long as we are extending our congratulations to successful candidates on the election of last Tuesday, we on this side of the aisle have a man who has won a very important office in one of the most outstanding counties of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, our own Senator Bob Watkins, who was elected County Commissioner in Delaware County. Most certainly, I think that we of the Senate ought to pay our congratulations to this outstanding individual for his recent success.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair now recognizes the new commissioner from Delaware County, Commissioner Watkins.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I want to thank Senator Scott very much for his kind words. I was lucky down in Delaware County. After facing the public in running for five different public offices, extending from Sheriff, election to the Senate three times and now for County Commissioner, I thought maybe they would have found me out.

However, believe me, I am grateful to the people in my county. I think I will do the same as many other Senators in the past. I intend to serve, the Lord willing, my term in 1960, which will be the end. I will not be a candidate for re-election. However, I want to say that I will miss this wonderful group very much when that time comes.

Thank you so much.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, you know, as the years go by, we see changing times and changing faces here on the floor of this Senate. I, for one, wish to congratulate Senator Watkins on his marvelous victory. I know he will do a marvelous job as County Commissioner for Delaware County. I will say to you that we on this side of the Senate admire and respect Bob Watkins for what he is, and we feel he is a great fellow.

Bob, we hate to see you go. However, if that is what you want, we wish you the best of everything, and I know that you will do a darned good job. When Bob Watkins leaves, and Joe Barr and a few others, it will not be long until there will not be very many of the old guard left. We hope that a few of them will stay on over on the Republican side for awhile, anyway.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. MAHADY, on behalf of Messrs. McCREESH and MULLIN, read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 1243, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30), entitled "Public School Code of 1949," providing for the election of school directors in school districts of the first class.

Which was committed to the Committee on Rules.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Wednesday, November 11, 1959, at 10:00 o'clock, a.m., Eastern Standard Time.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 4:30 o'clock, p.m., Eastern Standard Time, until Wednesday, November 11, 1959, at 10:00 o'clock a.m., Eastern Standard Time.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1959

The House met at 12:00 o'clock noon EST.

Mr. LOPRESTI in the Chair.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Speaker has requested the present occupant of the Chair to call the House to order and preside until the middle of the afternoon when the Speaker will return to the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend David R. Hoover, offered the following prayer:

Eternal Father, in humbleness of heart and contrite spirit, we turn to Thee. We are aware of Thy majesty, eternal goodness and righteousness, as well as Thy forgiving Spirit as exemplified by Christ upon the cross. We look to Thee this day as we are conscious of our need of Thy forgiveness of our many shortcomings. Magnify within us the splendor of Thy great truths and cleanse our hearts and minds of the sin and evil which so easily take possession of us. As Thou dost fill us with the greatness of Thy love and the righteousness of Thy ways, inspire us with the guidance of Thy Spirit that we may humbly walk therein; through Jesus Christ, Thy Son, our Lord. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journal for Monday, November 9, 1959 will be postponed until printed.

The Chair hears none.

With the information that the Senate has passed the same without amendment.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE

By unanimous consent leave of absence was granted as follows:

Mrs. Varallo for Mrs. ANDERSON for today because of illness.

Mr. OGILVIE. Mr. Speaker, I request leave of absence for myself from 10:00 a. m. to 1:00 p. m. tomorrow, November 11, in order that I may take part in the observance of Veterans' Day for those who have answered this last call of the Great Commander.

To those veterans in this House I extend an invitation to join with us in Harrisburg and take part in our observance from 11:00 a. m. to 1:00 p. m. The reviewing stand will be at the Capitol steps on Third Street, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. WILLAREDT from the Committee on Insurance, reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 573, entitled:

An Act prohibiting persons engaged in financing the purchase of real or personal property or of lending money on the security of real or personal property or their agents or employees from interfering with the right of any person to select an insurer of his choice providing for the giving of notice of such right of free selection prohibiting the making of a charge against any person for substituting an insurance policy of one insurance company for that of another providing penalties providing for civil and criminal remedies including damages and penalties and fine and/or imprisonment and for the loss of license of an insurance agent or broker and making the penalties and remedies concurrent and repealing inconsistent acts.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 227, entitled:

An Act amending the "Mechanics Lien Law" approved June 4, 1901 (P. L. 431) requiring the owner or contractor in certain cases to post bond for payment of labor and material furnished.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HEAVEY. Mr. Speaker, is this the bill where you have to put up a bond for a lien?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. We are on House Bill No. 227.

Mr. HEAVEY. Yes, I am so informed.

Mr. Speaker, I am thinking of the little contractors doing little jobs or little buildings. If they have trouble getting their money, they would have to put up a bond according to this bill. Many of them do not have the money and are also unable to get a bond. I do not see the purpose of the bill at all, because they file a lien and that is considered sufficient, according to law.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman desire to interrogate anyone, or is he finished with his debate?

Mr. HEAVEY. That is all I can say, Mr. Speaker; it is just a plain statement.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

BILLS PASSED OVER

There being no objection

House Bill No. 446, Printer's No. 1814 and

House Bill No. 591, Printer's No. 1844

were passed over temporarily at the request of the SPEAKER pro tempore.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 818, entitled:

An Act amending the act of July 25, 1913 (P. L. 1024) entitled "Women's Labor Law" prohibiting the working of women for more than six consecutive days without at least one day of rest.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mrs. KOOKER. Mr. Speaker, since this bill has been amended and no longer contains the intent of the bill as it was when I became a sponsor of this bill, I wish to withdraw my sponsorship from this bill. I cannot support it in its present form.

Mr. GAILEY, Mr. Speaker, I certainly have no quarrel with the lady from Bucks with regard to this bill. She is certainly at liberty to sponsor the bill or withdraw her sponsorship.

I would like to point out to the House, however, what this bill does as it has now been amended. This is a bill which has its direct impact on the working hours of women. You can obviously see that by the sponsorship on the bill.

Originally this bill was objected to by the telephone operators themselves, because many of them like to be able to work two five-day weeks back to back—in other words, ten days in a row—so that they have four days off at the end of the ten-day period. This bill as it was originally drawn would not have permitted this.

Then an amendment was placed in this bill exempting public utilities entirely from the operation of the bill, and it seemed to those of us who sponsored this amendment that this, too, was improper.

Finally an amendment was worked out which says that with the approval of the Secretary of Labor and Industry, female employees may work ten consecutive or non-consecutive days within a two-weeks period. In other words, employees such as telephone operators who desire to work two five-day weeks back to back, so that they can have four days off, will be permitted to do so under the terms of this bill. At the same time, female employees in other industries—and I am thinking particularly of the restaurant industry where there have been some very bad abuses as to the working hours of women—will be protected by this act so that their employers will not be able to take advantage of them.

As I say, the lady from Bucks is certainly entitled to do whatever she wants to do with regard to this bill. I think, however, that it is sound legislation and that it will protect our working women. I ask Members on both sides of this House to vote for this bill.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mrs. B. Z. MILLER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Labor Relations for the purpose of further study.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the motion?

A division was called for, eighty-six Members having voted in the affirmative and seventy-one in the negative, the question was determined in the affirmative and the motion was agreed to.

RESOLUTION CONGRATULATIONS

Messrs. WESCOTT and WYND asked and obtained unanimous consent to offer a resolution and for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

Susan Bertholf, a beautiful 20 year old horsewoman, was crowned 1959 Livestock Rodeo Queen at the famed Pennsylvania National Horse Show.

Miss Bertholf, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bertholf of South Montrose, Susquehanna County, Pennsylvania, prevailed over 17 other candidates from Pennsylvania during a day-long competition which included judging for poise, personality and horsemanship. Her reign will cover the third annual Pennsylvania Livestock Exposition and World Championship Rodeo in Harrisburg November 9-14.

The Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative Association sponsored Miss Bertholf who has been riding for 14 years, during which time she has won more than 200 trophies and ribbons.

Miss Bertholf loyally chose to ride "Little Jim," one of her own Susquehanna County horses with which she has seen many triumphs, for her introduction and Grand-entry at each performance at the Rodeo; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives highly commend the perseverance and good sportsmanship of Miss Susan Bertholf as well as congratulate her for being chosen as the 1959 Livestock Rodeo Queen; and be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to Miss Susan Bertholf, South Montrose, Pennsylvania.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. POLASKI from the Committee on Cities Third Class, reported as amended, House Bill No. 1162, entitled:

An Act amending the "City Classification Law" approved June 25, 1895 (P. L. 275), changing the mode for the advance in classification of cities upon their increase in population.

STATEMENT BY MAJORITY LEADER

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, before we recess I should like to inform the Members of this House who are checking with the Senate regarding the operation of this House, this House will be in session tomorrow.

A Veterans' Day program is also scheduled in the House promptly at 11:00 o'clock. The principal speaker on our program is General Biddle, who will speak here at the observance of Veterans' Day.

The House will convene tomorrow morning at 10:00 o'clock. We would say to all the Members who are coming here and telling us the Senate is going to recess for a period of ten days, that there is nothing we can do about whether they are going to recess or not, but this House will operate as scheduled. We are going to clean up this calendar; the bills are going to fall or they are going to pass.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the Majority Leader.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the Majority Leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. In that we are convening tomorrow at 10:00 o'clock, there is a strong inference then that we will not be here on Thursday, is that right?

Mr. McCANN. There is no inference or agreement yet. We are going into a conference during the break. The Conference Committee asks two questions to be answered, and during this break we are going to see if we can deliver the answers to two questions so that we may know whether the Conference Committee report on the General Appropriations Bill and 63 other bills will be agreed to.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Well, you have left it dangling.

Mr. McCANN. I certainly have because if we agree to the answers that they want on two particular questions, I feel the Conference Committee then should go back, complete the report, sign it and prepare it to move right through. We can prepare ours and have it here in the House for operation and completion.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Then I take it the gentleman will have another announcement before the day is over, is that correct?

Mr. McCANN. No later than tomorrow, Mr. Speaker, because we will be meeting with Senator Kessler and the other gentlemen.

RECESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the Chair now declares a recess for one hour and a half.

The Chair hears none.

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired, the House was called to order.

Mr. LOPRESTI IN THE CHAIR

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. POLASKI. HOUSE BILL No. 2444.

They were agreed to.

The section was agreed to as amended.

The fifth and sixth sections and title were separately read and agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to as amended.

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Mr. McCANN asked and obtained unanimous consent to call up out of order House Bill No. 446 on page 7 of today's calendar, bills on third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 446, entitled:

An Act relating to the legitimacy of children born of void or voidable marriages.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mrs. REIBMAN. Mr. Speaker, in reference to House Bill 446, this is a simple bill which would make the children born of void or voidable marriages legitimate for all purposes. There is quite a bit of misunderstanding about this bill, and if I may have the permission of the House, I would like to make a brief clarification.

We must understand that in order for this bill to operate there has to first be a marriage. The definition of a void marriage is one which at no time had any validity, which means that even though a couple went through a marriage ceremony, that in law because of a certain impediment, which in the case of void marriages such as bigamy because one of the spouses was married at the time he contracted this second so-called marriage, that this second marriage in law is now void.

A voidable marriage is another case where a couple has gone through a "marriage," when I use the word "marriage" I put the quotation marks around it because it is a voidable marriage, one which is good until annulled by judicial decree. A voidable marriage is entitled to recognition as a marriage until directly attacked. When the courts void or annul a voidable marriage the marriage is rooted up right from the beginning, ab initio, and declared to be a marriage which in fact never existed because of the legal impediment which prevented this couple from entering into a contract for a marriage.

In Pennsylvania from 1859 until 1935 statutory grounds for annulment were restricted only to bigamy, but in 1953 the Legislature, under an Act, said that in all cases where a supposed or alleged marriage shall be contracted which is absolutely void by one of the parties thereto having a spouse living at the time this is a void marriage because of bigamy, or if for any other lawful reason the supposed or alleged marriage was absolutely void when contracted such supposed or alleged marriage may upon the application of either party be declared null and void.

When a marriage is declared null and void this differs from a divorce action. In a divorce action the court cuts off the marriage as of the time the decree is entered, and the legitimacy of children which resulted from this divorced marriage is not disturbed. But in a marriage which is declared void right from the beginning, it is as if no marriage had occurred, the children or the issue of such a marriage is declared illegitimate.

There have been several questions raised. Does this do away with illegitimacy? We must understand that a meretricious arrangement, or an adulterous arrangement is not affected by this bill. The legitimacy of these children according to this bill, only occurs where there has been a marriage, but a marriage which is legally not a marriage because of certain impediments.

The impediments are marriages made in jest, marriages void by reason of insanity or intoxication, marriages between a respondent and correspondent in adultery, or marriage contracted by minors.

It would seem to me that public policy would decree that in Pennsylvania we, too, follow the modern trend of the law which is to presume that children are legitimate, and I am here in this bill trying to preserve the legitimacy of innocent children who are born of parents who went through a marriage ceremony but for some legal reason or other the courts have declared such a marriage null and void. The interests of these children definitely should be protected since we know who the parents are. These children should be able to share in all of the property rights as if lawfully born of the father and mother.

I might indicate to you that the Pennsylvania Bar Association has introduced House Bill 1181, which is the new proposed marriage code, and has included among its provisions the subject matter of this bill. So the Pennsylvania Bar Association, too, has recognized the modern trend of many states which legitimize the children which are born of void or voidable marriages.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of the bill very briefly.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the lady from Northampton permit herself to be interrogated?

Mrs. REIBMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the lady if a common law marriage that was later declared not to be a valid, common law marriage would be considered a void or voidable marriage within the terms of this bill?

Mrs. REIBMAN. Mr. Speaker, to have a void marriage, there must be bigamy involved. A voidable marriage there would be different grounds for voidability. For instance, as I mentioned to you, marriages in jest, where one of the parties was insane, or children under seven years of age.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Well, Pennsylvania does recognize a common law marriage, is that not correct?

Mrs. REIBMAN. Pennsylvania recognizes a common law marriage, but to have a common law marriage there must be the element of a contract. That is the elemental part of a common law marriage, where two people contract between themselves that they are going to be married. They must live together as husband and wife, it must be proved that there is a marriage.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Assuming an alleged contract is entered into between two people and they do live together and have children, but later find that one of them was unable to enter into a common law marriage by reason of another pre-existing marriage, would not that be a void marriage under this bill?

Mrs. REIBMAN. Yes. The children would be illegitimized. Under this bill the children then would be declared legitimate.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Under this bill then, the illegitimate children would inherit from their father, even though there was a void common law marriage, is that not right?

Mrs. REIBMAN. Yes. Are you thinking in terms of, where there is another marriage and children by that marriage?

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. That is right. I am talking about a void or illegal common law marriage.

Mrs. REIBMAN. Where there is bigamy.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Which under this bill would give those children the right to inherit, is that not correct?

Mrs. REIBMAN. Yes. Let me answer by saying this: a father of illegitimate children, if we are going to use the word illegitimate children, can by his will, by his own voluntary act, by signing a judgment note, by writing a will, by forfeiting his property, disinherit his first legitimate children. Why should the court permit this same father, who by his voluntary will entered into a marriage, fathered these children, why should the court then protect him from further support of these children? Are they not just as much his voluntary act as writing a will to disinherit his first legitimate children?

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Well, of course, he can leave his estate to his illegitimate children under the law today if he wants to.

Mrs. REIBMAN. It is his estate; he can do with it as he pleases. These are also his children. They deserve the right to be protected.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. I would like to carry this one step further, if I may. Assuming that there are illegitimate children of this void common law marriage and the illegitimate child, let us say, dies, would not the mother of that illegitimate child then have a right to come in and claim the estate of the person whom she was living with under this void common law marriage, as the heir of that child?

Mrs. REIBMAN. She has been the wife—

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Illegal wife, that is.

Mrs. REIBMAN. Illegal wife, so to speak, but she entered into a marriage contract.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Which was void.

Mrs. REIBMAN. Which was void. Why should she as an innocent spouse—we are interchanging terms, you realize—not share in her child's estate?

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. I thank the lady.

Mr. Speaker, the lady mentioned House Bill No. 1181 which is the new proposed marriage code that is recommended by the Joint State Government Commission. I happen to be one of the sponsors of that bill.

I think this bill is using the wrong approach to correct the situation. That bill, that is, 1181, abolishes common law marriages in Pennsylvania, and I think most people agree it is a good thing to abolish common law marriages. But this bill just takes one segment of the marriage code and, I think, completely distorts the law. I think this will result in a very drastic change in the laws of inheritance in Pennsylvania that have been in existence since the Commonwealth began. I believe that the marriage code itself should go through, but I do not think this one bill is a good idea.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the sponsor of the bill please?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the lady permit herself to be interrogated?

Mrs. REIBMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker, but I do not purport to be an expert on illegitimate children.

Mr. McCORMACK. I did not intend to question the sponsor, but as a result of an answer that was given to the gentleman from Delaware, I want to see if the lady would clarify that.

I was under the impression when the gentleman asked whether or not it was true that this illegitimate child who inherited from his father's estate, the wife, or rather his mother, in the event that the child died would share in his estate. Is that correct?

rs. REIBMAN. Well, now I am wondering whether we are confusing the terms of illegitimate child.

Mr. McCORMACK. All right. Let me put it this way: in the case where there is a void marriage by virtue of the fact that the wife already was married and had not been divorced from her husband, she marries "X." "X" dies and the son inherits the estate, the son born of the second marriage. He dies. The mother could inherit that son's estate, is that right?

I believe you said that she was the innocent party?

Mrs. REIBMAN. But you see the estate has already passed to this child who has become legitimate, because of this. Now that legitimate child stands in the same position as any other legitimate child. It is his estate and it would then devolve the same way that any estate owned by a legitimate child would devolve.

Mr. McCORMACK. Let us say that child is single and he dies without leaving a will. You are saying then that the money he inherited from the father would go to his mother.

Mrs. REIBMAN. His share would go to his mother.

Mr. McCORMACK. It would go to his mother, is that right?

Mrs. REIBMAN. That is my understanding.

Mr. McCORMACK. And it would go to his mother despite the fact that she was not the innocent spouse? Is that right?

Mrs. REIBMAN. But, we do not know whether—

Mr. McCORMACK. Well, I am assuming a situation where the mother of that child deliberately perpetrated a fraud upon the man by saying that there were no impediments to the marriage, yet she married him knowing there was already a valid marriage that impeded her from lawfully entering into this contract. Is it not a fact that she would share in that son's estate?

Mrs. REIBMAN. She could. Yes. But the situation can also be reversed. She can be an innocent spouse and the husband can knowingly be a bigamist. I mean it is six of one and half a dozen of the other.

Mr. McCORMACK. In other words, you are saying there are equities in this bill, and there are also possible inequities?

Mrs. REIBMAN. No, I am not saying that.

Mr. McCORMACK. Well, would you not say that was an inequity?

Mrs. REIBMAN. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman's question may I say this: the entire intent and purpose of this bill is not to stigmatize children who have nothing whatsoever to do with anybody's marriage, whether it is an innocent woman who was taken advantage of, if I may use that word, or an innocent man who was a party to a bigamist marriage. The fact remains that these children, when the marriage is void, or by court decree is a voidable marriage, by a stroke of the judge's pen, these children are then stigmatized with the word

"illegitimacy" and it appears on their birth record, it appears on many legal documents.

What I am trying to do with this bill is to protect the children who would suffer by the act of two other people, and these children are the wilfull act of their parents.

Mr. McCORMACK. That is all the questions I have, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask the attention of all the Members, if possible, to this piece of legislation which has been introduced. Perhaps we do from time to time learn something, and today I learned something with reference to divorce and marriage.

Let us see what the bill really says. It is only one sentence, so I may as well quote it so you will not misunderstand. There is only one section that is of any importance in the bill and it states.

In all cases of a void or voidable marriage all children born to the parties of such void or voidable marriage shall be deemed the legitimate children of both parties of such void or voidable marriage for all purposes.

The previous speaker apparently obtained part of the law from the same text book that I did. But actually she says there must be a marriage and in that she is mistaken, because the law as introduced states there is no marriage that occurs. A void marriage is a non-existent marriage and the definition of a void marriage, to which she would agree, is one which at no time had any validity because some impediment existed at the time of the marriage. A void marriage can be entered into by jest; it can be where both parties are insane at the time of entering into the ceremony. It can be where they have involuntarily become so intoxicated that none of them realized actually what they are doing at the time. It can be a marriage that is the result of bigamist conduct on the part of one or both of them.

A voidable marriage, on the other hand, is one which is good until annulled by official decree, and that is where we have our divorce laws at the present time. As a result of fraud, force or coercion, as a result of adultery, adulterous conduct, on the part of the parties, or as the result of bigamy or other conduct.

First, let us consider the property rights, not of the illegitimate child or the illegitimate parent; let us consider first of all the property rights of the innocent party, bearing in mind that nowhere in this bill does it state that the parties have entered into any ceremony or into any void or voidable marriage in good faith whatsoever. It just says "void or voidable marriages," with the absence of any good faith between the parties. Where a widow should be entitled to one-half of all the man's property under our present law, because she is the legitimate wife or spouse of that party, her property rights are therefore reduced by an illegitimate child through some adulterous conduct, disgraceful conduct of a party, to a one-third interest. The same occurs where a party leaves one child and a widow. The rights of the child are reduced from one-half to one-third. The innocent child's rights, the innocent widow's rights, both of them are reduced from one-half to one-third. Neither of those facts can be denied by those who propose this bill.

Let us see what a marriage really is. A marriage is understood and deemed to be a status, and its essential incidents are molded by law and cannot be molded by mere agreement of the parties. Such attempt to change what is a sacred relationship is certainly illegal.

The Legislature should denounce any attempt to evade the laws which are applicable to marriage relationship, to our property rights, to our divorces. It is clearly against public policy and against the law of decency. It is nothing more than an attempt, in my opinion, to legalize prostitution and at a certain price. It also means permitting one person to go from one employment as such, to another and for the purpose of illegal, improper, immoral and cowardly relationships. Conduct which is void of reason, void of God and God's will, is void of your rights of sanctity, of any proper conduct and relationship. For all these reasons I ask for the defeat of this bill.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to reply to just one statement that Mr. Sherman made.

I would like to take exception to one statement that the gentleman made. He said this bill would legalize prostitution. That is what he said, or did I misunderstand him?

May I interrogate Mr. Sherman?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHERMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, did I misunderstand the gentleman when he said that this bill would legalize prostitution?

Mr. SHERMAN. That is correct.

Mr. MAXWELL. What is correct? Did I misunderstand you or did you say that?

Mr. SHERMAN. I said it and I repeat it.

Mr. MAXWELL. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I again repeat, if by legalizing prostitution I could remove the stigma of illegitimacy from any child born in this Commonwealth, then I will vote for legalized prostitution and I am going to vote for this bill.

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, this is the type of issue which arouses in any intelligent debating society a great deal of emotional response. I think there have been some intemperate remarks made on the floor of this House today by men who, on careful survey of the proposed legislation, would be obliged, in all intelligence, to retract.

This bill in no manner, shape or form proposes to make legitimate anything which is now illegal. This bill is more interested in the future of boys and girls than it is in property rights.

I, too, Mr. Speaker, am an attorney at law and I realize that attorneys very often talk down a measure because they fail to get to the point quickly. I think the point of this measure is this, when you have a situation in which innocent children are about to be branded "illegitimate" for the rest of the days of their lives because of the present status of the law and this bill would change that.

Let me give you one illustration which I think Mrs. Reibman might have given you had she not been interrogated so thoroughly by the lawyers on the floor of this House.

We have seen cases in this Commonwealth, Mr. Speaker, where John Jones marries Mary Smith and the couple have three children. After the birth of the third child it is discovered that Mary Smith was insane at the time of the marriage. There was no other impediment to the marriage at all except this impediment. The law says that Mary Smith, because of her insanity, was incapable of consenting to the marriage. The law now says that these three children are illegitimate. This bill would simply change that matter and say that these three children, born in complete innocence, would be legitimate children of Mary Smith and John Jones, and that is all the bill says.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1002, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 29, 1959 (P. L. 58) entitled "An act consolidating and revising the Vehicle Code, the Tractor Code, the Motor Vehicle Financial Responsibility Act and other acts relating to the ownership possession and use of vehicles and tractors" providing additional enforcement procedures on traffic violations in boroughs, towns and townships.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ISAACS asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1203), page 2, line 9, by striking out "A POLICE OFFICER IN UNIFORM."

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1203), page 2, line 10, by inserting after "who": "is in uniform and."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, we would like to request permission of the House for the Republican side to hold a ten minute caucus. We will return promptly in ten minutes.

I would like all Members on the Republican side to proceed immediately to the Republican caucus room.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, this caucus is to be a very short caucus on two particular items that they want to take up. I ask that all our Democrat Members stay right here because we will come right back on special orders of business on three different bills that are ready to roll.

RECESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair now declares a recess for ten minutes.

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired, the House was called to order.

Mr. LOPRESTI IN THE CHAIR.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. McCANN, DOUGHERTY, BRETH and DEVLIN. HOUSE BILL No. 2445.

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to article two, section four of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by providing for the length of regular sessions of the General Assembly.

Referred to the Committee on Judiciary.

By Messrs. DAVIS, RENWICK, GARLOCK and WYND. HOUSE BILL No. 2446.

An Act amending "The Fourth to Eighth Class County Assessment Law," approved May 21, 1943 (P. L. 571) specifying when tax levies shall first be based on assessments from valuations made with the use of the permanent system of records.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. MIHM and BOWER. HOUSE BILL No. 2447.

An Act amending the act of June 1, 1956 (P. L. 1959), entitled "An act fixing the salaries and compensation of the Chief Justice and judges of the Supreme Court, the President Judge and judges of the Superior Court, the judges of the courts of common pleas, the judges of the orphans' courts, the judges of the Municipal Court of Philadelphia and the judges of the County Court and Juvenile Court of Allegheny County, ," changing the compensation of members of the General Assembly.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1108, entitled:

An Act amending the "Public School Code of 1949" approved March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30) providing a general standard reimbursement fraction for all purposes where reimbursement fractions are used and revising the basis for reimbursement on account of instruction.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, House Bill 1108 is a very complicated piece of legislation and most difficult to understand, particularly for one who is untrained in matters of educational reimbursement, and because of this reason I would like to have some Member who is in favor of this bill enlighten me on several points. For that purpose I respectfully ask to interrogate some proponent of the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the Majority Leader, with the request that the Majority Leader designate some member to debate the bill, or to answer the questions.

The Majority Leader yields to the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, under the present law is there any school district in Pennsylvania that gets 100 percent reimbursement of all of its educational costs from the Commonwealth?

Mr. POLEN. I understand there is not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FINEMAN. May I preface the question which I was next going to ask with this preliminary question? Do I take it that you are a proponent of this bill?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I have stated many times on the floor of this House that I am in favor of increasing the payments to the public schools.

Mr. FINEMAN. Well, 2354 likewise had as a result increasing payments to schools, but it is the way of increasing the payments I am concerned about and I would like to know if you are speaking now as a proponent of the bill in answering my questions?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I certainly intend to vote for the bill.

Mr. FINEMAN. I thank the gentleman.

Am I safe in saying that the gentleman subscribes to the position that school districts should assume some portion of the total cost of education based on their ability to pay?

Mr. POLEN. I do, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FINEMAN. And would the gentleman say that there are any school districts in this Commonwealth that are so poor that they could not bear any part of the total cost of education?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I do not believe we have any school district in Pennsylvania that could not pay some portion of the cost.

Mr. FINEMAN. Now, under the provisions of this bill the maximum state subsidy is increased from $5,800 to $6,300. Is that correct?

Mr. POLEN. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FINEMAN. Now the formula by means of which school districts are reimbursed is changed, is it not, under the provisions of this bill, so that a school district which now gets the total amount of its cost for education per teaching unit gets up to a maximum $6,300?

Mr. POLEN. No, that would not be correct, Mr. Speaker, that is the maximum subsidy base from which you would deduct the local effort, then use your reimbursement fraction and that would be the part that would be reimbursed to them.

May I say, Mr. Speaker, that the reimbursement formula in 1108 is exactly the same as the reimbursement formula in 2354.

Mr. FINEMAN. I have before me a memorandum which is in essence an analysis of House Bill 1108 which has been prepared by Mr. C. N. Hanner, President of the Pennsylvania Association of Chief School Administrators, and he says in his analysis that the district's reimbursement is computed as follows:

The number of teaching units multiplied by the cost of a teaching unit, or $6,600 if the cost exceeds the maximum subsidy, less the local effort, and so forth, which means that if a local school district's costs are less than $6,600 per teaching unit they get 100 percent reimbursement.

Mr. POLEN. No, that is not correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FINEMAN. What other definition or understanding can be placed on this?

Mr. POLEN. I do not have the analysis to which the gentleman is referring but I have worked out for my own school district, and it would be impossible in debate to explain just how it is arrived at because it is rather complicated, and it always has been, but we will say that—I believe the gentleman used $6,600 under this bill it is $6,300—you would deduct local effort, which I believe is 4.9, and then you would take your reimbursement fraction and that is the amount that they would be paying. If it is 50 percent, they would get half of that difference, if it was 75 percent, they would get 75 percent of it. Again I repeat there is no change in the formula as contained in 2354 so far as the reimbursement is concerned. The difference is only in the counting of the pupils.

In 1108 only those in the public schools are counted; under 2354 the public and private schools were counted, and the only difference would be you would arrive at more teaching units under 2354. There would be no difference in the formula. You would use exactly the same formula.

Mr. FINEMAN. Now further on this point, I have, and I submit this to the gentleman respectfully, I feel that you are very much in error. I have before me a communication that I think every Member of the House got from the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce, where they raised a number of points about this bill, and dealing with the point which we are now discussing, they say this:

Schools spending less than the state's prescribed equalization level would be eligible to receive a 100 percent reimbursement from the state government for additional instructional costs incurred up to that level. Such a provision in the subsidy law may discourage careful evaluation of increased school expenditures, especially in view of the fact that increased state funds of as much as $1,500 per teaching unit are proposed over a two-year period.

It seems to me that the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce has come up with the same answer in their analyzation that I came up with in reading this formula, and that is in working out the formula up to the point of $6,300 a school district can get reimbursement of 100 percent of its instructional cost. As a matter of fact as being further confirmatory of that position is the fact that on page 13 of House Bill 1108 the act specifically deletes certain items of expense which heretofore could not by specific language in the existing law be included in the definition of reimbursable instruction expense, so that by inference they are saying to us, we are taking it out here and now making these specific items of expense included in the definition of reimbursable instruction expense.

Mr. POLEN. Well, Mr. Speaker, if they have broadened the term "reimbursable expense" to include other items, that can be true, but getting back to the other part of the discussion as to the 100 percent, I say that would be impossible getting 100 percent, because you first must deduct from your maximum subsidy base the local effort of 4.9 mills which would make it impossible for any district to get 100 percent.

I might say, Mr. Speaker, that I am only attempting as best I can to explain the bill. I did not see anyone else take the floor to explain it. I have some knowledge of it, having served 18 years as a school director, but I will admit it is quite a complicated formula as it is bound to be, in an equalization program such as we are attempting here. However, I believe the gentleman is in error and the State Chamber of Commerce is in error if they say that any school district can get 100 percent, because under the formula that would be impossible.

I might further state so far as the maximum subsidy base that we are talking about now, $6,300 proposed in this bill, which under the present Act is now $5,800, I know in my county the school districts, I think the average is in the late seven thousandths of the cost of the teaching unit and if we are fortunate enough to have school districts in Pennsylvania that have a unit cost of less than $6,300, I certainly think they are to be congratulated if they are providing the proper instruction as they should.

Mr. FINEMAN. Well, now I would ask the gentleman, assuming for purposes of argument that the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce is correct in their analysis and that a school district could conceivably get 100 percent reimbursement, does the gentleman agree that is bad philosophy, a bad policy for the state to follow to allow any school district to get 100 percent reimbursement?

Mr. POLEN. First, Mr. Speaker, I do not agree that any school district can get 100 percent.

Mr. FINEMAN. Well, I said assuming for purposes of our argument, would the gentleman agree that it is bad philosophy to allow a school district to be reimbursed 100 percent?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I would say that if a school district received 100 percent they would be in such a depressed condition that everyone must be on relief and no one would be paying any local taxes. Therefore the only way they could get it would be under the distressed school district Act where they would receive money to pay teachers' salaries under that Act, and I do not think there is any school district in Pennsylvania that is or ever was in such a position that they had no tax revenues whatever.

Mr. FINEMAN. Therefore, the gentleman agrees it would be bad philosophy to allow any school district to get 100 percent reimbursement?

Mr. POLEN. Well, I can not say that I agree with that because there could be such a thing. I suppose we could have such a situation, but it is purely academic talking about it because we do not have such a situation.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman stated before, I hate to press this point, and I do not know that we need to go into it in detail, but covering it briefly, the gentleman in reply to interrogation before that he knows of no school district in this Commonwealth that is so poor that they could not assume some part, some portion, of the cost of education in that area. Is that not so?

Mr. POLEN. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FINEMAN. Now if that be the case, does the gentleman agree, assuming for purposes of this discussion that a school district can conceivably get 100 percent, does the gentleman concede that it would be bad philosophy and policy for any school district in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to get 100 percent reimbursement?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I do not concede that any school district could get 100 percent. How could they when first from the subsidy base, before you apply the fraction, you deduct the millage of 4.9. I believe it is proposed in this bill, and now, I believe under the present law it is $4\frac{3}{8}$ mills. That would make it impossible for such a situation to exist because before you apply the fraction,—I will admit that even if they had a 100 percent fraction, they would not receive 100 percent reimbursement. I know of no way that they could get to the point where they would have a 100 percent fraction, but assuming that they could have a 100 percent fraction, they certainly would not get 100 percent reimbursement of the subsidy base, because before you apply the fraction you first deduct the local effort, which at present is $4\frac{3}{8}$, and as proposed in this 4.9, and in the next year 5.4.

Mr. FINEMAN. Is it not a fact that under the existing law the formula does not make mention of a specific, or does not employ, let me put it that way, does not employ specific items of educational cost, but rather deals with a maximum of $5,800 from which is to be subtracted the local effort in dollars and cents per teaching unit?

Mr. POLEN. That is the formula, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FINEMAN. And under the law proposed in 1108 do they not change that by referring to specific costs up to the maximum of $6,300?

Mr. POLEN. I do not have the section of the bill before me, but I believe the gentleman is correct that they clarified what would be considered reimbursable costs.

Mr. FINEMAN. All right, let us move along to the next point.

I understand that under the provisions of this bill state subsidies to those districts educating their pupils on a tuition basis would be paid in the same amount as districts are paid that provide their own educational facilities. Is that correct?

Mr. POLEN. I believe that the '57 Legislature changed the reimbursement formula that way.

Mr. FINEMAN. Now I am talking about the provisions of House Bill 1108. Does it not make provision for reimbursement to school districts who pay tuition in the same amount as they make reimbursement to school districts who educate their own children?

Mr. POLEN. I believe that is correct, Mr. Speaker, and I repeat that the formula by which the tuition was paid on a reimburseable basis was changed by the Legislature through the 1957 law putting it in and making reimbursement in this manner to the school district.

Mr. FINEMAN. As a matter of fact did not the state always subsidize at a little lower rate or level the school districts who paid tuition as distinguished from the school districts who educated their own children?

Mr. POLEN. I think the difference was where the pupils were counted, whether it was in the sending district or the receiving district. I think it was formerly counted in the receiving districts and now counted in the sending districts, in lieu of tuition.

Mr. FINEMAN. But there was this difference in the reimbursement, was there not?

Mr. POLEN. The reimbursement was in two different categories. Then the district was reimbursed on a tuition basis; now they are reimbursed on a pupil basis, the sending district.

Mr. FINEMAN. But was not the theory behind this law to encourage mergers and integration of school units because of the economy that they could effect, they felt by slightly penalizing those districts that sent their children to other school districts and paid tuition for them that by penalizing them perhaps they could encourage them to merge and effect economies that they otherwise would not effect?

Mr. POLEN. Well, Mr. Speaker, I could not say what the thinking of the 1957 Legislature was in that respect. I believe basically that the thinking was unrealistic to do what had been done in the past on a tuition basis, and it was more realistic to do it on a pupil basis or teaching unit basis. In other words, it made the whole system more uniform.

Mr. FINEMAN. Let us go to the next point, Mr. Speaker. There are certain items of expense for education for which a school district is reimbursed outside of what we term strictly educational costs, are there not?

Mr. POLEN. I do not believe so, Mr. Speaker. I believe that is one of the reasons that you have definitions in this bill.

Mr. FINEMAN. Well now, I am not talking about this bill, I am talking about the existing law. For instance, do not we make reimbursement for home bound instruction, for closed schools, for extension recreation?

Mr. POLEN. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FINEMAN. Well, that is what I am referring to.

Mr. POLEN. Well, that definitely is not covered in this bill 1108.

Mr. FINEMAN. Well, now just a moment, if you will bear with me, you stated before that it was your thinking that a school district should assume some part of the total cost of educating their children and not throw the whole cost of education on the Commonwealth? You agree with that, do you not?

Mr. POLEN. I do, and I believe that at the present time the local districts pay approximately 60 percent and the Commonwealth pays about 40 percent.

Mr. FINEMAN. Well, you agree with that?

Mr. POLEN. I certainly do.

Mr. FINEMAN. Now, is it not a fact that under the provisions of House Bill 1108 a school district can be reimbursed 100 percent for these special items of cost, such as, transportation, extension recreation, closed schools, home bound instruction?

Mr. POLEN. Did I understand the gentleman correctly that under 1108 that could be done?

Mr. FINEMAN. That is right.

Mr. POLEN. I do not believe that 1108 covers any of those subjects.

Mr. FINEMAN. Well now, you have a copy of the bill in front of you?

Mr. POLEN. Yes, sir, I do.

Mr. FINEMAN. May I refer you to page 19, line 8, which starts with this language: "From this sum shall be deducted the amount of Commonwealth reimbursements to the district during the year of operation for transportation," and so forth. Now, when they say "From this sum," they are referring to the calculations that were made in the prior pages for the standard reimbursement fraction or the adjusted new fraction, whatever you want to term it under the provisions of this bill. Under the provisions of this bill, in figuring up, and this is done specifically on page 13 of the bill, in redefining the word "reimbursable" instruction expenses, they have deleted the words "rentals of capital facilities and equipment, salaries and expenses for school nurses, for medical and dental services," and et cetera and a whole list of items. Now, they deleted that from the section that said "reimbursable instruction expense" which shall not include the following. Then they took that out by inference, meaning that reimbursable expense can include the following, which brings me back to this point, that a school district up to the point of $6,300, the maximum state subsidy, can seek to get reimbursed for its total educational cost including rentals of capital facilities and equipment, salaries and expenses, school nurses, dental services and et cetera. Then they go to page 19 and they say to the extent that we are unreimbursed for those items under the basic formula we will deduct it. Now, is not that clear to you that they are seeking a 100 percent reimbursement of these items?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, the question got so long that I lost it on the way. I would say, however, and I think what the gentleman is getting at he is construing just the opposite from what the actual experience is. In other words, when you arrive at your $5,800 under the present law and $6,300 is proposed for 1959 and 1960 in this bill, as your maximum subsidy base you cannot use transportation and such items as that as a part of that cost. You have to get down to the instructional items and, certainly, if your school district has a school nurse and you are not reimbursed for any part of that, that is a part of the expense of the operation of that school.

Mr. FINEMAN. Well, the gentleman is grossly in error, very manifestly in error. As a matter of fact, I refer him again to page 13 where they redefine what can be reimbursable instruction expense.

Mr. POLEN. Where am I in error, Mr. Speaker, so that I can try and straighten this out?

Mr. FINEMAN. Well, the language in the bill reads, "In each case reimbursable instruction expense per teaching unit shall be the sum of (i) and (ii) below but in no case shall include expenses for debt service or for capital outlay, "and then the existing laws enumerated other things, such as, rental of capital facilities and equipment, salaries and expenses and so forth. Then they have deleted the specification of these items by very clear inference means that these items are now included in the definition of reimbursable instruction expense.

Mr. POLEN. What page is the gentleman on and what line?

Mr. FINEMAN. I am on page 13.

Mr. POLEN. 13. What line?

Mr. FINEMAN. Starting with line 12.

Mr. POLEN. All right.

Mr. FINEMAN. Let me give him this additional piece of information, which again comes from the analyzation that was prepared by Mr. Hanner, president of the Pennsylvania Association of Chief School Administrators. It says "Reimbursable instruction expense per teaching unit. All costs of educating a child used in the computation except debt service charges, capital outlay, dental services and tuition payments." It is very clear that they have now redefined the words "reimbursable instruction expense."

Mr. POLEN. Well, Mr. Speaker, on page 13, starting at—what line did you say?

Mr. FINEMAN. Line 12.

Mr. POLEN. We will take it in each case. "Reimbursable instruction expense per teaching unit shall be the sum of (i) and (ii) below, but in no case shall include expenses for debt service or for capital outlay." Now the "rentals of capital facilities and equipment, salaries and expenses for school nurses" and so on is taken out.

Mr. FINEMAN. Right. That is exactly my point.

Mr. POLEN. What is the point?

Mr. FINEMAN. The point is that under the definition of reimbursable instruction expense for purposes of calculating the formula we are now including these special items such as homebound instruction, extension, recreation and so forth. Now, the provisions of the existing law, by means of which school districts are reimbursed for these items, is in no way changed, so that they get it under that provision and they likewise get it in the formula.

In order not to be entirely inequitable, on page 19 they extend credit for where they have gotten reimbursement under the provision of the existing law, which means, clearly means, that a school district can now be reimbursed 100 percent for these items other than what we truly know to be educational expense.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I again do not agree with it, but I am going to ask the gentleman a question. In Philadelphia, for instance, do you have dental service in the schools?

Mr. FINEMAN. Do we have what, sir?

Mr. POLEN. The dental program?

Mr. FINEMAN. Yes.

Mr. POLEN. Is that not a part of the regular cost of operating that school district?

Mr. FINEMAN. It is part of the cost of operating the school district, yes.

Mr. POLEN. Then why should that not be included as a part of the expense?

Mr. FINEMAN. Well, no one is saying that it should not be. I am saying that no school district should be placed in a position where it can get 100 percent reimbursement. Local school districts should be in position to pick up some part of the total tab, and this bill makes it possible for them to get total 100 percent reimbursement. That is the inequity in the bill.

Mr. POLEN. Well, Mr. Speaker, I do not know how I can convince the gentleman that no district can get 100 percent reimbursement, but to say it very plainly, if your local effort is more—under this bill I believe it is 4.9 mills—you have to deduct that from your base of $6,300 before you apply the fraction, so you therefore know that it is impossible for any district to get 100 percent.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, you are evading the specific point I am trying to make. I am not talking about the basic formula now, I am talking about the specific items of expense, such as homebound instruction, I am saying that a school district under House Bill 1108 can get 100 percent reimbursement for these items, which they do not get today.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, we do not reimburse on items, we reimburse on the total cost of the teaching unit.

Mr. FINEMAN. Well, that is merely a play on words, whatever you want to term it. You know exactly what I mean. I am talking about the total cost of homebound instruction, total cost of closed schools, all the other items I have enumerated a half dozen times for you. I am saying to you that a school district under the provisions of 1108 can get 100 percent reimbursement.

Mr. POLEN. Well Mr. Speaker, let us take one item at a time. The gentleman mentioned closed schools. Now where in this bill does closed schools appear?

Mr. FINEMAN. Let me ask you a question, if you will, sir.

Mr. POLEN. Well, I would—

Mr. FINEMAN. Let me ask you a question. It may just very well be that closed schools is not there, but there are at least a dozen items on my sheet here that are covered there. For instance, let us take the item of rentals, which is the very first item that appears on line 15, page 13, "rentals of capital facilities." Now can you tell me how, under existing law, a school district is reimbursed for rentals of its capital facilities?

Mr. POLEN. Yes, Mr. Speaker. I think they always have been. I do not think that is anything new. I believe for reimbursement for rentals we have something around $48 million in this present general appropriation bill. We have been doing that all along.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Polen, I asked a very simple question. I do not know if you have the information to give me the answer, but this is my question: How under existing law is a school district reimbursed for rentals for capital facilities? What provision is made in existing law for reimbursing them?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, that is already provided in existing law.

Mr. FINEMAN. I know it is. I am asking what is the provision? How is it done? Is it by the number of students, by a fraction; how is it done?

Mr. POLEN. It is done by the fraction.

Mr. FINEMAN. By a capital fraction, is it not? Capital reimbursement fraction?

Mr. POLEN. That is right.

Mr. FINEMAN. And that has nothing to do with the principle fraction for reimbursement of education subsidies, is that right?

Mr. POLEN. That is correct.

Mr. FINEMAN. Now, we come to the calculation of the principle formula. In the calculation of the principle formula, the way 1108 is worded, are not rentals of capital facilities included as an item of reimbursable instruction expense? And you must of necessity say yes in that answer by the very language that appears on page 13.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I do not think I am going to convince the gentleman, but my answer is no.

Mr. FINEMAN. Well, in reply to that I would say you have refused to acknowledge what the truth of the situation is. You are just blinding yourself to the truth of the situation.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, we are discussing things here—for instance, closed schools—which have nothing in the world to do with 1108. It is not mentioned in it any way. It is not used in any way.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Polen, I want to read to you again, and listen carefully to this, if you will, a definition of reimbursable instruction expenses for teaching units that was prepared by the Pennsylvania Association of Chief School Administrators. They state specifically, without equivocation, that it includes all costs of educating a child in the computation except debt service charges, capital outlay, dental services and tuition payments. Now that does not refer anywhere to rental payments, which means that rental payments are now included in the definition. So how can you deny that it now fits into the definition of reimbursable instruction expense?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, on the question of what we are reimbursing for in connection with rentals, I have admitted that we reimburse for rental payments. It is an expense.

Mr. FINEMAN. But I am saying to you now, under provisions of 1108 which does not affect the existing law dealing with reimbursement of rentals—that remains as is—school districts will get reimbursement on rental payments based on the capital fraction formula. They will get that, but under the provisions of 1108, in addition to that, rental payments are now included in the principle formula.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, the payments made in connection with tuition, or rentals or anything like that, are deducted before you arrive at your cost.

Mr. FINEMAN. Now let us pass on to one more point, Mr. Speaker. Is it not a fact that under the provisions of this bill the total cost of the bill during the next biennium is $55 million?

Mr. POLEN. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FINEMAN. Is it not a fact also under the provisions of this bill, in addition to the $55 million, that for the '61-'63 biennium there is another $45 million provided for?

Mr. POLEN. I have not had it projected into the next biennium, but I would say that that sounds reasonable to me.

Mr. FINEMAN. Now as a man who is delegated with much authority in matters concerning fiscal policies in this House, do you believe it wise for this Legislature to pass any type of enactment that would mandate increased expenditures beyond this biennium without likewise passing accompanying revenue-raising measures?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I do not believe it would be wise to do that, and we have passed the revenue measure to cover the cost of this bill. That is why I reduced it in the Appropriations Committee, in line with our policy of not reporting bills carrying appropriations in excess of the taxes that have been passed by this House.

Mr. FINEMAN. Well, the gentleman just told me that the total cost of this bill for the current biennium and the following biennium is $100 million. Now we know the bill that passed this House and is over in the other Chamber, which is unacted upon, will raise only $55 million. What legislation have we passed to cover the other $45 million?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I did not say there was $100 million. For this biennium—and the only way we have ever legislated here that I know of is consideration of cost on a biennial basis—the cost of this legislation, in this '59-'61 biennium, would be $55 million, which is the amount of tax revenue measures that have been passed in this House and uncommitted.

Mr. FINEMAN. Did you not admit before that the bill also mandates expenditures for the biennium of '61-'63 in the amount of $45 million?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, anything that is in any of this legislation that we have passed—and we have passed, as mandated, hundreds of millions of dollars in the future—can be changed by the next Session of the Legislature if they so desire, even next January.

Mr. POLEN. I do not think that any Session of the Legislature ever provided taxes or revenues beyond the biennium in which they operated.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, has the gentleman not always stated in the past, I believe, that it is bad fiscal policy to pass legislation, whether it be for the present biennium or the ensuing biennium, that carries a price tag on it, without likewise providing revenues to pay for that bill because we are, in effect, saddling the legislators who follow us?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I have never made that statement in connection with amounts beyond the present biennium. I have stated many times, and we have held to this policy, that we do not pass appropriation bills in excess of the tax bills we have passed. In this case, we would again not do so.

I might say that generally I am opposed to passing legislation that passes on additional expenses for many years to come. I think that probably is a bad policy. But we are taking a formula here that covers two school years. It only provides for the two years so far as the revenues are concerned. And at the next Session of the Legislature this or any other act passed can be changed if found undesirable.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, very briefly, aside from the points that constitute objections that I raised in the interrogation, I want to ask for a moment about the philosophy behind this bill, and this is principally the reason why I am vehemently opposed to this type of legislation.

This bill does nothing more than perpetuate and give life to an inequity which we discussed when we had under consideration House Bill 2354. It seems to me that it is wrong to only compound the short-change policy that this state has adopted insofar as spreading its subsidies among the various school districts in the counties of the Commonwealth.

I want to say this as a general statement, I think, and it is most unfortunate, that there exists, and has for a number of years existed, an antipathy by rural legislators against the urban legislators. Why that exists, I do not know. But, in the matter of parcelling out State monies, the city has always received the short end of the stick. There is no reason in the world why the tax dollar of the citizens of an urban area, a citizen of the city of Philadelphia or the city of Pittsburgh, should not receive as much state service for his tax dollar as a citizen from some rural area. It is manifestly unfair. I say to the Members of this House there will be a time in the not-too-distant future when a continuance of this short-sighted policy, this conflict between so-called country legislators and city legislators, is going to result in the destruction of the economic structures of many of our large cities.

What is good for the city of Philadelphia and what is good for the city of Pittsburgh is good for the state. The citizen of Philadelphia is no different than the citizen of any small country area. He is one of us and deserves to be treated fairly and equally.

I would like to recommend for the reading of the Members of this House an article that appeared in the November issue of the Coronet magazine. It is a most interesting article. I am not going to read it to you now, except the title of the thing, but I think you ought to get hold of it because it reflects what I am telling you. The article is entitled:

The War Between Cities and States.

The subtitle reads:

Out voted and shortchanged by rural run state legislatures, our great cities, in which two out of three American live, face ruin unless drastic measures are taken.

The type of legislation that we have before us is typical of what this article makes reference to.

I am respectfully asking the men and women of this House to look at this thing on a broad horizon, and not to be selfish about the thing so far as his or her district is concerned, because every citizen of the Commonwealth has the right to be treated equally and fairly. I ask you to vote down this bill.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I did not intend to even get into this debate. I would like to say, however, that this bill is not only for the rural areas; it is based upon equalization.

I might say to the gentleman from Philadelphia that the largest increase in subsidies from this bill will go to the city of Philadelphia. The increase under this bill for this biennium would give Philadelphia nearly four and a half million in increased subsidies. The purpose of the equalization program which we have here in Pennsylvania is to give equal educational opportunity to all of the youth of this great Commonwealth. I certainly am one who does not feel that Philadelphia, Pittsburgh or any city should be discriminated against.

I think there is one thing, though, that we overlook in this situation. That is the valuation back of a teaching unit. In my home district I believe it is about $40,000 per teaching unit. I believe in Philadelphia it is something like $600,000. I could be in error on that because it has been some time since I looked at the figures. But whether this is the best system or not—there is no doubt it can be improved on—it is the one we have here, and I have not heard of anyone proposing to change the reimbursement formula that we use. The other bill which we talked about, 2354, used exactly the same formula so far as reimbursement was concerned.

We all know how the cost of education has increased in this Commonwealth. I believe the first Session I served in the Legislature here, the Commonwealth's appropriation for education was less than $100 million. Today the subsidy per teaching unit alone is over $530 million. But we have got to look back and remember that in those days in a fourth class school district we were paying salaries of $720 a year, later $800; high school teachers $1170. We have gone a long way in increasing teachers' salaries and increasing the benefits of education in Pennsylvania.

I do not think there is any great issue. I do not think any of the Members that come from the rural counties, such as I do, feel that Philadelphia or any city in this Commonwealth and their school districts should be discriminated against. I do not believe that this bill does discriminate against any school district. I believe fully it is not enough money to do the things that should be done for education, but if we are going to keep within the framework of a sound fiscal policy, we are going to have to limit it to the revenue bills we have passed in this House.

I do not know what the vote on this bill will be, I have not asked anyone to vote for it. I have not worked in that manner, but I do feel that we have the opportunity here today to bring about further help to the school districts of Pennsylvania which will equalize educational opportunity, and under our existing system do the best job we can for the education of our boys and girls. I do not think it is a matter of urban against country. I believe it is a matter of plain justice that we should at least attempt to do something for the school districts of Pennsylvania in order that we can bring about the best educational system in this country.

I thank you, Mr. Speaker, for permitting me to take up the time of this House. I did not even intend to speak on this bill, but I did get drawn into it.

I would say to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, I wish he would come to my office and I will try to prove to him by figures that it is impossible for any school district to receive 100 percent reimbursement.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. POLEN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I was not sure I heard the correct amount of money the gentleman said the school district of Philadelphia would get from this bill.

Mr. POLEN. Approximately $4.5 million.

Mr. FINEMAN. $4.5 million. Now, what percentage of the total money involved is that?

Mr. POLEN. It is slightly less than 10 per cent.

Mr. FINEMAN. Slightly less than 10 per cent. Can the gentleman tell us what percentage of the total school population Philadelphia has?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I do not have that information.

Mr. FINEMAN. Does the gentleman know the total number of school children in the state?

Mr. POLEN. I do not have that accurate information before me.

Mr. FINEMAN. Can the gentleman get that information?

Mr. POLEN. Yes, I can have it for the gentleman tomorrow.

Mr. FINEMAN. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. STONER. Mr. Speaker, I wish to file my remarks on House Bill 1108 and have it spread on the record.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection the remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the record.

Mr. STONER. Mr. Speaker, I am of the opinion House Bill No. 1108 is just another patch on an already badly worn pair of pants.

If the bill becomes a reality it will give temporary relief to a pressing problem which will remain with us for future Sessions, or until we do something toward a future overall policy that we can live with.

Ever since I have been a member of the General Assembly, we have passed countless bills directing our public schools to do certain things. On top of this the Department of Public Instruction comes along with more and more directives, such as instructing school personnel to use electricity instead of gas in their school cafeteria cooking, and serving Johnny a pint of milk when maybe Johnny needs a pint of good Pennsylvania apple cider.

New school buildings must have certain features regardless of the cost. If these directives are not carried out the penalty is a cut in School Aid.

At least some of we members of the General Assembly have listened too long to various groups within the Public School Program to a point where we, and our school people at the local level, are very much confused on questions of just what is going to happen and what will be the needs in the near future.

I and some of my colleagues introduced House Resolution No. 104 which was adopted September 14, directing the Joint State Government Commission, our own fact finding agency, to study some of the important financial facts involved in the cost of operation of our schools and report its findings to the next regular Session of the General Assembly.

In the meantime I believe we have no other course than to pass House Bill No. 1108 as another temporary patch, hoping House Resolution 104 will be carried out, and that we can put together a sensible program eliminating directives and permitting our School Board to run their own schools as they are financially able.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I do not have any written remarks to spread on the record, but I will be very brief, as usual I think House Bill 1108 in its present form is very unwise. It is the height of fiscal irresponsibility. I say that because it commits next Session and the following Sessions of the Legislature to appropriate the money to pay for this. This is a political bill purely and simply. It is nothing more and nothing less. It is political and we know that the lobby of the school teachers in Pennsylvania is one of the strongest lobbies that exists today. This is an attempt to pacify them, to ameliorate their hurt feelings.

It is not necessary for me to tell you that the increases are necessary. I think the bill, if they changed the maximum subsidy to $6,300 for the present biennium, would be much fairer, although not quite equitable, it would be much better than the present bill which increases it in the following biennium to $6,900. We have the bill, or we passed the tax bill to appropriate $55 million to pay for the present increase of $6,300. But, we do not have the tax measures to support the additional money, $45 million in the following biennium that was admitted would be required if this bill were to become law.

I think that we might be heroes in the eyes of the school teachers, but I think that we will be false heroes. I think what the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen, said, with respect to the Policies of this House and that Committee not to pass or report out legislation unless there was sufficient tax money to pay for it, was correct. But, I think he must have had his tongue in his cheek when he said that the following Legislature could, in effect, change the law with respect to this maximum subsidy in a subsequent session. I do not recall in the time that I have been here where we have ever decreased the maximum subsidy. I cannot imagine, being practical and realistic, any Session of the Legislature, assuming that the composition is about the same as it is now, reducing that figure. I think that was not a serious statement that he made.

For that reason I am going to vote against the bill. We passed the Korean bonus, we required tax legislation to finance it. We recall what happened with the Second World War bonus when there was no revenue raising measure to pay for the bonded indebtedness. This is exactly what we are doing now. We criticized the then Governor, but I can see absolutely no difference between the policies then and the policies that will be effectuated if this bill becomes law.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, my position is going to be one of consistency.

When House Bill 2354 was debated I was the first sponsor of that measure in This House. I stated at the time if the money was there to pay for it, I stood willing and ready to support it. That is exactly my position here today. I remember at the time the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee when interrogated, said he did not have the money. He stated today, if I recall correctly, that he would not report a bill out if we had not passed a tax measure to cover it. He did exactly that in the middle of October with 2354.

Yesterday when House Bill 1108 was being debated on second reading, I heard a lot of banter between the leadership about financial irresponsibility. I voted for the amendment to add $15 million to the $55 million, and I voted for it on the theory that we might as well spend $70 million we did not have as $55 million we did not have. Had the bill come to a vote, I would have voted against it, as I am going to do today. I think it is a mistake to pass the measure. There is no money for it.

At that time I tried to bring out, and it was later brought out on the floor, that we were dependent upon the personal property tax, which would cost the city of Pittsburgh nothing, which would cost the county of Philadelphia two mills, and the rest of this Commonwealth six mills to pay for it. I would not buy that deal at that time, neither will I buy it today. Without the money I contend it is a mistake to pass this bill and I think when we do it is going to blow up in all our faces. I am going to vote no.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I am going to vote for 1108 and in speaking briefly on the bill I am going to pinpoint several things that have been said that are contained in the bill about future commitments by this Legislature. I am taking for granted, of course, I have not read the bill too thoroughly, that there is $45 million in the bill that a future Legislature will be called upon to meet.

If the next Legislature does not see fit to meet that, they can change it, that is their prerogative. However, I want to point this out, when the gentleman who spoke previously stated that there have been no commitments or it is wrong to make commitments for future Legislatures to spend, let us go back to the General State Authority. Here we increased them this year again, $146 million over what was on the books. Every session this Legislature has to provide new taxes and new money to advertise those bonds and to pay the interest on those bonds. In my memory of the last four terms, never once has there been a tax measure passed that will in itself amortize the General State Authority bonds and pay the interest on that indebtedness. When we pass these General State Authority bills and increases we are tying the Legislature down for years to come, 15 to 20 years, in meeting additional revenues to pay the interest and amortize the bonds covered by the increases of the General State Authority.

To my mind, there is no more important thing to the people of this Commonwealth than equal education for all. Certainly that is more important than building an underground garage building over here in the Capitol with nice grounds and white marble on the top of it. It is not occupied today because there is no money to maintain it. Certainly education can be considered to be more important than building three new state office buildings in three large cities throughout this Commonwealth, and other buildings that I could well name. And yet the Legislature was committed to new taxes every two years to meet the interest on the bonds to build those buildings and amortize the bonds that built those buildings.

Let us not sell education down the river. If we have to meet $45 million two years from now to help education and keep the educational requirement up to the proper standards in this state, I am sure we are all men enough to stand here, if we are back, and meet that obligation. That does not worry me one bit. If I am back I will take my responsibility just the same as all the rest of you.

I just wanted to correct that little interpretation. This is not the first time, by any means, that we have committed the Commonwealth or this Legislature to future expenditures of money, and in many, many instances for projects not nearly, or one-half, or one-third, or one-tenth, or even one hundredth of one percent as important as education is to the people of this Commonwealth.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, the debate on this bill reminds me of Shakespeare's play, "Much Ado About Nothing."

First of all, we are now planning to spend $15 million for the school districts of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and I am a believer and supporter of education. My record shows it. The Majority Leader has insisted on talking about the personal property tax, which is as dead as a dinosaur in the Carnegie Museum in the city of Pittsburgh. He knows that. I opposed the personal property tax when it was on the floor of the House and I then stated that I was against it because I was not interested in any special privilege for the city of Pittsburgh. I believe it not only to be unconstitutional but unconscionable.

I agree with the comments of the speaker from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, that Pittsburgh and Philadelphia do not get their fair share of the receipts under the subsidy system, but there is nothing we can do about it in the present state of affairs.

Pittsburgh will get $925,000 during the next biennium. When I vote upon this bill I do not want to stultify myself by voting for an appropriation and not stating where I stand on a tax measure. I call the particular attention of Mr. McCann, the Majority Leader, that part of the Hood-Kennedy report was abandoned. That part at four percent would have given $148 million to the Commonwealth by tax on trade-in values. Why was it abandoned and never brought up for vote I do not know. I publicly stated that I would vote for such a measure and I will if it comes up on the floor of the House.

Mr. McCann, the Majority Leader, stated from time to time the Democrats have gone and voted against their conscience by voting for property taxes against the consumer, and he states to us, why not tax business. I say to him right now that the Majority party is in control of the Ways and Means Committee and if he is willing to let out a bill taxing trade-ins, I will vote for it. It is also under the tax business to increase the corporate income tax from six to seven percent, which will give us $55 million. I will vote for that also.

With those reservations and statement, because I believe in public education, I am going to vote for the bill with a sincere hope that we have a bona fide tax program, not in 1960 or 1961, but in 1959, because I do not know exactly what the Governor said today but I am convinced that as far as fiscal responsibility is concerned he will follow President Eisenhower in vetoing this bill.

Mr. LEONARD. Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, this is not an hour long speech I am going to make, but I would like to ask Members of the House if they know any more important bill to come before us than this bill concerning the education of our children which are tomorrow our life in America. I believe they will all recognize the situation from a world standpoint. We have to educate our children. We do not care where the money comes from.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. JAMES K. DAVIS filed the following reasons for his vote on House Bill No. 1108:

I have written to many of my constituents that I stand ready to vote for any reasonable tax measure which will implement House Bill No. 1108.

I have stated specifically that I will vote for the Strausser Bill calling for a three percent tax on clothing if this bill can be moved out of the House Ways and Means Committee.

This is my position as we are starting to vote on House Bill 1108. My county desperately needs this new arrangement in equalizing state school subsidies, and I will support the measure financially by any kind of a tax-raising measure which can be seriously brought up for consideration.

Our schools are the state's number one responsibility, and we must see that the rural areas do not sink into a second class educational effort.

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. STEVENS filed the following reasons for his vote on House Bill No. 1108.

I was the only Republican Representative from Allegheny County voting for a 4 percent sales tax. Thus providing an increase of $315,000,000 in our bi-annual budget. I can sincerely vote and support House Bill 1108. The Governor of this Commonwealth can find the money for our schools in this increase in the General Fund.

COMMUNICATION FROM GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

BILLS PASSED OVER

There being no objection, the remaining bills on today's calendar not considered, were passed over at the request of Mr. McCANN.

STATEMENT BY MAJORITY LEADER

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, earlier today the Minority Leader asked some questions to which I could not give the answer at that time.

I bring to the attention of the Members of this House that tomorrow, Wednesday, November 11, this House will be in session, working with a rather lengthy schedule. This House will be in session on Thursday, the following day, completing the work.

The Conference Committee reports are being signed tonight and will be presented in this House tomorrow to go to the Printer and, if possible, even late tonight, because the House has to adopt, first, the Conference Committee reports. These are all House Bills, and we will try to adopt these reports if at all possible on Thursday. This House will have a full working day then on Thursday, and we will move right along in that schedule.

Mr. Speaker, on the week of November 16, the following week, we have been notified by the Senate that their schedule will be five days. The schedule of the House will be five days, Monday to Friday, inclusive.

There is one item that has come up about hotel space on Monday, November 16, and Tuesday, November 17. Two weeks ago Senator Berger and myself met with the hotel managers of this city, or assistant managers. They had one convention booked in the city of Harrisburg at the Penn-Harris Hotel. I believe it is a state-wide convention of a woman's group which had scheduled their convention quite some time ago. At that time in our discussion with the hotel managers, and this pertains to the Penn-Harris Hotel, the hotel manager assured us that he could take care of all the Members who normally live at the Penn-Harris Hotel. The manager of the Harrisburger Hotel said he had absolutely no problem; the assistant manager of the Governor Hotel assured us he had no problem.

Today I got a telephone call from the Penn-Harris Hotel manager in which he says they have sold additional hotel space and it will be rather difficult to house some of the Members at the Penn-Harris Hotel. He, of course, assured me that I would have my room. To some Member who does not get a room I will turn over my room to him, because I think it was another low-down trick of the hotel, after we had agreed for the hotel space on November 16 and 17, in not fulfilling the commitment of the hotel manager.

I was informed by him on the telephone this afternoon that for some Members of this House they will assist in seeing that they have hotel space; that they, in cooperation with some other hotels, will assign them, I suppose, to various other hotels. I know the problem they are faced with, but it was not a matter that was not considered many weeks before. It was not something that came up today. The problem at that time was that there would not be enough suites for people who normally have suites in the hotel. Our statement at that time was that we know you have a problem with the suites in the hotel, but none of our House Members or Senate Members use a hotel suite, they use a room, and that certainly was agreed to, but there are others who do use them and they could not have the rooms.

Mr. Speaker, this House will be in session on November 16 and our office and Mr. Johnson's office will assist in every way possible to try to assist in placing our Members, but I want the Penn-Harris Hotel to know just how I feel about it and how rotten I think they handled the situation.

By Messrs. P. E. PERRY and HOLLIDAY.

HOUSE BILL No. 2448.

An Act amending the "Selective Sales and Use Tax Act," approved March 6, 1956 (P. L. 1228), clarifying the scope of the exemption for vessels operated principally outside the limits of the Commonwealth.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. GAILEY, Mrs. REIBMAN and

Mr. DENGLER. RESOLUTION No. 127.

In the House of Representatives, November 10, 1959.

Some educators are of the opinion that school children are admitted to school at too early an age.

The present chronological age requirement may allow children to enter school before they are mentally prepared thereby impeding the progress of those pupils of adequate development; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to investigate and study the problem of entrance ages of school children to determine whether or not the present chronological age requirements are too low; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission report its findings and recommendations to the next regular session of the General Assembly.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

SENATE MESSAGE

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1959.

The Senate met at 10:00 o'clock, a. m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore (M. Harvey Taylor) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, FATHER JOHN F. CULLINAN, Pastor of St. Michael's Catholic Church, Hollidaysburg, offered the following prayer:

Our Father in heaven, on this day we give grateful honor to all those devoted men who offered their lives and services in the defense of their fellow Americans. For the treasure of this example that has been given to us in heaping measure, our hearts are lifted up. Grant us not to be unmindful in following such example. May we always seek first our light and strength in the thought of Thee and Thy fatherly loving heart.

May we see our fellow men as Thy dear children, equally dear with us. May our thoughts and actions be such that we also may be an example in lesser ways, but with equal sincerity and love.

May we be always grateful for Thy blessings and to carry Thee always in our hearts.

In Thy Name we pray, Amend.

"Section 1. Sections 2603, 2604 and 2605, act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30), known as the "Public School Code of 1949" are amended to read:

"Section 2603. Investments.—The State Council of Education shall promptly invest, and keep invested as constantly as possible, to the best advantage of the State School Fund, all appropriations, devises, gifts, and other receipts for this purpose, as a permanent State School Fund. [whose income only may be expended.] Investments of the permanent State School Fund may be made only in bonds properly issued by the Government of the United States, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, a school district in this Commonwealth, or in municipal bonds in which savings banks of Pennsylvania are authorized by law to invest their deposits, and all such investment must be first approved by the Auditor General.

"Such investments shall be converted into cash whenever necessary to make the payments provided for in this article and to pay for salaries and wages, purchase of supplies and other necessary and pertinent expenses of administration of this article.

"Section 2604. [Use of Income.—The State Council of Education is hereby authorized to use so much of the interest, rentals, and other income of the school fund as it deems wise towards equalizing the educational advantages of the different parts of this Commonwealth; to make advancements to school districts temporarily in need and to deduct said advancements from any appropriation that may be due said districts, upon such terms as the districts and the State Council of Education shall agree; and also to use such part of the same as it deems wise to further and promote education in the conservation of natural resources, and education in forestry, agricultural and other industrial pursuits, in the public schools of this Commonwealth. For all of said purposes, all income from the State School Fund is hereby appropriated to the State Council of Education. All of the income not thus used shall be annually added to the principal of said fund. The State Council of Education may also lease, sell, or otherwise dispose of any of the real estate, securities, or other property belonging to the State School Fund, and invest the proceeds thereof in compliance with this act.] Use of Fund Appropriation.—In addition to equalizing educational opportunities throughout the Commonwealth, the State Council of Education may expend moneys from the State School Fund of Pennsylvania for the purpose of paying a part of the costs of repairs and/or alterations to local public school buildings or buildings used by State Teachers'

Colleges which repairs and/or alterations are necessary to satisfy fire and safety standards or requirements and which are required by order of the Department of Labor and Industry or in those cases in which the Department of Labor and Industry does not have jurisdiction, then by order of another governmental body of competent jurisdiction empowered by law to enforce such orders, including cities of the first class, cities of the second class and cities of the second class A.

"As much of the moneys in the State School Fund of Pennsylvania, including principal and income as may be necessary, is specifically appropriated to the State Council of Education to be used for the purposes and in the manner prescribed in this act.

"Section 2605. Payments; How made.—[So much of the State School Fund as is to be invested or reinvested in any securities, or the income thereof that may be used for any of the purposes herein provided, shall be paid out by a proper order, authorized by the State Council of Education and signed by the president and secretary thereof, drawn on the State Treasurer on said funds, which order shall first be approved by the Auditor General] Application for approval of the proposed work shall be submitted to the bureau of school buildings and no project shall be undertaken until such application, together with plans, specifications and bid costs have been approved by the bureau of school buildings, the Superintendent of Public Instruction, the Auditor General and the Secretary of Labor and Industry. Applications under provisions of this act shall be considered in the order in which they are filed with the Department of Public Instruction.

"Upon approval of the project and the bid costs, applications for payments as hereinafter provided may be made by the board of school directors of a school district or by a joint school board and by the trustees of a State Teachers' College to the Department of Public Instruction in such form as the State Council of Education, with the approval of the Auditor General, Superintendent of Public Instruction and Secretary of Labor and Industry shall prescribe.

"Applicants may qualify for payments on account of repairs and/or alterations made in compliance with orders issued subsequent to December 1, 1958 by the Department of Labor and Industry or by other governmental bodies of competent jurisdiction empowered by law to enforce such orders, including the cities of Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Scranton.

"Payments shall be made on order of the State Council of Education signed by the president and secretary thereof drawn on the State Treasurer on such funds when the applications therefor have been approved by the Auditor General, the Superintendent of Public Instruction and the Secretary of Labor and Industry, provided the State Council of Education may grant and interim authority to the Superintendent of Public Instruction to issue such orders, which shall be confirmed by the council at its next regular meeting. In the case of school districts which have less than three hundred fifty thousand dollars ($350,000) valuation per district teaching unit, payments may be approved up to seventy-five per centum of the total cost of repairs and/or alteration. In the case of school districts which have more than three hundred fifty thousand dollars ($350,000) but less than seven hundred fifty thousand dollars ($750,000) valuation per district teaching unit, payments may be approved up to fifty per centum of the total cost of repairs and/or alterations. In the case of school districts which have more than seven hundred fifty thousand dollars ($750,000) but less than one million dollars ($1,000,000) valuation per district teaching unit, payments may be approved up to twenty-five per centum of the total cost of repairs and/or alterations. Where school districts have more than one million dollars (($1,000,000) valuation per district teaching unit, payments may be approved up to five per centum of the total cost of repairs and/or alteration. Payments up to one hundred per centum of the total cost of repairs and/or alterations may be approved in the case of applications made by State Teachers' Colleges and school districts which are determined by the Superintendent of Public Instruction to be financially handicapped and distressed in accordance with the provisions of this act. In no case shall any payment be made for repairs and/or alterations made to any school building which is closed finally by the Department of Labor and Industry or the Department of Public Instruction.

"Except in the case of State Teachers' Colleges payment on account of any project under the provisions of this act shall preclude any further reimbursement from State funds for the project.

"Section 2. This act shall take effect immediately."

They were agreed to.

The section was agreed to as amended.

The title was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the title?

Mr. EHRGOOD offered the following amendment:

Amend Title, page 1, first to fifth lines; page 2, first to seventh lines of Title by striking out all of said lines and inserting:

"Amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30), entitled "An act relating to the public school system, including certain provisions applicable as well to private and parochial schools; amending, revising, consolidating and changing the laws relating thereto," providing for the use of moneys in the State School Fund of Pennsylvania for assisting public school districts and State Teachers' Colleges to comply with required safety standards in certain cases; conferring powers and imposing duties upon the State Council of Education, the Auditor General, the Superintendent of Public Instruction and the Secretary of Labor and Industry and making an appropriation."

OBSERVANCE OF VETERANS DAY

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, at this time, it would be fitting for the Senate of Pennsylvania to join with the citizens of our State, and all over the United States, in the observance of Veterans Day.

For that purpose, I will yield to Senator Walker who desires to offer an appropriate resolution.

Following the reading and adoption of that resolution, I would request that the Chair call up the Senate and that we stand in a moment of silent prayer in remembrance of the veterans of all our wars, living and dead.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair now recognizes the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Walker.

SENATE RESOLUTION

"VETERANS DAY—1959"

Messrs. WALKER, WADE, PECHAN, SCOTT, SEYLER, RIPP and MAHADY offered the following resolution (Serial No. 80):

In the Senate, November 11, 1959.

Mr. WALKER. "Today is established as an honored day by the Congress of these United States to be a day of remembrance to the memory of all veterans of the struggles of our great Nation, from its birth to the present time.

"The Senate of Pennsylvania embraces this hallowed day and reverses its purpose and memories. In all our wars, its veterans have served this great Commonwealth in our Senate with honor and dedication to the purposes for which they fought and for which so many of their comrades died. Many Members of today's Senate, on both sides of the aisle, of partisan politics, have served in these armed conflicts in which all were only American citizens from the lowest ranks of the Armed Services, and today they continue their services for God and Country.

"Whereas, it is the consensus of opinion of the Senate of Pennsylvania that this day is one to be remembered throughout all history, and

"Whereas, all of us appreciate the great price that veterans back through the years have paid so that we may enjoy the blessings of liberty and independence that so often are lightly accepted by all, and

"Whereas, today we live in a world that knows no real peace nor respect for folks who want to govern themselves, we are constantly reminded of the great sacrifices veterans of the past have made to secure these blessings for our shores, and

"Whereas, in remembering these great men, many of whom laid down their lives that others may live in freedom, we, each of us, rededicate our lives, our intelligence and our sacred honor to the proposition that these blessings may, one day soon, be shared with all mankind everywhere, and

"Whereas, selfish interests have been at the root of all wars back through recorded history, we promise that on the glorious records of our comrades whom we honor today, Veterans Day, that we shall take renewed courage and strength from the example of their lives and deeds, so that we, too, may in our own way show our deep appreciation by courageous, honest, God-fearing dedication to the task of helping keep our country strong and eager to share our blessings with all mankind, so that selfish reasons that have promoted past wars shall be forever erased and replaced by brotherly love that will, one day soon, make the Lord's Prayer a reality in our world today."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was unanimously agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. At this time, when taps are being sounded in our local communities over the graves of our departed comrades throughout our counties, our State, and our Nation, in keeping with the request of Senator Berger, I am going to call up the Senate and ask them to observe a moment of silent meditation, in respect to those who have given of their lives and to those who have made sacrifices in the wars in which this Country has fought.

(Observance of moment of silent meditation.)

SENATE RESOLUTION

REQUESTING THE SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION TO INSTRUCT THE DIRECTOR OF SCHOOL BUILDINGS TO STUDY VARIOUS PROBLEMS IN THE CONSTRUCTION OF PUBLIC SCHOOL BUILDINGS

Mr. WHALLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Messrs. WHALLEY, WAGNER, WADE and WALKER offered the following resolution (Serial No. 81), which was read and referred to the Committee on Rules:

In the Senate, November 11, 1959.

The General Assembly is currently considering legislation increasing the total amount of reimbursable costs for the construction of public school buildings.

It is of prime importance to the Commonwealth that school buildings be built as economically as possible, consistent with efficiency and practicability.

In many instances, certain phases of school construction do not always meet with the best requirements of the school districts. School officials, school contractors and architects can well profit by the experience of the past. It becomes mandatory that information be collated and disseminated with respect to school building in view of the fact that the Legislature may increase the amount of reimbursable costs.

Better schools would be built and in some instances at a great saving, if the information were made available to school districts, school contractors and architects. This information may be best obtained by the Department of Public Instruction; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Superintendent of Public Instruction instruct the Director of the Bureau of School Buildings to

(1) Study the various plans of all school buildings built within the past few years.

(2) Send questionnaires to all architects, school contractors and school districts involved in school building construction, designed to elicit information with respect to the relative efficiency and operating costs of one-story and two-story buildings, construction of gymnasiums and auditoriums, together with ideas on how they could be utilized in connection with other school programs, costs and efficiency of heating systems, time loss due to the moving of pupils from one room to another, the number, dimensions and types of entrances and windows as well as the dimensions of classrooms, unforeseen defects, general and specific maintenance costs and, in the light of their experiences, suggested changes in plans and specifications which would result in better school buildings.

(3) Collate the information, make a study thereof, and within six months send a report of his findings and recommendations to each member of the Senate, file copies thereof with the Secretary of the Senate and make them available to school districts.

RECESS

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request a ten minute recess of the Senate for the purpose of holding a meeting of the Committee on Appropriations, to be held in the Appropriations Committee Room.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any objections? The Chair hears no objection, and declares a ten minute recess of the Senate.

AFTER RECESS

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

WEDNESDAY, November 11, 1959.

The House met at 10:00 a. m. EST.

Mr. LOPRESTI in the Chair.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Speaker has requested the present occupant of the Chair to call the House to order and to preside temporarily.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend David R. Hoover, offered the following prayer:

Almighty and Everlasting God, Thou who hast created our world and all there is therein; Thou who has created man in Thine own image, and placed him in the world to enjoy all the blessings thereof; and Thou in whom we live and move and have our being; it is with mixed emotions that we come to Thee on this Veterans' Day.

As we look back in history, we are aware of Thy guiding hand leading our forefathers in days gone by. We know that we have received Thy precious blessing. The heritage which our ancestors has given to us has engendered a spirit of freedom, independence and liberty.

O God, bring us to the spirit of remembrance on this day. May we pay tribute to those who gave their last full measure of devotion that this nation under Thee might prosper. May we also honor all those who have heard and answered that call to service in the interest of our nation's safety.

We pause to honor in a special way the passing of Frank Lillie who gave unstintingly of his time to the service of this House faithfully for 25 years.

As we receive Thy great love and care, may we feel heavily Thy hand upon our lives; so that the heritage which has come to us may ever inspire us to resolve by the very lives we live that these shall not have died in vain. Help us to preserve this trust and exert a leadership that will foster this independence. O God, as Thou dost grant us Thy guidance and care, so enable us to project the great principles of this nation in our own lives and in the lives of our fellowmen.

To Thee be the honor and the glory forever and ever. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER pro tempore. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journal for Tuesday, November 10, 1959 will be postponed until printed.

The Chair hears none.

RESOLUTION

CONDOLENCE

Messrs. McCANN and A. W. JOHNSON on behalf of the entire membership and staff offered the following resolution which was read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, November 11, 1959.

Whereas, on November 8, 1959, Divine Providence in its infinite wisdom removed from his family, friends and his associates and from all worldly affairs, Frank J. Lillie, a devoted and dedicated public servant, and

Whereas, His true greatness will be remembered in the manner he served on the staff of this House of Representatives for thirty years, unnoticed and yet effectively. He was a proud yet humble person. During his fourscore years he considered his life not like a goblet to be drained, but one to be filled with service and kindness and understanding. He exemplified and lived by a rule of three—

He governed his temper, tongue and conduct

He cultivated a willingness, courage and gentleness

He practiced thrift, industry and promptness, and for all that he was loved, admired and respected by his fellow man.

Only a short time ago his eightieth birthday was celebrated on the floor of this House. He accepted the acclaim with dignity, grace and modesty. Thus, he leaves fond memories to all of us, and especially to his son, F. Merrill Lillie, to his five grandchildren, and seven great-grandchildren.

Therefore, be it resolved, while bowing to the infinite wisdom of the Divine Providence, that we hereby offer our deepest sympathy and condolence to the bereaved members of his family, and be it further

Resolved, that a suitable copy of this resolution be presented to his family as evidence of the sentiments of this legislative body.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair returns the gavel to the Speaker of the House.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR

The SPEAKER. In conformity with the wishes of the Members of the House, the Chair declares a recess from Legislative business that we may devote ourselves to the observance of a day that should receive increasing attention and consideration as the years go by, Veterans' Day, a day of precious memories, precious memories that are mingled with regrets, regrets that the high resolutions, the idealism, of those who made Veterans' Day possible have not been embodied in the action of those of us who entered the scene and Armistice Day became a memory. I marched and I think all of you marched in demonstrations, dedicated as we were, to devoting our lives and our blood to the task of making the world free for democracy, but, fortunately, the flame, devotion, idealism that Veterans' Day represents still burns as a fact, not a memory.

We have among us and with us not only those who can speak of history, but who made history. Among those who made history the guest speaker, who has honored us with his presence today, is and has been a conspicuous figure and, as he speaks to you, as I say, he is one who simply has not placed himself in a position to talk of history, but one who helped to make it.

It is, therefore, a privilege to present to this House our Adjutant General, General Biddle, who will now address you.

ADDRESS BY GENERAL A. J. BIDDLE, JR.

MAJ. GEN. A. J. BIDDLE, JR. Mr. Speaker, Members of the House of Representatives, the privilege of addressing so distinguished a gathering is one of which I am deeply sensible.

This is an occasion of meaning. It affords us a moment to reflect on the past armed conflicts in which our country has engaged, and to look ahead, to think of the future.

The most meaningful memorials are those that live in the hearts and the minds of men. Veterans Day is such a one, a day our thoughts are stirred by the memories of those gallant Americans who met the challenges of the times with faith and courage rooted deep in devotion to our nation, and to our ideals.

It is a day which emphasizes that the valorous deeds of the men who fought in World War I, and in the European and Pacific Theaters of Operation in World War II, and of those who fought in Korea, must ever be, for us, a source of inspiration and heartfelt pride.

And all Pennsylvania may well take additional pride in the fact that many of those brave young men, who fought in World War II, and later in Korea, received their essential training at our own Indian town Gap Military Reservation; the kind of training it takes to win in battle, with the minimum of casualties. Now, I am going to talk to you less of what those men did than of what their deeds mean to us. Thanks to their example, we face the future with boundless courage and faith.

It is important that we give thought and study to the true meaning of this day, and though we cannot control the past, the present and the future are measurably within our hands.

It is therefore appropriate that Veterans Day not only pays tribute to the service and achievements of our former fighting men, but that it simultaneously re-emphasizes the nation's continuing efforts to solve global problems across the conference table instead of on the battlefield.

It is in this connection that our observance of Veterans Day will become more and more important, more concerned with the developments of the times; this because an increasing number of veterans as well as of the youth eligible for service, will be undertaking an active role in military affairs, through participation in the National Guard and in the Reserve, as well as in the Active Army. They will personify the vigorous realism of this significant day of remembrance.

Veterans Day, by its very name, implies an understanding of the realities of war. Accordingly, perhaps one of the most significant characteristics of Veterans Day is its persistent reminder that it is with its guard up against the inroads of tyranny that the United States should face the future.

We all know the price that has already had to be paid three times in less than 40 years for our nation's lack of military readiness when hostilities broke out.

A future enemy would certainly make every effort to strike heavily and rapidly at the United States itself.

Then, too, we have only to recall that in Korea our ground forces were nearly swept into the sea in the early stages of the war. This near-disaster occurred because active units had been shorn of essential organic elements; hence were understrength and spread too thinly to support our world-wide commitments.

If we are to avoid the tragedies of the past, we must face up to the realities of the future. In short, reasonable preparedness in peace-time is essential to our hope for victory in war.

It is also essential to our hope for maintaining peace on acceptable terms. This is true because successful diplomacy depends upon our ability to negotiate from a position of strength.

It would be appropriate at this point, I think, if I were to touch on a subject that is close to all our hearts, yet one that requires the greatest degree of perseverance and patience, and, at the same time, the exercise of sustained vigilance, namely, our search for peace.

Our consideration of the matter, I think you'll agree, calls, at once, for a restatement that a search for peace is indeed a solemn purpose, prayerfully shared by all Americans, and that what we seek is an enduring, honorable, and just one, consonant with our indestructible faith in freedom, under the guidance of God.

Certainly, it is our devout wish to bring about these conditions, and it is our desire that there be overlooked no opportunity for discussions which might conceivably lead to an honorable accommodation of differences. Yet, each time we have in the past offered to engage in talks which, at the outset, might have seemed to open the way towards this end, the leaders of militant Communism have deliberately placed some stumbling block in the way. So whether we may expect to achieve peace in our time, the kind of peace we insist upon, is a matter of conjecture.

But in the meantime we must be allowed to go about our business of furthering the development of our country. And to do this we urgently need time and a climate conducive of the greatest possible degree of confidence and tranquility of mind. I strongly believe such a climate is an absolutely attainable objective. Hence, until such time as there might have been achieved a dependable, honorable peace, we shall continue to need the military capability, and the will to trigger it, that it takes to deter aggression, and to keep any one or more nations from interfering in the internal affairs of others.

In attempting to evaluate the meaning of the official announcements, following high level discussions at the close of Chairman Khrushchev's tour of the United States, it would be well to bear in mind that these talks were not a declaration of peace, but more in the nature of "time out" to make way for a re-examination of the issues. Their success or failure could hardly be expected to become evident until perhaps after the President's return here from his proposed trip to the Soviet Union.

If, following this, or in the meantime, the Soviets were to revive the Berlin controversy, or to permit their Far East Allies to continue to engage in aggressive action against Formosa, Laos, or India, it would mean that the recent talks would have met the same fate as had those at the 1955 Geneva Conference. But if an accord of substantial nature were to emerge, then we might consider these talks to have resulted in a measurable degree of success.

The President's action in inviting Chairman Khrushchev to this country demonstrated the President's desire to seize every opportunity to work for an honorable peace, just as is the President's scheduled tour of some nine countries abroad an earnest search for peace, as well as a promotion of Western thought and policy.

As a part of this determined and strenuous effort is his scheduled attendance at the Western Summit meeting, with a view to assuring a common and unified Western policy in advance of an eventual East-West conference. And of course all Americans are earnestly hopeful of tangible results.

At the same time I hardly think we should be subject to reproach if we seized full opportunity to think out loud about the merits or demerits of the proposals both for full and partial disarmament, and all connected matters. For, after all, freedom is at stake, and whatever is done will spiritually and materially affect our future.

Taking a sharp look at some of the aftermaths of Chairman Khrushchev's visit would, I believe, prompt one to exercise caution against hastily accepting at face value the Chairman's disarmament and peace proposals, prior to further discussion of any specific problems. I have in mind, among other things that have come to pass, continued—even increasing—Communist efforts at subversion in the Caribbean and throughout Latin America.

Moreover, the Khrushchev visit here served to boost the spirits and the activities of the Communist Party in the United States.

Then, too, there is Communist China's increasing aggressiveness towards its neighbors, and towards us.

And significantly figuring among these disappointing aftermaths was Khrushchev's upholding of Communist China's demand for return of the Nationalist-held offshore islands, while disclaiming any control over Communist China's policy.

While he agreed with President Eisenhower, at Camp David, to settle differences by negotiation, and while this may be taken as an encouraging sign that discussions at the proposed Summit Meeting might lead to useful results, the Western leaders may hardly be expected to believe that Moscow stands prepared to compromise on any fundamental issues, or that Moscow is ready to cooperate for a peace through any abandonment of basic Soviet policy.

Moreover, I feel sure that the Western leaders know that the only way to negotiate is to be united in advance concerning what we are prepared to do.

Recent action by the Western Powers and Soviet Russia, in sponsoring, in the United Nations General Assembly, a joint disarmament resolution, still represents an agreement only in principle—and one which must be tested by practical results. And, unfortunately in this connection, the Soviets' record is a dim one, particularly concerning effective inspections and control.

The Soviet delegate bluntly told the Assembly that his country refused to accept general and complete control, or to open his country to comprehensive inspection during the partial disarmament period. He said Moscow would accept this only following total disarmament. This, then, would occur at a time when the West would be incapable of doing anything about it, should the Soviets renege. Indeed, the West would by then have become unable to defend itself in event that the Soviets might have cheated.

What we propose is control first, and then disarmament. What Chairman Khrushchev proposes is the abolition of all our overseas bases and disarmament before any effective inspection or control. The question, then, is one of pre-control. In fact, the whole question revolves around one of control. Short of that, there could, of course, be no disarmament at all. And in that case the policy of deterring aggression would necessarily continue.

Then, too, inextricably tied into the question of disarmament is a possible settlement of outstanding political issues.

So, to attempt to effect disarmament prior to a solution of these vital issues would be putting the cart before the horse. Indeed, the only sensible and safe way to deal with the question of disarmament would be first to remove the causes that render the burden of armaments necessary.

Otherwise, it would be as if a carpenter were to lay down his hammer and saw with the work unfinished.

Hence, to grant disarmament priority of consideration would be to treat primarily with symptoms, rather than the causes.

Then, too, we cannot forget that our country has, in the past, spearheaded efforts to bring about disarmament, but that these led only to disillusionment. For, after we had effected considerable reductions, we found our national security threatened.

So, as I see it, our expressed desire for disarmament is more or less a case of "window shopping." We should all like to have it, but we just don't seem to have the means of securing it.

Prior to Chairman Khrushchev's visit here there had been indications that he was woefully ignorant of the United States, and that this ignorance, plus perhaps wish-thinking, had given rise to a potentially dangerous miscalculation of our nation's power and determination. Indeed, he might well have become a prisoner of his own wish-thinking, and consequently developed a closed mind on the subject. We have only to recall Moscow's two ultimatums concerning Berlin, to see what value the Kremlin had erroneously placed on the strength of our defense posture in relation to its own.

To my mind, the only thing that counts in Chairman Khrushchev's mind in evaluating the West, the United States in particular, is his estimate of the power balance—and, an integral part of that power is, of course, his estimate of our will to trigger our military capability, if need be.

As regards the purely military aspect, I feel that, while he knows, as we do, that we do not match him man for man, or perhaps even missile for missile, we do have what it takes to bring about a massive burial in the Soviet Union.

But where I feel that his wish-thinking had led to miscalculation was concerning the spiritual or moral factor; in other words, our will to fight, if necessary.

It is therefore to be hoped that his visit served to dispel from his mind any such erroneous thinking. And that was why it was so important that he gain a first-hand impression of the moral strength and determination of our people, and that he see for himself that they support the President in his foreign policy. So if the Chairman is now personally convinced that all Americans believe in their Democracy, and support their Government, the visit would have been well worthwhile.

So, looking back upon the significant visit of our recent guest, it might be said that while we could hardly have expected any results of a miraculous nature, still it might well have served to remove his earplugs and blinders concerning the will, determination, and stamina of our people. And, if he were thus to have gained an understanding of what we have, and what we would do with it if he initiated a rash move, then his visit would have served a useful purpose.

We have a clearer measure of him, and the challenge he represents. And we may hope he left our shores more than previously informed about us.

The Soviets may perhaps want a reduction of tensions; also, some peaceable stabilization. Yet they are certainly not so taken with this tactic that they would fail to seize advantage of any signs of lessening in our determination. Hence, nothing could so cripple the chances of negotiating from strength than a premature curtailment of our military capability. To do so would be to jeopardize our fondest hopes for an honorable settlement of outstanding issues. Indeed, we can afford to be optimistic only if we plan and prepare for the worst.

Hence, to insure the effective forwarding of our foreign policy, it must work from a base of prestige—a prestige that includes a firm adherence to our principles backed up by a recognized invincible military capability and the will to trigger it, if need be. Moreover, it is a highly important mission of our foreign policy to drive these facts home in the minds of our friends, and of our potential enemies abroad.

This is what it takes to avoid, in the minds of our potential enemies, miscalculation; and in the field of foreign policy, resorting to ad hoc procedure and, in the military domain, the crash job.

What is more, it is this caliber of prestige that it takes to effectively support our representatives as they negotiate in these crucial times.

The SPEAKER. The House thanks the General and the Chair thanks the General.

And now Dr. Dengler, in view of the fact that the choir is not able to be with us as a whole, will lead the House in singing "God Bless America."

Dr. Dengler led the members in singing "God Bless America."

STATEMENT BY MAJORITY LEADER

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I request permission to inform the House of our plans and working schedule for the hours here today.

It is our hope that we will continue to work now, later to break for lunch, and then return to the House and continue to work for the balance of the day to complete the schedule.

With that in mind in our discussion early today, we have not scheduled any caucuses at this time—unless a change may occur later in the day. If that meets with the approval of the House we will be ready in a few minutes to begin on the first roll call order of business here today.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Mr. McCANN asked and obtained unanimous consent to call up out of order House Bill No. 1161 on page 7 of today's calendar, bills on third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1161, entitled:

An Act amending the "Public School Code of 1949" approved March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30) further regulating reimbursements made by the Commonwealth to union and merged districts and jointures.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. GIBB. Mr. Speaker, this bill was introduced at the request of the Superintendent of Education of Allegheny County.

While it was designed to help my home school district, it is equally applicable throughout the state. House Bill 1161 would merely provide that for a period of five years the reimbursement on account of instruction paid to a union school district would be at least as much as paid to the component districts. For example, ten districts comprising the Quaker Valley Joint Schools receive $294,855 state aid on account of instruction. If these districts were to be formed into a union district, they would receive only $258,231. Furthermore, these districts have a millage ranging from 14 to 28 mills. In raising $700,931, on a basis of a uniform tax of 20.7 mills on the assessed valuation of $33,836,121, the wealthier districts would be compelled to increase taxation of their people in the amount of $39,694 per year. A corresponding decrease would accrue to the citizens of the less wealthy districts. The supplemental aid payable to this union school district would be only $35,292. The bill proposes a guarantee for a period of five years. The assumption is that the increased population over a five-year period will make up the loss that would be covered by this bill.

Mr. Speaker, I ask the support of this bill by both sides of the House.

Mr. EILBERG. Mr. Speaker, I rise to speak in opposition to this bill.

Let me say preliminarily, that in view of what has been happening here in the House and more recently with respect to Philadelphia's status—I must say at this point that I am sorry that I am from Philadelphia, because

I am afraid some Members may feel that my point of view is a biased one. I am asking everyone with all the sincerity at my command to try to divorce in their minds the fact of where I come from and try to consider whether or not what I say makes any sense.

It is important that we not confuse this bill with House Bill 1108, which this House passed yesterday. 1108 provided additional money for, I suppose, all the school districts throughout the state. Additional money and additional appropriations will, no doubt, be necessary. On the other hand, the bill that is before us provides that where certain mergers take place, those districts which form mergers will continue to get the same amount for the next five years that they did for the last year, whereas the remaining school districts throughout the state will nevertheless be subject to the action of the formula and will receive amounts accordingly. So we are not dealing with a situation which will benefit the majority of school districts throughout the state.

I do not know what Philadelphia may lose by 1161 if it is enacted, and I cannot tell you what any particular district might lose if 1161 were enacted, but if 1161 is enacted it is very clear that the moneys available for educational purposes will be reduced and therefore all of the school districts will suffer to some extent.

A week or two ago I heard a very interesting description of how 1161 operates offered by one of the Members of this House, which I would like to pass on to the Membership at large. We provide a certain amount of money for educational purposes; this Legislature does that. Let's call it an educational pie, so to speak. Now we have certain school districts which under 1161 would merge and would get as a result of merging a greater piece of that pie than they would be allowed to receive under the operation of the formula. Since they would be receiving a larger cut of the pie, the amount remaining would therefore be less than would be required to meet the needs of all the other school districts throughout the state. This fact is essential to an understanding of this bill.

Now proponents of this bill say that the purpose of it is to encourage mergers and to effect economies in the operation of the school districts. I say to you, Mr. Speaker, that one of the most important things we want to do is not merely to have districts effect economies, but to help districts to support themselves, which should be and is our desire, and is the desire of students of this field. I readily admit that I am not a student of the educational field, but I have studied this bill. We want to encourage mergers to the point where they will have sufficient numbers of students in the merger, sufficient amounts of real estate or wealth so that the merger may in effect support itself.

I ask you what is accomplished by merging districts that are very, very small. We have school districts in the state which have as few as 10 pupils, 100 pupils, 200 pupils, 300 pupils, very, very small districts. I say to you if there were to be a merger of two very small districts, we do not thereby recognize or encourage this district to hope to finance itself. We merely perpetuate a gift to the district. So I say to you if there were something in the bill to require that a sufficient number of students be in the new merger and therefore as a consequence there would be additional wealth in the community, then perhaps there would be some merit in this bill, and in that connection, many of us here are content with the studies of the State Council of Education.

The State Council of Education tells us, and I have a document in my hand to that effect, there should be a minimum of 1,600 school students in any merger in order for a merger to begin to operate on a sound financial basis, considering the wealth and financial background of that community, we must have 1,600. Other students in the field say that there should be at least 2,400 students. I repeat again a great many districts in this Commonwealth are infinitesimal in size. In fact, I understand that 80 percent, close to 80 percent, of the school districts have less than the 1,600 enrollment recommended by the State Council of Education.

This bill provides that any districts merging in accordance with the bill will continue to get the same amounts for the next five years. I can hardly believe that when these five years expire they will not come back or that there will not be additional legislation to perpetuate the freeze for another five years, and another five years, and another five years. Is this the way we are going to solve the educational dilemma in Pennsylvania? I think not.

One other point. Yesterday this House passed House Bill 1108, and indications are that the other Chamber will do likewise. I call to the attention of this House a very significant thing. We are trying to help small, very poor districts here. Bear in mind that under 1108 as passed yesterday, these very same districts that we are now trying to help with 1161 we helped yesterday with 1108. Some of the poorest districts in the state will, through the coming years, get an increase per teaching unit in amounts varying from $500 to $1,000 per teaching unit. Yesterday this House gave resounding help to the very same districts. Are we going to keep this up indefinitely to the point where we are completely subsidizing the small units without providing any incentive on the part of the local community to properly merge and pay for itself?

I say to you, Mr. Speaker, this bill is ill-advised and urge all the Members on both sides to vote "No."

The SPEAKER. This is the first roll call. Again the Chair objects, during roll calls, to discussions and personal or even official conferences which distract the attention of the Members. Later on when we do not have to have a basic roll call we can be more liberal.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

DAVID L. LAWRENCE.

November 10, 1959.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed House Bill No. 1179, Printer's No. 379, entitled "An Act amending the act of May 27, 1949 (P. L. 1903) entitled 'An act providing for powers responsibilities duties and limitations of the Governor Adjutant General Department of Military Affairs Pennsylvania State Armory Board Military Reservation Commission in connection with the armed Military and Naval forces and the internal security of the Commonwealth for the definition powers and limitations of the unorganized militia Pennsylvania National Guard Pennsylvania Guard Naval Militia Pennsylvania Naval Militia and for coordination with the government of the United States in the organization and functioning of the Pennsylvania National Guard and the National Guard of the United States apportioned the Commonwealth' including the Pennsylvania Air National Guard with the provisions of this act."

DAVID L. LAWRENCE.

November 10, 1959.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed House Bill No. 2133, Printer's No. 1065, entitled "An Act authorizing the Department of Property and Supplies with the approval of the Governor to acquire real property in the Borough of Somerset for the use of the Somerset State Hospital in the Department of Public Welfare and making an appropriation."

DAVID L. LAWRENCE.

STATEMENT BY THE MAJORITY LEADER

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, if I may, I would like to have permission of the House to clear up the situation for next week.

The SPEAKER. The Chair with great joy recognizes the Majority Leader for the purpose of clearing up the situation for next week because that is what I have been waiting several days to hear done, and I shall weigh every word he says.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, early today in this session the Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations presented the Conference Committee reports for printing. Arrangements have been made with the Printer and those reports will probably arrive here no later than 2:00 o'clock this afternoon.

It is the intention in this House today to adopt those Conference Committee reports, and the Senate would be in session later in the day to act on those Conference reports.

In addition to that, Mr. Speaker, last night Senator Berger and I again discussed this hotel situation for next week. The schedule has been set as Monday to Friday, inclusive, for the operation of the Senate, and is going to be set for Monday to Friday, inclusive, for the operation of the House.

I, of course, have asked the question ten times whether Friday then would be the date for sine die adjournment. I have not gotten the answer that it would be, but in lieu of that answer I have received the following type of answer: That next week we would finish all of the legislative work, that sine die adjournment would not be the answer on Friday, but evidently there will be some type of a recess. How long, I do not know. I, of course, favor the adoption of a sine die resolution. Evidently I do not have an affirmative answer regarding that sine die resolution.

You will recall my heated discussion yesterday about the Penn Harris Hotel here in the city. Of course, it became much worse last night. Some of these people who have lived there as long as fifteen years, Republican Members of this House, sixteen years and eighteen years for some Senators, were informed last night that they do not have hotel space. I, of course, yesterday was very angry about this, and I can assure you I do not feel a darned bit better about it today.

It would be an entirely different situation to present something to a group of people in which you were falsifying the situation, or upon which you had not previously planned. As I stated yesterday, Senator Berger and I met with the hotel people. There was only one problem involved at that time, and that was the problem of the hotel suites in the Penn Harris Hotel. Since that time evidently the convention has gotten much larger—I assume it has—for they have cancelled out the hotel rooms of many Members to whom I talked in the hotel last night. My phone kept ringing steadily until approximately 1:00 o'clock this morning on the situation.

This morning we had another conference, and then we met with Senator Berger again. Mr. Speaker, this is what we are asking: You are not going to have hotel space at the Penn Harris; the House and the Senate will be in Session when there is not hotel space at the Penn Harris. We ask that for those two nights—to some of us, three nights—of this one week you plan to find a motel room, or, if you come to Harrisburg on Sunday, a room for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. The Penn Harris says it will take care of their regular customers on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The other two hotels, I am certainly proud to say, are taking care of their people; that is, the Harrisburger and the New Governor. If you stay regularly at either of those hotels, the hotel management has told us they will take care of Representatives and Senators who are residents of those two hotels.

Now, Mr. Speaker, with this situation there is nothing that Senator Berger, I, or anyone else can do as far as House or Senate Members who stay at the Penn Harris are concerned, except to say to you that in this particular situation we are asking you now for your complete cooperation. While you are here in the city, we ask that you plan where you may stay those two nights if you are a Monday-Tuesday night person, or three nights if you come in on Sunday.

There is one item that will definitely have to be discussed here sometime today. We hope to have a conference with Mr. Johnson, Mr. Tompkins, the Speaker and the Chief Clerk, different ones here, as to the plans for Monday night, perhaps changing that to another date in the week. Whatever date is decided upon will be agreeable with me. Mr. Bower, in talking to me, made some very sensible suggestions regarding the safety and welfare of our Members and I believe they should be considered.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, all I can say is that we will be here. It is our plan to complete by Friday all of the work of the House. The Senate has just reported 100 bills out of the Appropriations Committee. They are moving out in the Senate, and everything that has been agreed to is as scheduled, as to time.

Mr. Speaker, the last day for House bills on the House Calendar—bills that are to go any place this Session—is Tuesday. If it is past that date, you know yourself it is just there to ride the wave and is not going too far, because it does not take long to figure out the legislative days up to a certain point—provided we do not come back sometime late, and act on other bills. But I assume we will come to the completion of the legislative matters of this Session on the following Friday and that the bulk of the work of the calendar will be cleaned up.

Now there are several conference committees that are yet out. I ask all the conference committees appointed, and those that will be appointed today to act promptly. The Senate is acting very quickly. They stated they will act immediately where they have to on some of them, and make arrangements for the two conference committees to meet either Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday of next week. In some cases the conference committees will be appointed in name prior to official action by motions, in order to finish it up.

With that, Mr. Speaker, I feel a little better today, except I can say—and did to the hotel management last night—that I think the way they operate that hotel stinks, and I told them so personally.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. REIDENBACH asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Liquor Control to meet during the session of the House.

INTERROGATION

Mr. ISAACS asked and obtained unanimous consent to interrogate Mr. McCann.

Mr. Speaker, I was in a meeting and I did not hear all that the Majority Leader said, as to the Penn Harris Hotel in particular. If I stayed in the Penn Harris Hotel without taking up any more room than would now ensue, would the Majority Leader object?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I have no objection. I also stay at the hotel. What I stated was that Senator Berger and I met with the managements of the three hotels three weeks before in setting up our schedule. In fact, we have been doing that continually; I know they have conventions after you go into the September period. At that time they informed us they would take care of the Members who stayed there regularly, but did not have suites for the week of November 16; that is, Monday and Tuesday. But as I stated here yesterday on the floor, I got a call from the management of the hotel to inform me that they were cancelling out the rooms. I think if you had checked with some of your Members last night. You would have found their tempers were also a little, shall we say, "irritated". They were told the previous night, "Don't worry, your room is there." Then when they checked last night, they were told. "We are sorry but you will not have a room."

All I ask is the cooperation of the Members in securing motel space for two nights. The hotel will take care of you on Wednesday. I have no objections if you stay there—I hope you do, sir. More power to you.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, this is not criticizing the Majority Leader as to the tempers of some people. I think my temper, generally speaking, is bad anyway. I thank the Majority Leader.

STATEMENT BY SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The Chair, while the committee is out, might presume on the patience of the House.

We noted that the Majority Leader said there might not be a sine die resolution, and that he was against that idea. Well, 36 years ago it happened that the person who is now Speaker began campaigning against the idea of legislative sine die resolutions. He said back there in those days that a legislative body that committed suicide, he thought, was crazy. A Legislature in session all of the time would be an abomination. A Legislature in being, the Chair has always held has one of the basic presumptions of laying the foundation of our government. If there is any hope that there will not be a sine die resolution, we can mark that battle of 36 years as finished.

On our agenda, for realization, I think, about 1980, is a Commonwealth Legislative Guest House, which will be at the disposal of Members of this House and their friends, so that there is not this hassle about a room. I do not think you will get that soon, but I am putting it on my schedule for 1980, and I hope you will live long enough to help us get it.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, at this time all of the committees have completed their actions. We would like to have reports of Committees and then a break for lunch.

Mr. Speaker, I ask that the Members do not leave here until an agreement is reached as to the length of the recess. With the approval of the Minority Leader I am going to ask for a recess of one hour, and ask that we start the House promptly one hour following the recess.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, following the recess controversial bills will come up in order.

The SPEAKER. The Chair now declares a recess of one hour.

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired, the House was called to order.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR.

RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS

Messrs. R. P. JOHNSON, BRENNINGER, WILLAREDT, T. H. W. JONES and Mrs. HENZEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to offer a resolution and for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read as follows:

In the House of Representatives, November 11, 1959.

The top golfer in the General Assembly, Morton H. Fetterolf, Jr., has had another honor bestowed upon him. The gentleman from Montgomery County who defeated all comers at the annual General Assembly Golf Tournament at the West Shore Country Club in August was elected president of the Philadelphia Golf Association on November 10, 1959. The one-time golf writer of the defunct Evening Ledger was elevated to this position from the vice presidency where he served for the past year.

This association which encompasses most of the golf clubs in the Philadelphia area couldn't have selected a better man. We here in the House of Representatives, know of the great job that Morton has done in representing his constituents and the people of Pennsylvania. We are sure that he will do the same in his new position; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives congratulate Morton H. Fetterolf, Jr., not only for winning the General Assembly golf trophy but upon his election to the presidency of the Philadelphia Golf Association; and be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be presented to Mr. Fetterolf.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

The SPEAKER. The Chair is of the opinion that a resolution of this import should not be adopted without at least a trifle of enlightening debate.

The Chair is of the opinion that the House should be informed as to whether this gentleman deserves any credit for licking the golfers in the House because perhaps they were all duffers. Perhaps they did not know anything about golf, and he gets this honor by default.

If he deserves this honor, of course, the House should confer it.

Has anybody anything to say about this resolution?

Mr. STECKEL. Mr. Speaker, I think this is indeed a signal honor that a Republican is elected to something in Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will admit that that is an argument. Are there any further observations?

Mr. SCHWARTZ. Mr. Speaker, I was on the golf committee—

The SPEAKER. That is a confession.

Mr. SCHWARTZ. That is a confession because I was only "on" it. I will explain what that means.

Mr. Fetterolf has been playing golf, to my knowledge, since he was about seven or eight years of age. In fact, the sticks that he uses represent how long he has been playing golf.

He rang a system in on us in this tournament called the "Calloway System." It was necessary because we did not know whether we could trust some of the Members who were going to play golf so far as turning in handicaps was concerned. But we did have an experience with Mr. Fetterolf last year. He won the tournament, as I remember, the year before and he was very fortunate in this particular play this Session because his playing was a little off. But, under this wonderful system that we used, there is no question that Mr. Fetterolf won the golf tournament. I attribute it to the fact that being a Republican from Montgomery County he has had a great deal of time to devote to the wonderful sport.

I would say that he is the best golfer, by far, in this House, and he is entitled to the honor that has been bestowed upon him by the resolution. He is a number one golfer in our House of Representatives, and I think we should unanimously pass the resolution, especially in view of the fact that he has now been made the President of the Golf Association.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, to further amplify your remarks with respect to this resolution, I happened to put my name down as one of the contestants in this contest at West Shore that day, and recalling the story that came out a week or so ago about President Eisenhower at Rheims, it seems to me that I and a lot of the other Members here who chose to do battle with the champion, Mort Fetterolf, were on the golf course, all right, but we did not play golf either.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was unanimously adopted.

The SPEAKER. The ayes have it and Fetterolf wins by a stroke.

The Chair recognizes the beloved champion, Mr. Fetterolf.

Mr. FETTERHOLF. Mr. Speaker, I take this signal honor with great humility.

I should also like to report that it was called to my attention and part of the wording of the story which appears this morning in a Philadelphia newspaper relative to my election to the Presidency of the Philadelphia Golf Association identifies me as being a one-time golf writer for the defunct Evening Public Ledger. I want to assure those of you who are in doubt that I did not contribute to the bankruptcy of the Evening Ledger.

RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS

Mrs. B. Z. MILLER, Mrs. KERNAGHAN, Mrs. DON-AHUE, Mrs. HENZEL and Mrs. MARKLEY asked and obtained unanimous consent to offer a resolution and for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, November 11, 1959.

One of the distaff members of this House has recently been highly honored by her election as a member of the Hall of Fame of the Young Republicans of Pennsylvania.

Established in 1958, the Young Republican Hall of Fame honors prominent citizens of this Commonwealth who served in local and State Young Republican affairs earlier in their careers.

Mrs. Kooker, the first woman to be elected to the Hall of Fame by the Young Republicans began her political career in the first organized group of Young Republicans in Bucks County.

For many years prior to her election in 1954 as a member of the General Assembly, Mrs. Kooker held major offices in the Republican Women's Council, the Bucks County Republican Committee and in religious, civic and fraternal groups. In 1957 she was awarded a citation from the Quakertown Business and Professional Women's Club as the Quakertown "outstanding business woman."

A native of Harrisburg where she attended the public schools, she has resided in Quakertown, Bucks County for many years and is presently associated with her husband in the Kooker furniture store; therefore be it

Resolved, That the members of the House of Representatives, both individually and collectively, congratulate and commend Mrs. Kooker upon her election to the Hall of Fame of the Young Republicans of Pennsylvania and upon her many contributions and achievements to the better welfare of this Commonwealth and its citizens with the knowledge that she will continue to act for the people of this Commonwealth with distinction and serve as an inspiration for all of us; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be presented to Representative Kooker and copies sent to the Young Republican Club of Bucks County and to the Young Republican State headquarters in Harrisburg.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the lady from Bucks, Mrs. Kooker.

Mrs. KOOKER. Mr. Speaker, I very much appreciate the honor that has been conferred upon me by the Young Republicans of Pennsylvania. When I look over the delegation of Young Republicans who are Representatives on this side of the House, I hope they are the product of some of the effort, over the years, that we the older Members have accomplished through the Young Republican organization of Pennsylvania.

It is nice to have some of these honors, conferred upon you while you are still living, and I appreciate the honor and also this resolution.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. McCANN from the Committee on Rules, reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 1133, entitled:

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. O'NEIL and GARLOCK.

RESOLUTION No. 128

In the House of Representatives, November 11, 1959.

In 1905, the General Assembly appropriated funds for and authorized the erection of buildings in the Lancaster County area for the education of indigent orphan boys of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

In 1951, in addition to indigent orphans, the institution now known as the Thaddeus Stevens Trade School was authorized to receive "other deserving boys" for education and training.

The General Assembly appropriates considerable funds for the operation of the institution and the education of boys and now requires for its use comprehensive factual information concerning the admission of students to said institution with respect to preferences afforded orphans and deserving boys and whether or not residents of Pennsylvania who are financially able to pay for an education are received into the institution which results in the turning away of needy orphans; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to study and investigate admission practices, procedures and standards employed by the Thaddeus Stevens Trade School and the effect thereof on the admission of orphan children; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission report to the next regular session of the General Assembly its findings and recommendations with drafts of legislation necessary to carry the recommendations into effect.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

Section 8 That part of all appropriations in this act unexpended uncommitted and unencumbered as of May 31, 1961 shall automatically lapse as of that date.

Section 9. The provisions of this act shall be severable. If any provision of this act is found by a court of record to be unconstitutional and void the remaining provisions of the act shall nevertheless remain valid unless the court finds the valid provisions of the law are so essentially and inseparably connected with and depend upon the void provision that it cannot be presumed the Legislature would have enacted the remaining valid provisions without the void one or unless the court finds the remaining provisions standing alone are incomplete and are incapable of being executed in accordance with the legislative intent.

Section 10. No part of the appropriations made by this act shall be used to pay for hospital or institutional care or training at rates in excess of those charged to the general public for the same care and services.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the report of the Committee of Conference?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, this is a Conference Report on the General Appropriation bill.

I signed this bill as one of the Conferees, I might say reluctantly, and I did so only after direction of the Republican Members of this House.

Back on August 5 of this year, when we passed the four percent sales tax there were 18 Republican Members who voted for that bill because of the fact they were promised at that time that there was $28 million additional which would be provided from that revenue for educational purposes, over and above what was in the Governor's budget. That was a straw to which we tried to attach ourselves to get some moneys for House Bill 1108 which passed this chamber yesterday.

When we came to the Conference Committee on this bill we were suddenly informed that there was no $28 million, that by one means or another, or by one device or another the $28 million had vanished in thin air and there just was no such amount of money. That, of course, does not leave a very good taste in the mouths of those who voted for that tax measure with the understanding that there would be that amount of additional money available for education.

I made proposals as the Republican Conferee of the House to the Conference Committee as to how we could get that $28 million. They were all rejected. At least one of those proposals we thought was sound, but nevertheless it was rejected by the conferees. That left me no choice excepting with the approval of the Members, the Republican Members of the House, to refuse to sign this report, but realizing and facing stark reality, as we must at times, that the money had disappeared someplace, I signed this report because of the fact that we do need to get the necessary revenues for the general operation of the government of this Commonwealth.

Again the Republican Members of this House have endeavored to show some sense of responsibility in seeing that this government is operated and that it is operated in some responsible fashion. It is for that reason, and that reason alone, that I signed this report as one of the conferees, and I merely want this information to be a matter of record so when we look back upon it we can all understand that no matter how it may have happened, or by what device it may have happened, there were at least 18 Republican Members who were induced to vote for a sales tax for moneys which have vanished.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. POLEN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. I understand that a bill was reported out of the Rules Committee today with respect to an increase in the salaries of the judges of the Municipal Court of Philadelphia, and I am wondering whether or not there is any provision in this bill to cover that increase if it is passed.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, the amount for the judicial department of the Commonwealth is the amount that was requested by the Judiciary and is the amount in the budget and the amount in this bill. If there are any additional salary raises they are not included in the bill.

Mr. McCORMACK. Then if that salary bill is passed there will not be money to pay for it in this budget?

Mr. POLEN. Not unless an appropriation would be provided in the bill for it.

Mr. McCORMACK. I see. Now with respect to the—I believe it is the $6000 dollar appropriation for the investigation of the Department of Public Instruction . . .

Mr. POLEN. What is the question, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. McCORMACK. Was that agreed to or was that stricken out of this budget?

Mr. POLEN. That is in the Conference Report on House Bill 2326. The bills were presented and the amount has been agreed to.

Mr. McCORMACK. That is all. I thank the gentleman.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. FINEMAN asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Judiciary to meet during the session of the House.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 2428, entitled:

An Act amending the "State Highway Law" approved June 1, 1945 (P. L. 1242) authorizing adoption of a system for qualification of competent and responsible bidders on highway projects.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STRAUSSER. Mr. Speaker, I had not originally intended to say anything about this bill, but there seems to be quite a bit of misunderstanding and if I can help clear it up I will try to do so.

Actually, Mr. Speaker, I think House Bill No. 2428, Printer's No. 1874, is a good bill in that it will establish qualifications of bidders before bidding on a highway job. The bill intends to establish pre-qualifications of bidders on highway work. Actually, in my opinion, I think this bill would save much embarrassment to low bidders in the event that after being low bidders they discover that they are not qualified to do the work, and having their bid rejected because of that reason, because of not being qualified by not having sufficient equipment, not being qualified because of a poor job done a year or two before relating to the past record. This intends to set up qualifications on experience; certainly we want experienced highway contractors to build our highways. It intends to pre-qualify a bidder on personnel and organization. Contractors with experienced supervision, inexperienced personnel, certainly cannot do the job that is required of them. Financial conditions, the bonding companies naturally see to it that a contractor has sufficient financial backing to complete a job before they will award a contract. So, I see nothing wrong with that being included in the pre-qualification of a bidder.

In fact I am pretty certain that these pre-qualifications have been set up under previous administrations. How they did it, I did not think that was necessary, but I do remember that qualifications have been set up during previous administrations, not only on highway construction but on all state work. Actually, I think the bill is good in every respect and I do not think that any contractor or anyone else has any room to object to the provisions of this bill. I urge that the House vote in favor of it.

Mr. COMER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to add a couple of brief remarks to what the gentleman said.

This new feature has been added to this bill that will allow the constructors in the highway business to come in and sit down with the Highway Department and formulate the program.

There is a little bit of a switch in that. When this section was in 1702 which was defeated in the House, there was a point raised that if the Secretary of Highways had too much power and if he did not like a contractor or a constructor he could toss his bid out. With the constructors in there with the Secretary of Highways setting up the pre-qualifications, I feel that all this would be overcome. I ask the Members on both sides of the House to vote for the bill.

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, this particular bill represents a new concept in the administration of state government. It is a special privilege for a special group—the Constructors' Association of the State of Pennsylvania.

Why should this particular group be the consultant with the Secretary of Highways? If some little man wants to go into the contracting business, he will be out of luck completely. If the Secretary of Highways wants to establish a set of regulations, he should do it. Once we have a system whereby the Secretary of Highways goes into a closed cabinet with the Constructors' Association of Pennsylvania, then you will have a closed shop so far as contractors are concerned.

In the long run, this will be to the detriment of the taxpayers and for the benefit of the Constructors' Association.

This is special legislation and we think it should be defeated.

Mr. STRAUSSER. Mr. Speaker, while the bill does invite the highway constructors to advise the Secretary, it also provides that any other parties in interest who have notified the Secretary of Highways in writing of such interest, shall by regulations established may from time to time modify them. So, it is not confined to a road building contractor.

Believe me, I am not a member of any contractors' association—I want that clear too—I do not build highways. So, I do not see where it is a closed shop, or can be classed as a closed shop bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE DISCHARGED

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the Committee of Conference appointed on House Bill No. 2100, Printers' No. 1639, be discharged and that the House recedes from its non-concurrence in the Senate Amendments, and concur in the amendments made by the Senate.

Mr. WORLEY. What page is this bill on in the calendar.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. This bill is not on the calendar.

Mr. WORLEY. This seems to be a new procedure to me have a roll call on a bill that is not on the calendar.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. This is not a bill, for the information of the gentleman.

Mr. WORLEY. It is an amendment though.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. It is not a bill.

Mr. WORLEY. We are taking a roll call on amendments on something that does not appear on the calendar.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. This bill was on the calendar. The amendments were presented by the Senate, and this is a motion to accept the amendments made by the Senate to abolish our previous motion to refuse to accept them.

Mr. WORLEY. May I ask, Mr. Speaker, when they were on the calendar, the amendments?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. House Bill 2100 was last on the calendar the week of September 22nd. It has been in the Members' files ever since.

Mr. WORLEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to be recorded as voting no.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will be recorded as voting no.

Mr. McCANN. There is nothing in order but the roll call, but I ask the Democrat Members of the House to sustain my position and vote aye. We need every single vote on 2100.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, there seems to be wholesale confusion as to just what is before this House.

As I understand it, we sent House Bill 2100 over to the Senate. When it got to the Senate they made certain additions to the bill, one of which is, I believe they are changing the tax on soft drinks from the source to the retail level. That is one of the amendments that is in the bill.

We first voted to non-concur in those amendments put in the bill by the Senate. Now we are being asked to go along with the Senate amendments. As I understand, putting the tax on soft drinks at the retail level is agreed upon by the industry and by the various leaders on both sides. I believe that with the confusion that exists here, without any further information being given to me, I think it would be well to concur in the amendments inserted by the Senate to the bill, as I understand it.

When the bill first went from the House over to the Senate it passed 198 to 1, I believe the main thing in the amendments inserted by the Senate is changing the tax on soft drinks from the source to the retail level.

In that connection I would like to interrogate the Majority Leader.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the Majority Leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. McCann, in order to clear up the confusion that exists with respect to this bill, just what amendments were inserted by the Senate to House Bill 2100 that we are now voting to concur in?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, when House Bill 2100 left the House it was called the "procedural sales tax bill," if you recall the discussion. At the time it went to the Senate there was a series of amendments put in. The amendments put in deal with the department store industry of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; amendments were put in which deal with the industrial amendments that had been discussed in a series of conferences for over six months; amendments were put in the bill dealing with clearing up the inspection of vehicles; amendments were put in dealing with soda pop. I believe I have covered the main points from my memory of the conference on the bill. Each of the sections of the bill were agreed to at that time except the soda pop section. They were checked very carefully as to their intent and content, and at this time we are receding from our position of non-concurring and are concurring in the bill.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. McCann, when we non-concurred in the Senate amendments for the first time, you say the reason for the non-concurrence was the fact that soft drinks would be taxed at the retail level rather than at the source. Was that the reason for the non-concurrence?

Mr. McCANN. Not exactly, Mr. Speaker. If you recall, when the bill left here the Senate Finance Committee handled all the amendments that went into it. There was a series, or a considerable number of amendments dealing with each different subject, and at that time in non-concurring we had to go to the Conference Committee to check out each of these as they pertained to different items. The soda pop tax was one item that was in the bill that was on non-concurrence. But, in non-concurring at that time, on this and other sections Mr. Speaker, no one had had an opportunity to go over and check every section dealing with each type of industry in the report.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, another question. When the bill came over here for concurrence, was it placed on our House calendar for concurrence or non-concurrence in the regular way, and is the bill, as amended, on our file with the printed copy?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the bill is on file on every Member's desk with the print number there. By the motion that I am making the print number you have of House Bill 2100 is the finished product.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate Mr. Lee on this, Austin Lee, one of the conferees.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lee, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. A. M. LEE. As an ex-conferee, I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, is there anything about the amendments inserted in the bill by the Senate that should be brought to the attention of this House before we vote on concurring in the Senate amendments today?

Mr. A. M. LEE. In answer to the gentleman's question, Mr. Speaker, I would merely confirm what Mr. McCann has said, that we went over each and every section in this bill very carefully in the Conference Committee with all the conferees present and there was an agreement on all these various technical amendments.

The major feature of the bill was the moving of the sales tax from the source to the retail level, and there was complete agreement on all these items involved in the bill.

Now I would be happy to get the bill before me and answer any specific question that you may have, but, as I have pointed out, they were mainly a long series of technical amendments to straighten out various problems in connection with the administration, enforcement and the impact of the sales tax.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, with that explanation, we would like to have as many as possible vote to concur in the Senate amendments.

Mr. STEWART. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the Majority Leader.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the Majority Leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I shall.

Mr. STEWART. Mr. Speaker, by concurring in these Senate amendments will there be any loss of revenue to the Commonwealth?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, there will not be loss to the Commonwealth, there will be additional revenue to the Commonwealth, sir.

Mr. STEWART. By how much?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, it is not assured as to total content of revenue yield, but it definitely will be in the vicinity of $2 million upward.

Mr. STEWART. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker. I would like to have a slow roll call on this.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lee.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lee, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. A. M. LEE. I shall, Mr. Speaker, and may I ask this question: Am I going to require a copy of the bill?

Mr. McCORMACK. I do not think you will need a copy of the bill to answer this question.

With respect to the impact of this tax on consumers of bottled or soft drinks, is the impact changed so that the consumers now have to pay it?

Mr. A. M. LEE. I would say, in answer to that, Mr. Speaker, that if the tax is on the product at whatever level, why ultimately the consumer would pay it. The moving of the tax to the retail level would mean that the tax would be separately paid at the time of purchase. On the other hand, if it is at the wholesale level at the present time, why then the tax is passed on to the consumer. So in either event the consumer pays for it.

Mr. McCORMACK. Let us take a hypothetical case. Suppose I buy a soda for fifteen cents. Under the present law is that taxable?

Mr. A. M. LEE. Not that particular transaction, no.

Mr. McCORMACK. Well, if this Conference Committee Report is passed, will it be taxable?

Mr. A. M. LEE. That particular transaction would be taxable, although in the first instance you would have a tax in the history of the product but it would have been paid at another level, the wholesale level.

Mr. McCORMACK. Well, if this Conference Report is passed now—

Mr. A. M. LEE. It is not a Conference Report.

Mr. McCORMACK. Right. If this bill is passed, and I went into a store and bought a fifteen cent bottle of soft drink, would I now have to pay the tax to the person from whom I purchased it?

Mr. A. M. LEE. That would depend on whether you bought it as part of a restaurant meal or whether you bought it—

Mr. McCORMACK. Well, you do not buy a bottle of soft drink as part of a restaurant meal.

Mr. A. M. LEE. You can buy a soft drink as part of a restaurant meal.

Mr. McCORMACK. I am talking about walking into a corner store—

Mr. A. M. LEE. If you go in and buy just a bottle of soft drink and you pay fifteen cents for it, it is my understanding that under this bill it would be subject to the tax.

Mr. McCORMACK. Thank you.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. WORLEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to make a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. WORLEY. Can this House pass a bill that does not appear on the calendar for that day? Is there any authority in the state Constitution, in the decisions of this House or the Rules of this House that gives this House the authority to pass a bill that does not appear on the calendar on the particular day it is passed?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question before the House now is not the passage of the bill, but whether or not the House will discharge its committee of conference. We are not voting on the bill itself.

Mr. WORLEY. Well, Mr. Speaker, I will amend my question to state, then, whether we have the right to pass the Senate amendments, or the receding from concurrence, and then taking a roll call vote without it appearing on the calendar? My inquiry is that I do not know of any authority in the state Constitution, in the decisions of the House or in the Rules of the House to give this House the authority to do what we are trying to do now with this bill before the House.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will read Section 5 of Article 3 of the Constitution for the information for the gentleman.

Vote on Concurring in Amendments; Reports of Committees of Conference. No amendment to bills by one House, shall be concurred in by the other except by the vote of a majority of the members elected thereto, taken by yeas and nays, and the names of those voting for and against recorded upon the journal thereof; and reports of committees of conference shall be adopted by either House only by the vote of a majority of the members elected thereto, taken by yeas and nays, and the names of those voting recorded upon the journals.

That is precisely what the House is presently doing.

Mr. WORLEY. And, Mr. Speaker, is it your decision that we have that power when we have never voted on the amendments before?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. We voted to nonconcur in the amendments before. We are now seeking to reverse that.

Mr. WORLEY. But we did not take a roll call vote when we nonconcurred, did we, Mr. Speaker? Now we are attempting to take a roll call vote on something not on the calendar.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. It only requires a roll call vote when we concur; when we nonconcur the roll call vote is not required—unless asked for by the Members.

Mr. WORLEY. I agree with that. But here we are trying to take a roll call vote that was not taken before, and the bill is not on today's calendar.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The bill is on the Members' desks before them now, and has been there since September. There is no requirement in the Constitution that the bill be on the calendar.

Mr. WORLEY. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

A verification of the roll was requested by Mr. STEWART, Mrs. KOOKER and Mr. HORST.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

SENATE MESSAGES

SENATE ADOPTS REPORTS OF COMMITTEES OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE BILLS

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has adopted the report of the Committee of Conference on the subject of the differences existing between the two Houses on House Bills numbered and entitled as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 1746.

An Act making an appropriation to the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority.

HOUSE BILL No. 1748.

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Commerce for housing and redevelopment assistance.

HOUSE BILL No. 2326.

An Act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Executive Legislative and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth interest on the public debt and for public schools for two years beginning June 1, 1959 and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal year ending May 31, 1959.

SENATE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION RECALLING SENATE BILL No. 374 FROM GOVERNOR

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, November 11, 1959.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), that Senate Bill No. 374, Printer's No. 401, entitled "An act amending the act of May 28, 1931 (P. L. 202), entitled 'An act providing for the licensing and regulation of motor boats operated or navigated upon any public stream, artificial or natural body of water or non-tidal waters of any river within the Commonwealth conferring powers and imposing duties on certain police officers and the Board of Fish Commissioners including the enforcement of certain existing laws and prescribing penalties,' changing the license year to commence the first day of January each year," be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of further consideration.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,
Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?
It was concurred in.
Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,
The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 2404, entitled:

An Act repealing Section 8, act of July 5, 1957 (P. L. 479), entitled "An act providing for the construction, erection and maintenance of roadside rests adjacent to State highway routes," abolishing certain requirements.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. DAVIS. I wanted to inform the House that this is legislation which I had a hand in getting through several sessions ago. I had originally taken a rather dim view of this particular bill. I have studied it very carefully and have gone over it more completely. I am convinced we will be better off to vote "Aye" on it and I so recommend.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,
The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 10, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 24, 1939 (P. L. 872), entitled "The Penal Code," changing the method for determining the penalty to be imposed for the crime of murder of the first degree.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, it has been pointed out that this is an important bill. I agree in that respect. I would like to say very briefly a few words about this bill.

In Pennsylvania, in the first place, in every crime except murder it is not proper to introduce evidence of prior offenses except in certain instances where the defendant may take the stand, and then certain crimes can be introduced to attack his credibility. However, in the crime of murder, whether or not the defendant takes the stand, we have permitted evidence showing prior offenses even before the jury decides whether he is guilty of the offenses with which he is charged.

I think most people who have studied this situation agree that it is a very unfair thing to permit the defendant's record to be thrown into evidence before he is even found guilty of the offense with which he is charged, if it is murder in the first degree or any degree. I believe this is recognized by the Supreme Court: as a matter of fact, the Supreme Court in certain opinions has recommended that this particular bill be adopted.

Under the present law, the jury is bound to be swayed by evidence of prior offenses which may have nothing to do with the offense the defendant is charged with. As I said, this system has been criticized by a great many people and, I might add, a number of states have this present law that is considered in this bill; also the Armed Forces have this system of first deciding whether or not the person is guilty before you decide what penalty should be imposed.

This proposal, incidentally, was carefully studied by a very select subcommittee of the Joint State Government Commission back in 1949, and the Committee, consisting of many judges and other persons such as law school deans and so on, recommend that this bill be adopted. This bill did pass both the House and Senate twice previously, in '47 and '49, and it also passed the House in '51. It was vetoed by Governor Duff when it passed both Houses as part of a new criminal code in 1949. The veto had nothing to do with this particular measure and the criminal code itself was vetoed for another reason not being part of this bill, I think it is a very fair, equitable and just bill and will definitely result in a greater degree of justice for defendants in criminal cases. I hope everyone can vote for the bill.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I agree to a great extent with what the gentleman from Delaware said about the merits of the bill.

The reason I rise is to question certain provisions in this bill. I am thinking specifically of the radical innovation that this bill would provide where the jury returns a finding of guilty of murder in the first degree. The bill further provides that in that case the jury, after receiving certain relevant information with respect to the character of the defendant and also receives his prior record, if he had one, then goes out the second time, under proper instructions from the judge, and determines the penalty that such defendant shall receive.

The bill provides further that in the event the jury disagrees and cannot reach a verdict, and, of course, there is a requirement that the verdict be unanimous under our law—as to whether or not the defendant shall be sentenced to death or to life imprisonment—it then gives the court the right to discharge the jury and it gives the judge the further right and duty to impose a sentence of life imprisonment.

There is no provision in the bill, of course, that in such a situation the defendant should not be ineligible for parole prior to the expiration of the life sentence, which is something I think ought to be considered.

I am wondering whether or not there have been any court decisions with respect to the right of the court to impose a sentence where a defendant under the Constitution of Pennsylvania is entitled to a jury trial and whether or not that provision is negated by virtue of the fact that the judge is the one who sentences him to life imprisonment, and not the jury that was impanelled to try the case. I have not heard any arguments for or against that, but I certainly think it is something that the House should be enlightened upon, because the defendant being entitled to a jury trial is really not in effect getting a jury trial with respect to the penalty, inasmuch as the judge, where they disagree, is the one who imposes the life sentence.

I think for that reason it might possibly be wise to further study the bill. Outside of that I think the bill has a lot of merit, and I agree, as I said before, with what the gentleman from Delaware said.

Mr. DEVLIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to concur completely in the remarks of Mr. Lippincott concerning this bill. I rise further to disagree partially with my colleague from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack.

The defendant definitely has a trial by jury, the verdict is returned, he is found guilty, and then it becomes a question of sentence. Under existing law the jury has to impose the sentence as either death or life imprisonment. Under this bill, if the jury could not agree as to whether the sentence would be death or life imprisonment, the court is authorized to impose life imprisonment. In other words, it is akin to the situation where the defendant remains mute and it is interpreted under the law as a plea of not guilty.

This is good legislation that our appellate courts have for years by obiter dicta insisted that the Legislature consider and requested that the Legislature pass. This bill was inserted into the General Assembly this Session at the request of, and after a thorough study by, the District Attorneys' Association, which a meeting of my colleague, Mr. Tompkins, and I attended the summer before last. This is the result of a lot of thinking and a lot of work and court opinion. I think we should, and I would ask the House to support the bill unanimously.

Mr. A. J. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, I certainly agree with the statements made by the previous speaker, but I may misunderstand the bill.

It appears to me—and I would like to be corrected if I am wrong—that this designates a duty upon the jury in a first degree murder trial to go back into conference and designate whether the man should face the death penalty or life in prison.

Then it states on line 3, page 4, of the bill, if the jury's deliberation fails to reach an agreement, then the court shall—and it imposes a mandatory "shall"—impose a life sentence. This would indicate to me that the court could then not, after the jury's deliberation impose a death sentence which would, in effect, eliminate capital punishment if the jury fails to recommend it themselves. It would mean then you take the complete discretion away from the trial judge. Should you have one squeamish person on the jury who finds that a rapist or a murderer should not be given the death penalty, then the court could not impose such a penalty. I think this is a first step in eliminating capital punishment in Pennsylvania, and I do not hesitate to say that I am in favor of capital punishment and would oppose the abolition of that punishment here in Pennsylvania. Should this be the first step, then I am opposed to this bill.

Mr. SCHWARTZ. Mr. Speaker, the only thing that I want to bring to the attention of the Members of the House is that if you had a squeamish person on the jury, you would never get a conviction in the first place.

Mr. A. J. MURPHY. I have had the misfortune of trying a first degree murder trial with one squeamish woman and it resulted in a compromise verdict of second degree murder, Mr. Speaker. I know quite often the squeamish jurors will compromise their own beliefs and come out with a lesser degree but would hold out forever on a capital punishment or death punishment.

Mr. WORLEY. Mr. Speaker, if Senate Bill No. 10, Printer's No. 10, will reduce the application of the death penalty in this Commonwealth, I certainly think we should pass it at this time.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I do not think this bill has anything at all to do with the abolition of the death penalty or sustaining the present law concerning the death penalty. It merely gives the defendant a fair trial, which he is entitled to, and there is no arguing with the fact that the introduction of evidence that bears upon a man's prior convictions influences the minds of jurors in determining the innocence or guilt of the defendant.

I urge all the Members of this House to vote for the bill.

SENATE MESSAGE

SENATE INSISTS ON AMENDMENTS NON-CONCURRED IN BY THE HOUSE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has insisted upon its amendments, non-concurred in by the House of Representatives, to House Bill No. 2268, entitled:

An Act prohibiting mining in certain areas without prior approval by the Department of Mines and Mineral Industries establishing standards for the approval of plans for mining in such areas imposing powers and duties on the mine foremen and the Department of Mines and Mineral Industries and providing penalties.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House insist upon its non-concurrence in the amendments made and insisted upon by the Senate and that a Committee of Conference be appointed.

The motion was agreed to.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE BILL No. 2268

The SPEAKER. The Chair appoints as a Committee of Conference on the part of the House, Messrs. MUSTO, MEHOLCHICK and JUMP.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

SENATE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION RECALLING SENATE BILL No. 298 FROM GOVERNOR

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, November 9, 1959.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), that Senate Bill No. 298, Printer's No. 1489, entitled "An act making an appropriation out of the fish fund to the Pennsylvania Fish Commission for expenses of a modern engineering and biological survey," be recalled from the Governor for further consideration.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate? It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

APPROVAL OF HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION RECALLING HOUSE BILL No. 1897 FROM GOVERNOR

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, October 26, 1959.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed House Concurrent Resolution recalling from the Governor House Bill No. 1897, Printer's No. 1657, for further consideration.

Accordingly, the original bill is herewith returned.

DAVID L. LAWRENCE.

COMMUNICATION AND BILL LAID ON TABLE

Mr. BOWMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the communication from the Governor together with the bill be laid on the table.

The motion was agreed to.

RESOLUTION

DISCHARGING COMMITTEE ON HOUSE BILL No. 962

Mr. GOLDSTEIN offered a resolution which was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, November 11, 1959.

Resolved, That House Bill No. 962, entitled "An act amending the act of June 30, 1947 (P. L. 1161) 'An act to provide for the prompt, peaceful and just settlement of labor disputes between public utility employers engaged in furnishing electric, gas, water and steam heat services to the public and their employes which cause or threaten to cause strikes, lockouts, slow-downs or similar work stoppages and consequent interruptions in the supply of a public utility service on which a community served is so dependent that severe hardship would be inflicted on a substantial number of persons by a cessation of such service; providing procedures for the adjustment and settlement of such disputes, declaring that the public policy of the Commonwealth requires the continuation without cessation of such public utility services and providing means, including regulations affecting the rights, powers and privileges of employers and employes for the enforcement of such public policy and providing penalties' including public transportation by trolley or motor bus within the definition of public utility, restating the policy of the act and designating additional parties who may request a mediation," having been referred to the Committee on Labor Relations on March 31, 1959 and the committee not having reported the same to the House for a period of over ten days, the committee is discharged from further consideration thereof.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, a brief summary of House Bill No. 962 is as follows:

By the Act of 1947 mediation and arbitration procedures were set up for the benefit of the public to settle strikes in electricity, gas, water and steam heat. This particular House Bill 962 extends the provisions of the Act to trolley lines and bus lines. It also makes it possible not only for labor and management to initiate the procedure, but also the mayor of a city or any one hundred citizens.

This bill has been introduced because in 1957 in the city of Pittsburgh we had a long and protracted street car strike. On December 8th, of this year, there is a possibility of another strike. If this bill is passed the newly elected mayor of the city of Pittsburgh would have statutory authority to request the Governor of this state to appoint a mediator. Under this bill the appointment of a mediator is at the sound discretion of the Governor. We feel that the Governor of the state and the mayor of any city should be armed with statutory power to protect the general public, where the general public is being damaged to the degree where it is a hardship upon the people generally.

We ask for a slow roll call on this particular resolution.

The SPEAKER. Would the gentleman from Allegheny accept a standing roll call?

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. No. I ask for a slow roll call, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, concerning the discharge resolution presented by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein, I have checked with the Chairman of the Committee on Labor Relations and the Committee, and that gentleman has asked me to ask all the Members on this side of the House to oppose the motion to discharge the committee from further consideration of the bill.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. GOLDSTEIN and DONALDSON and were as follows:

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1560, entitled:

An Act amending "The Administrative Code of 1929" approved April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177) further regulating the price to be paid for State forest lands.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. GOODRICH. Mr. Speaker, this bill was defeated several weeks ago and since then there have been efforts to amend the bill to make it satisfactory to all concerned. Insofar as most of the rural areas of Pennsylvania, the bill is no better than it was before. The reasons as stated before apply to it now, and I ask the House to vote against the bill.

Mr. RENWICK. Mr. Speaker, I, too, want to concur with what Mr. Goodrich said. I think most of you people are familiar with this bill for we debated it at length some time ago. This, I want you to bear in mind, increases the price that the Department of Forests and Waters can pay for land. It increases it from $10 an acre to $50 an acre, and that, to me, is what we are opposed to. So, I ask you again to defeat this bill.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I am not going to repeat the debate upon this bill which was made several weeks ago. I merely want to concur in what the gentlemen from Potter and Elk have said about it and ask that you vote against the bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LOPRESTI IN THE CHAIR

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1976, entitled:

An Act relating to the public practice of certified public real estate valuers providing for the certification of persons desiring to practice and the listing of persons engaged in practicing as certified public real estate valuers and for the suspension and revocation of such certificates subject to appeal and for their reinstatement * * * defining unlawful acts and acts not unlawful and providing penalties.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SILVERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I just want to say that this bill does not change the existing law in any way. Anybody who has been an appraiser or who does any appraising as a real estate broker can still appraise. The only thing that we do add is that with additional educational requirements he can become a certified public valuator.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. SILVERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the final passage postponed calendar. The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE POSTPONED

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. McCANN.

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 2388, entitled:

An Act amending the "State Highway Law" approved June 1, 1945 (P. L. 1242) authorizing acquisition of property necessary for present or future highway purposes.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. A. M. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. A. M. LEE asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 222), page 4, line 9, by inserting after "moving": "Provided, however, That no relocation hereunder shall be in violation of any local zoning ordinance, but in the absence of any such ordinances may only be made with the approval of the local political subdivision to which the building or structure is to be moved."

Amend Sec. 1, (Sec. 226), page 5, line 16, by striking out "But" and inserting: "Provided however."

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 226), page 5, line 17, by striking out "may" where it appears the first time, and inserting: "shall."

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 226), page 5, line 17, by striking out "orders" and inserting: "order."

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 226), page 5, line 17, by inserting after "just": "to compensate such owner for any loss occasioned by such condemnation, physical entry and subsequent relinquishment."

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 226), page 5, line 19, by inserting after "all": "such."

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 242), page 11, lines 2 to 6, by striking out "may pay the owner or if the owner refuses to ac" in line 2, all of lines 3 to 6, and inserting: "shall, prior to taking possession of the property, offer to pay to a claimant having clear title or pay into the court having jurisdiction thereof in the manner to be provided by the rules of court, a sum equal to seventy-five per cent of the amount estimated by the department as the damages which will result from such condemnation. The court shall pay the money to the person entitled thereto upon petition and proof of such entitlement. The amount of money paid into the court shall be taken into consideration in determining the amount of any bond authorized or required by law to be tendered in such proceeding. Payments made pursuant to this section shall not prejudice the rights of the parties to have the true damages determined in appropriate proceedings. Any payments made pursuant to this act shall be credited upon the award and final judgment provided such award and judgment is in a greater amount. Any payments made in excess of the award and final judgment shall be refunded. Interest on the award of damages shall be limited to the amount, if any, by which the amount of money paid as herein required is less than the award and final judgment."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 22, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30) entitled "Public School Code of 1949" authorizing payments to joint school boards and joint school committees by the Commonwealth.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, I was standing here to make a parliamentary inquiry. If it is not in order at this time, I will make it after this bill has been passed.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. If the gentleman will state his question of parliamentary inquiry the Chair can rule whether or not it is out of order.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, there is a lot of dissatisfaction around me, and that includes this speaker, that a roll call of 183 votes is being used, when we have 140 votes on the floor of this House. It certainly is nothing more than subterfuge and I for one object to seeing bills passed like that.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. If the gentleman desires the Chair will order an accurate roll call on this particular vote, but as long as there is no objection—

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, not only on this roll call but on future roll calls. Let us use a figure that is commensurate with the Members we have in this House.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, any bill that is controversial in any way has been acted on. Many of these Senate Bills have been cleared all the way through as non-controversial and I hope that the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Isaacs, would go along. Any bill that he wants to be passed over, we will pass over.

We are trying to finish up. Everyone knows that the roll call was accurate as to the attendance here today, so I would appreciate his cooperation in this request.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, I have no objection to using an accurate roll call. Let us establish one and use it, but let us not use a roll call of 183 votes.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would suggest to the gentleman that it is difficult to establish an accurate roll call because the roll varies on each bill. Members are in and out at all hours and all stages of the Session.

Mr. ISAACS. We have had a number of them. Mr. Speaker, and the last one, I believe there were 141 people here.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 24, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 1, 1956 (P. L. 1944) entitled "An act providing a permanent allocation of a part of the fuels and liquid fuels tax proceeds to cities boroughs incorporated towns and townships for their road street and bridge purposes . . ." continuing a conditional appropriation beyond the calendar year of 1959 making an additional allocation and appropriation to municipalities.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, Senate Bill 24, for example is a bill which places into permanent law the base dealing with allocation of gasoline tax funds. The "floor" rather is the right word in the allocation of gasoline tax funds to our municipalities.

The bill also provides that if any increases are made in the gasoline tax the municipalities get a percentage of that tax. This is permanent law and I know of no opposition to the bill in any way because we all favor the allocation of gasoline tax money to our cities, boroughs, towns, townships and so forth. This is a permanent law allocation and I know all of us favor this legislation.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. FARABAUGH asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, when the House convenes tomorrow morning I will raise the question of a quorum, and I will then make a motion that those people who are absent without leave shall be brought in.

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack rise?

Mr. McCORMACK. To ask for a leave of absence for tomorrow, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. If the gentleman will consent to have either his leg or his jaw broken, leave of absence is granted.

Mr. HOLLIDAY. Mr. Speaker, I would just like to say that I concur in everything my colleague Mr. Farabaugh said about using the first roll call of the day when we only have about 150 Members here today. There has been a lot of talk during this session about absentees and absentee voting. I think we are voting about 50 people or more today who are not here. Now, in order to save time, though, I am perfectly willing to use a fast roll call on Senate Bill 132.

The SPEAKER. Of course, every Member of the House knows that on any roll call any Member has the right to ask for a verification of the roll.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection

Senate Bill No. 74, Printer's No. 279 was passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 132, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Department of Public Welfare with the approval of the Board of Trustees of the Hollidaysburg State Hospital to contract with the Borough of Hollidaysburg and the Hollidaysburg Sewer Authority for improvements and extensions to the sewerage collection system and treatment plant and the use thereof by the Hollidaysburg State Hospital and the payment of part of the cost and maintenance thereafter and making an appropriation.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House of Representatives has passed the same without amendment.

The SPEAKER. Tomorrow the mileage checks will be available for distribution to those who are here.

STATEMENT BY THE MINORITY LEADER

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, since Mr. Farabaugh made his declaration of intention I have been kind of mulling over in my mind just what kind of a day we will have tomorrow.

When you were talking about picking up mileage checks it gave me an opportunity. If the motion is made and obviously there is not a quorum, he says that he will even go further and move that the absentee Members be brought in.

I can see what that would entail. That would mean that we would lock the doors of the House and sit here and wait for Members to be brought in from Erie and elsewhere. So I think if the motion is made, instead of you people checking out of the hotels and saying that you will not be there tomorrow night, you had better arrange to be in the hotel tomorrow night because I have been here when we have done that very thing and sometimes it becomes a two-day ordeal. But we should at least instruct the Chief Clerk to send wires to all these people tonight that are not here now so that they will have an opportunity to come in here in an orderly fashion and we can proceed tomorrow without delay and not have to wait here while the absentees are being brought in.

The SPEAKER. Might the Chair reply to the Minority Leader?

We only lock the doors and sit here when there is an absence of a quorum. We can have 190 Members in the House and still send for the absentees. As long as we have a quorum we can do business and send for the absentees also.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I thank you for that information.

Now what do you think of the suggestion that the Chair instruct the Chief Clerk to send out wires to these people so they will be here tomorrow?

The SPEAKER. I think it is a very good suggestion that the absentees be notified in adequate fashion that their presence in the House tomorrow will be urgently desired.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, along that line, I am just thinking about maybe asking to revoke the leaves of absence for some five or seven Members who are in Puerto Rico and that you have the Majority Leader, the Minority Leader, the Minority Whip and the Majority Whip delegated as the proper officers to go to Puerto Rico and bring them back.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to say that having sent for and notified the Members in Puerto Rico to be here, if they are not here when they return from their happy jaunt, if we want to censure them and the House so desires, the House can, under the Rules, impose its penalty as it may desire.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, all I would really like to say is, instead of sending me to Puerto Rico to bring back those Members who officially have a leave on official business down there in the Council of Governments meeting, whatever it is, in San Juan, Puerto Rico, I have only one place I want to go to. I want to get done and go home to my wife and my family.

So let us move on with the calendar.

The SPEAKER. It will be within the bounds of possibility, after a careful examination of the powers inherent in the Chair and the Chief Clerk that the Majority Leader can be delegated as a special sergeant-at-arms to go to Puerto Rico and produce the bodies in the Hall of the House of the people that are there.

Mr. FARABAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to just make a brief statement and since the Majority Leader is so urgently trying to get through with the work, I will make it very brief.

I would like to say to the Minority Leader that he might consider himself lucky that I did not do this a week or so ago, as far as he is concerned.

In regard to sending out telegrams I think every Member of this House got a notice last week what the session was this week and it is their duty to be here.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. GELFAND asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. SPEAKER, I wish to continue the discussion along the vein in which it has started.

In going over the calendar today I find we have a dearth of important bills left over for us to act upon tomorrow. Inasmuch as we obviously can clear this calendar tonight if we sit here and do so, I cannot see any necessity to make Members who have gone home already and those of us who think there is nothing important to do tomorrow to remain for a session because of the obstinate stubbornness of the leadership.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is not committed to that particular form of view and in the opinion of the Speaker, he considers it due to the longevity of the Session.

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, I am aware that I am being a little intemperate in my remarks but sometimes circumstances call for intemperateness.

I can see no need for us to sit here tomorrow when obviously the calendar is going to be very, very sparse. I think if we would come here next week, that type of legislation and the type of activity that we can perform tomorrow could easily be done on Monday.

We wasted a great deal of time today. We wasted a great deal of time yesterday and if we come here tomorrow, obviously we will do the same thing.

I think it is a burden on most of the Members of this House to be here under circumstances such as that, and I, therefore, at the end of this day's Session am going to make a motion to adjourn this House until next Monday.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman from Philadelphia—

The SPEAKER. The Chair did not hear the gentleman from Philadelphia.

Mr. McCANN. I did, Mr. Speaker.

If the gentleman from Philadelphia has the plans all worked out so lovely, he knows all of the schedule on House bills, and all those from Committee that can be worked out in that time, then Mr. Speaker, he certainly can fulfill that schedule and all the bills that are moving right out.

Tomorrow is just as important on House bills, moving them right up through the calendar, as it is to complete the work by Friday of that week.

Mr. GELFAND. Well, if this House operates on a full day tomorrow, I will apologize to the Majority Leader.

Mr. McCANN. What does he consider a full day? Any day that any bill is moved in this House is a working schedule. Mr. Speaker, I know full well that it is easy to say—and I have no more desire to be here day after day, week after week, than any other Member. I have a wife and a family and I like to be home. I am here from Sunday to Friday; I have to be here. On the working days it was agreed to four days to finish up and five days next week. Tomorrow is an important day in the operation of this House.

Monday, certainly we will get some work done and we will not quite get everything done on Monday, but it is a part of the program to complete the work.

Mr. SCHWARTZ. Mr. Chairman, I am just wondering whether there is not some happy middle ground that might be reached. It seems a shame this late in the session—let me explain, I am going to be here tomorrow, so I am in no difficulty—but it seems a shame to pull the string, so to speak, at this late date and cause this difficulty and confusion. It has been a very long, hard session. Some tempers are frayed. I do not feel badly because I am here and going to be here tomorrow but some people may have to be some place else. So long as we have enough Members to do business with, I think we ought to proceed just as we have in the past. I think it is a shame to do what is contemplated as going to happen tomorrow.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House of Representatives has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 1095, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 15, 1933 (P. L. 624) entitled as amended "Banking Code" permitting purchase or investment in shares of business development credit corporations.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, it has been my policy on similar bills when it concerns savings banks, which I consider to be conservative institutions, not to invest in unlimited amounts in any, whether it is a development corporation or any other corporation that is not insured. I think I am correct in stating that this bill provides that any bank may purchase or invest in shares of state or regional development corporations.

A good many of us may be too young to remember the depression. I have gone through good times and bad times, and I feel that with the number of banking bills that we have both within the past few weeks and in the future on the calendar that we should be careful in voting on bills of this kind. This is the first Session that I have seen so many banking bills during the three sessions that I have been here, although it seems as if I have been here for twenty years since we have gone through two of the longest sessions in Pennsylvania history.

I feel that no savings banks, which should be conservative in its investments with depositors' money, should be careless, reckless or go toward the field of gambling investments. We are going more and more into making exceptions as to what conservative institutions can do, and for that reason I am against a bill of this kind.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House of Representatives has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 1170, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 26, 1949 (P. L. 1828) entitled "Fiduciaries Investment Act of 1949" providing that fiduciaries may invest in bonds and notes of the Pennsylvania Housing Agency.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. GOLDSTEIN. An examination of Senate Bill 1168 indicates that securities of the Pennsylvania Housing Agency are not an obligation of the Commonwealth. I do not care whether private insurance companies want to risk their money in an enterprise of this kind, but I do believe that fiduciaries, banks and other institutions which hold other peoples' money in a fiduciary capacity should not take that risk. We feel that is giving too much power to these particular individuals.

Mr. SCHWARTZ. Mr. Speaker, I do not think the gentleman from Allegheny need fear too much because these will be we hope, if 1168 is ever activated, legal investments. We are trying to make them such. This is no different than the FHA. This would be, in fact, a small FHA, trying to help people in the middle income groups who cannot get an FHA mortgage because they do not earn sufficient income. I ask the gentleman to go along with this package of bills because of what the package is attempting to do in our housing economy in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania—fill a real need in the middle and lower income brackets.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House of Representatives has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 1179, entitled:

An Act amending the act of July 8, 1957 (P. L. 569) entitled "Korean Conflict Veterans' Compensation Act" deleting the requirement that certain veterans be residents of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania on the effective date of the act to be eligible for compensation and making an additional appropriation.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, would the Majority Leader give us an explanation of this bill, please?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the Majority Leader consent to be interogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would just like to have an explanation. I do not understand it.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I believe Senate Bill No. 1179, Printer's No. 1550, is the bill that amended the dealing with additional appropriation to operate the Korean Conflict Bonus Bureau that we talked about, the $300,000 appropriation to operate the Korean Bonus Bureau that is needed. This is part of the money we need to pay for the operation of that bureau. We are reimbursed the entire amount of the operation that is chargeable to the bonds, from the bond cost of the total item.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I have no objection to the addition of this money for postage and other clerical expenses. However, I note on page 4 of the bill, lines 4 and 5, there is a deletion, which to me seems to mean that we are going to include certain veterans who are no longer legal residents of Pennsylvania and make them eligible for this bonus, whereas when we originally passed it they were not eligible. I would like to know how many people this involves and a little background information on it.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, for the gentleman's information, he is correct in regard to items being taken out of this bill, and the items being removed include those who are still legal residents of the Commonwealth when this Act became effective. I do not have the total figures of the number eligible but I know it is not extremely heavy because the Bureau, the Department of Military Affairs and the Veterans' organizations have all agreed to this. But I can get the figures for you as to the number of estimated Pennsylvanians qualified for the Korean bonus who became eligible because of this change.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, as I understand it, we are just changing one of the exceptions, which is item 6, which means, as I boil it down, that career service people who had four years' service prior to June 25, 1950 are excluded from the Korean bonus, except where they have been awarded the Korean Service Medal. We used to have in the bill "who are still legal residents." So this means that a regular career person who is not a resident will perhaps get the bonus, where someone who is a resident will not get it? As I read it it does not make much sense.

Mr. McCANN. No, Mr. Speaker. I do not have my notes on it, but that is not correct. I believe it would be reversed, and the men who are in active military service yet, who, when entering the military service, in their records, were Pennsylvania residents, now are eligible for the Korean bonus with this clause. Is that correct?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Yes, but I do not think that is the clause involved here.

Mr. Speaker, if the Majority Leader would agree I would like this bill passed over until we can get more complete information.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I have the complete file on this bill downstairs.

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection

Senate Bill No. 1179, Printer's No. 1550 was passed over at the request of the SPEAKER pro tempore.

BILL ON THIRD READING POSTPONED

TIME EXTENDED ON BILL

Mr. McCANN asked and obtained unanimous consent to extend the time five days on House Bill No. 814, Printer's No. 1512, on page 18 of today's calendar, bills on third reading postponed.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, may I have the pleasure of interrogating the Majority Leader?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the Majority Leader enjoy being interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I have been going over our calendar for a little while and I know that there are quite a few bills that have been put over until Monday, and of course, there will be bills on third reading tomorrow. We will have to caucus on them however, before we can move them tomorrow and I am just wondering whether rather than taking any further time, it is pretty late, we quit and have resolutions tomorrow too.

Mr. McCANN. Satisfactory. It is late. We had agreed actually on a 6:00 o'clock time, and I certainly will consent to that.

BILLS PASSED OVER

There being no objection, the remaining bills on today's calendar not considered were passed over at the request of Mr. McCANN.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE POSTPONED

TIME EXTENDED ON BILL

Mr. McCANN asked and obtained unanimous consent to extend the time five days on House Bill No. 783, Printer's No. 1794, on page 6 of today's calendar, bills on final passage postponed.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. GALLAGHER, PRENDERGAST, NELSON and SHUPNIK. HOUSE BILL No. 2451.

An Act amending the "Public School Code of 1949" approved March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30) providing for reimbursement to school districts on account of textbooks and textual materials.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

BILLS SIGNED BY SPEAKER

Bills numbered and entitled as follows having been prepared for presentation to the Governor, and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 1746.

An Act making an appropriation to the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority.

HOUSE BILL No. 1748.

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Commerce for housing and redevelopment assistance.

HOUSE BILL No. 2100.

An Act amending the act of March 6, 1956 (P. L. 1228) entitled as amended "Selective Sales and Use Tax Act" defining or re-defining certain words terms or phrases imposing tax on soft drinks at the retail level providing for alternate imposition of tax in certain cases changing procedures relative to tax refunds or credits conferring powers and imposing duties on certain persons soliciting orders by means of catalogues or other advertising changing certain provisions relating to returns assessments and basis of such assessments imposing liabilities and duties on certain sellers transferors auctioneers and certain purchasers involved in bulk sales or auction sales transactions clarifying provisions relating to liens and the priority and effect thereof providing for suits by the Commonwealth for collection of tax granting tax suit comity to certain foreign states in certain cases regulating service of notice or process authorizing abatement of additions or penalties under certain circumstances changing the department's authority regarding enforcement of rules and regulations.

HOUSE BILL No. 2326.

An Act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Executive Legislative and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth interest on the public debt and for public schools for two years beginning June 1, 1959 and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal year ending May 31, 1959.

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I wonder if I could interpose a suggestion.

Mr. Speaker, my suggestion is if the Members are leaving they might be interested in knowing what time they come in tomorrow, is it noon or 10:00 a. m.

Mr. McCANN. That and also about Monday following our conference, Mr. Johnson.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. That is right. An important announcement with respect to Monday evening.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the House will convene tomorrow at 10:00 a. m. There of course will be a break for a caucus but also we could work and get our work done, completing the votes on the bills. Tomorrow we would be in a position to vote on approximately 15 bills in addition to all the resolutions.

On Monday the plans are for the House to convene one hour sooner so that the Members will have an opportunity for a break for the evening affair. In other words instead of convening the House of Monday at 4:30 it would convene at 3:30 so that we can finish up and have sufficient time for the closing-out ceremony.

Mr. GELFAND. I wish to interrogate the Majority Leader, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the Majority Leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, am I correct in assuming that tomorrow is a full working day?

Mr. McCANN. Yes, Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is correct.

Mr. GELFAND. Inasmuch as it is a full working day, Mr. Speaker, am I correct in the notion that bills will be called up in order whether they are controversial or not controversial?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, bills will be called up in order that will be controversial and noncontroversial. There are certain bills that were agreed to be checked by various people in their respective areas and go over until Monday. For example, 1963 I think is on Monday, 2171 will be on Monday. There are certain Republican Members, certain Democrat Members who have requested that they want to check with county commissioners, different officers, and the answer will be here on Monday. That was the agreement on the bill yesterday, to pass it over until Monday so they would have the answer and could vote on Monday as they desired either for or against the bill.

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, am I correct in my assumption that no bill will be passed over because of a lack of a possible majority to vote for or against the bill.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, let us just take any particular example he wants to take. We know what bills are now cleared for Monday. The bills on second reading, I believe there are ten of them, went to third reading today. On those ten going to third reading today, the respective parties will caucus on them. I believe they are almost all House bills going over. Those bills are going to be voted upon.

In addition there should be in the neighborhood of twenty-some bills that were reported out of committee here today as the Committees met individually, Judiciary, Agriculture, Appropriations, Liquor Control, Rules, and so forth. Some are coming out on second reading from Appropriations, some are coming out on first reading, will be moved up and will be in a position to be acted upon on Monday.

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, then I am correct in assuming that no bill will be passed over due to mere absenteeism.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I do not intend to pass a bill over because of absenteeism.

Today bills have gone down, the votes were not here and the bill went down. If Members are not voting for a bill that is the end of it, except those bills that have already been agreed to for specific reason and they will be voted Monday whether they go down or pass.

Mr. GELFAND. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. GELFAND. I rise to a point of parliamentary inquiry, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. GELFAND. Is it within the province of any Member of the House to call up any bills at any time?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. It is not. Only by unanimous consent can we divert from the regular order of the calendar.

Mr. GELFAND. Is it within the province of any Member of the House to call up a bill in order?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The bill automatically is called up, or it comes up in order and is passed over by unanimous consent of the House.

Mr. GELFAND. If a Member objects?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Any Member can object, and of course, the House can then determine what action it desires to take.

Mr. GELFAND. I thank you, Mr. Speaker.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. LUIGARD from the Committee on Agriculture, re-reported as committed, House Bill No. 953, entitled:

An Act amending the "Cooperative Agricultural Non-Stock Associations Law" approved June 12, 1919 (P. L. 466), providing for deductions by Pennsylvania milk dealers and milk handlers for payments to cooperative agricultural associations.
